Lake User Fees, Renewal Terms To Be Reviewed

Three issues of concern surrounding the management of Deep Creek Lake will be brought to the table for discussion with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources in the near future, a representative of the power company which owns the lake announced last Friday.

The utility also announced that, as the result of a corporate restructuring, the company which owns the lake bed and buffer strip will now be known as General Public Utilities, or GPU. Formerly, the utility company owning the lake was known as the Pennsylvania Electric Company (Penelec). The DNR currently manages the lake for public use under a five-year agreement with the company.

The announcements came at a meeting last Friday between GPU officials, District 1 State Senator John Hafer, and lake business owners. Earlier in the morning, the GPU officials had met with Hafer, District IA Delegate George Edwards, and the Garrett County commissioners.

Open for discussion at the upcoming meeting between the DNR and GPU will be 1) if the state or county may be granted a first right of refusal if the lake should ever be put up for sale, 2) if renewal terms can be extended for the DNR's lake management agreement, and 3) if lake user fees are equitable.

Some of these issues were brought to public attention in the fall of last year when a group of lake property owners led by Mike Belmonte, president of the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association, unveiled tentative plans aimed to empower landowners in Garrett County Tax District 18 to elect a board of governors and use state-backed bonds to purchase the lake bed and buffer strip from Penelec. The state of Maryland already owns the water in the lake.

At that time, Belmonte cited concerns about increased dock fees and uncertainty about the future ownership of the lake. However, the group was not able to see its 16-page enabling legislation submit-

NEGOTIATIONS ON LAKE ISSUES ANNOUNCED - Following a meeting with representatives of local and state government, officials with the utility company which owns Deep Creek Lake announced that three issues surrounding the management of the lake will be brought to the negotiation table in the not-too-distant future. Lake user fees and the company's lake management agreement with the DNR will be among the issues discussed. Pictured above, left to right, following a meeting with lake-area business leaders, are Carl Brooks and Carole Snyder, both utility vice-presidents; District 1 State Senator John Hafer; and utility attorney Tim Atherton. MSP Arrest Baltimore Man On CDS Charges

A Baltimore man was charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) after his Sunday evening arrest on Rt. 40, near Keyser's Ridge.

According to a report filed by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, a call received from Cumberland barrack about a man who was walking in traffic along Rt. 40, near Keyser's Ridge, led to the apprehension and subsequent arrest of Darrell Glenn McNath, 32, who was observed walking along the highway clad in a pair of jeans and no shirt. McNath apparently told the responding trooper that his car had burned and he was trying to get to it.

The trooper stated that the subject was unsteady on his feet, had glazed eyes, and garbled speech. Prior to placing McNath in his cruiser, he asked him if he had any weapons. The report indicated that McNath turned away and appeared to put his hand in his pocket in an attempt to throw something away. It was then discovered that McNath had two plastic bottles in his pocket - one with a prescription for methadone, and one labeled with a children's pain reliever. An inspection of the containers led to the apparent identification and confiscation of 67 tablets of Klonopin, 35 tablets of Percocet, and 14 tablets of Methadone, all potentially addictive prescription drugs, most of which were reportedly not prescribed to McNath.

Following his arrest, McNath was taken to the to the state police barrack for processing, then before a district court commissioner. He was later released.

Tuesday Wrecks Send Several People To Garrett Memorial For Treatment

Several people were treated and released at Garrett County Memorial Hospital on Tuesday following a series of unrelated vehicle accidents on Garrett County roads, according to reports filed with the Maryland State Police at Barrack W, McHenry.

A multi-vehicle accident at the intersection of Rts. 135 and 560 in Mountain Lake Park Tuesday morning sent two people to Garrett Memorial's emergency room for treatment. Susan Martin, 43, Gormania, W.Va., and a passenger in her vehicle, Jill Ellen Martin, 17, were injured in the 9 a.m. crash.

The accident occurred when Martin's 1988 Dodge Dynasty collided with a 1990 Ford F-150 pickup truck operated by Hubert Evans, 84, Aurora, W.Va., as the vehicles entered the intersection.

State police said Evans's vehicle was traveling east on Rt. 135, and Martin was headed north on Rt. 560. Both vehicles entered the intersection and struck one another, according to the report. The pickup truck then reportedly continued east and struck a third vehicle operated by Shauna L. Perrine, 28, Oakland, which was stopped in traffic. Perrine's 1988 Oldsmobile Cutlass, was reportedly pushed backwards, causing it to strike a 1989 Ford van, operated by Donald M. Teagarden, 65, also of Oakland. Neither Perrine, Teagarden, nor their passengers were injured, according to the police report.

No charges were filed in the accident. Also responding to the scene were members of the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad and the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department.

Barn Destroyed By Fire; Cause Still Unknown

The investigation into the cause of a fire that destroyed a barn in Deer Park last Thursday night is still in process, according to the Public Affairs Unit of the State Fire Marshal's Office. Volunteers from the Deer Park, Oakland, Bittinger, Gorman, and Deep Creek fire departments were summoned to the property of Everett B. DeBerry, 46 Main Street, at 10:19 p.m. Upon their arrival they found the 38x48-foot pole barn fully involved in flames.

Eighteen cows were rescued from the building, which was of wood frame with a tin roof.Some chickens and a rabbit were destroyed in the blaze. It took about 45 minutes for the approximately 45 fire fighters to bring the fire under control; however, it took several more hours to extinguish the hay that was in the structure. The fire then rekindled on Friday and Deer Park VFD personnel returned to the scene.

Deputy Fire Marshal Bruce Shafer is conducting the investigation into the incident, and estimated the loss to be $18,000. The owner did have insurance on the property.

The fire was discovered by a passerby. Also responding to the scene was a unit from the Southern Rescue Squad, as well as the county air cascade vehicle, presently being housed by the Bittinger VFD. There were no injuries reported. Placed on standby status were the Terra Alta VFD for Oakland and the Kitzmiller VFD for Deer Park.

Savage Bridge Work May Begin By Next Week

The Garrett County Roads Department received two bids for repair of the Savage River Bridge this week, and Lee Thorne, interim roads director, hopes to have a crane in place by next week to start removing the old bridge structure.

The bridge has been out of commission since January, when winter floods caused the bridge's piers to drop, in turn causing the bridge's superstructure, or roadway, to twist. Area residents last month delivered a petition bearing 300 names to the Garrett County commissioners asking that the bridge be repaired.

The two bids, one from Mabey Bridge and Shore, Inc., Baltimore, and the other from Acrow Corp., Carlstadt, N.J., differ by approximately $10,000, Thorne said. He is currently reviewing both bids, and a contract award may be made as soon as Tuesday.

Missing Boy Is Located In MLP

Wheeling Symphony To Perform At Annual "Celebration Of The Arts"

The Tucker County Arts Council has planned the sixth annual Celebration of the Arts for Saturday, July 6, at the Canaan Valley State Park, Davis, W.Va. The festival, which is free to the public, will feature a concert by the Wheeling Symphony, under the direction of Maestra Rachael Worby. The event is sponsored by the Tucker Arts Council with funding from the West Virginia Division of Culture and History and the National Endowment for the Arts.

The concert will feature the talents of Donna Theodore, vocal soloist, and will begin at 6 p.m., one hour earlier than in years past.

Prior to the symphony's presentation, George Daugherty will perform a musical tribute to America and West Virginia as "The Earl of Elkview." Daugherty is described as an entertainer, humorist, actor, songwriter, and musician who will "amuse and fascinate" with his performance.

Those attending are encouraged to bring lawn chairs, blankets, and sunscreen (the sun's rays are more intense at 3,400 feet, an event organizer noted). Guests may also need a jacket for when the sun goes down.

Guest Services, Inc., will offer concessions on site. The stage and dining areas will be covered during the Celebration and the event will take place rain or shine.

For more information, persons may contact the Tucker County Convention and Visitors Bureau at 1-800-782-2775.

Pesticide Vessel Recycling Slated

The Garrett County Office of Solid Waste, in conjunction with the Maryland Department of Agriculture, will conduct three pesticide container recycling events for area farmers and commercial pesticide applicators on July 10, August 6, and September 24 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day.

The events will be held at the Bumble Bee Road colection site, McHenry, and are open, free of charge, to all farmers, agricultural applicators, and other pesticide users from Garrett and Allegany counties.

All non-refillable, high-density plastic pesticide containers and agriculture adjuvant containers are eligible for recycling as part of the program. Consumer or homeowner chemical containers, motor oil, anti-freeze, and other similar containers cannot be accepted. Before the empty pesticide containers can be accepted for recycling, they must be visually inspected by MDA employees to ensure that they are clean and free of residue.

For more information, persons may contact the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling at 387-0322.

Fireworks To Explode Over Broadford Lake

Broadford Lake Park, Oakland, will again be the site of holiday festivities, including a fireworks display, today, July 4.

The day of events and activities will feature games for children and a fireworks display at 9:30 p.m. A food booth with grilled hamburgers and hot dogs will be operated by local Boy Scouts. Park planners have announced that this year's July 4th celebration at the lake "promises to be one of the biggest yet."

On Friday, the park will be the site of a children's water gun battle. Children are invited to bring squirt guns, and prizes will be awarded.

THE LADIES OF RIVER CITY are extremely concerned about the local librarian, Marion Paroo, whom they believe advocates "dirty books" by allowing such works as Chaucer to be on the library shelves. Rehearsals for the Garrett Choral Society's production of The Music Man are reaching their peak, as the play will open Saturday, July 13, on the Southern High School stage and be presented five times. Tickets for the play, which is under the direction of Nancy Learey, are available at Englander's Pharmacy, Deep Creek Pharmacy, Arrowhead Grocery & Deli, and from Choral Society members. Cast members pictured above include, from left: Jean Coviello, Barb Taylor, Kaye Carlson as Mrs. Shinn, Bea Crosco, and Bobbi Henderson.

STAR, STRIPES, AND FUN FOR ALL will be on tap this week as nearby Terra Alta, W.Va., welcomes visitors to the state's oldest continuous Independence Day celebration. Now in its 70th year, the five-day event began Monday, and will continue through Saturday, July 6, featuring a carnival with rides, daily entertainment by local and regional bands, an arts and crafts show, a parade at 3 p.m. today (Thursday), a "fireworks extravaganza" beginning at 10 p.m. on Friday, and the ever popular demolition derby set for 5 p.m. on Saturday. The celebration is sponsored each year by the Terra Alta Volunteer Fire Department, and the sunny forecast promised for this year's event should bring record crowds to the mountaintop town. Reigning over the festivities is Miss Fireworks 1996, Teri Queen, pictured above, who received her crown during a coronation Monday evening to officially kick off the celebration. THIS MULTI-CAR CRASH that occurred Tuesday afternoon at the intersection of Rts. 135 and 560 in Mtn. Lake Park, sent two West Virginia women to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment. Perrino, 28, Oakland, that was stopped in traffic. Perrine's vehicle was subsequently pushed into a fourth vehicle (not pictured), operated by Donald M. Teagarden, 65, also of Oakland. The accident was investigated by the Maryland State Police (See related story.)

Foxfire is based on a series of books and articles written by school children about their parents and grandparents and their traditional ways of life in the north Georgia mountains. Two-Vehicle Crash Injures W.Va. Woman

A Davis, W.Va., woman was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a two-vehicle accident Tuesday afternoon in downtown Oakland.

According to a report filed with the Oakland City Police, Virginia Lea Flynn, 43, was injured when the 1989 Ford Escort she was operating north on Third Street, at the intersection with Alder Street, was struck by a 1986 Dodge car, operated by Michael W. Welch, 31, Oakland.

Police said Welch, who was traveling south on Third Street, failed to yield right-of-way as he attempted to make a left turn onto Alder Street. He was apparently uninjured, and was cited in the 3 p.m. mishap.

Also responding to the scene were members of Southern Garrett Rescue Squad, who transported Flynn to the hospital.

Sheriff's Office Arrests Logged

Several individuals were arrested by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week, with charges mainly involving battery and/or assault. An arrest for driving while intoxicated (DWI) was also noted.

James M. Reckart, 42, Oakland, was charged with battery early Sunday morning following an apparent altercation with his girlfriend, Kathy P. Shaffer. He is accused of pulling her by the arm out of the house at 1:30 in the morning. According to the complainant's report, Reckart has mistreated her in the past.

A charge of assault and battery was incurred by Jay S. Dixon, 26, Swanton. He reportedly got into an argument with his mother, Barbara A. Dixon, 51, and tried to choke her. Officers noted that the victim had distinct red marks on her neck after the incident. It occurred at a convenience store in Mountain Lake Park, according to the report.

Tammy J. House, 26, Swanton, was arrested on June 30 on the charge of battery. She is also accused of assaulting Barbara A. Dixon, although no other details of the arrest were noted.

A Mountain Lake Park man was charged by the sheriff's office for disorderly conduct on Saturday at about 11 p.m., according to the report. Michael N. Witt, 20, was apparently intoxicated and was causing a disturbance at the Highview Apartments. According to the report, he struck a brick wall with his fist and broke a bottle, cutting his hand in the process. He allegedly shouted obscenities in front of at least 20 witnesses, and continued to do so after being asked by deputies to quiet down.

Witt was then charged by the deputies with the disorderly charge and was also cited for underage drinking of alcohol. He was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment of his hand, and then on to the local jail. Witt was released on his own recognizance later that day.

David A. Wolfe, 24, Mtn. Lake Park, was charged with DWI on June 27. No other details on this arrest were available at the sheriff's office.

Two bench warrants were issued for the arrest of Timothy A. Welch, 30, Loch Lynn. He reportedly failed to appear in court.

Dana J. Rush, 36, Oakland, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant for failure to appear in court, according to the police log.

Ave. and 11 Street in Mtn. Lake Park sent one person to Garrett Memorial Hospital.

Steven G. Stark, 23, Oakland, was injured when the 1992 Toyota Corolla he was operating on Baltimore Ave., struck a 1995 Dodge Caravan operated by Judith A. Upole, 48, Oakland, which was entering the intersection from 11 Street. Upole told police that her view was obstructed by a parked car, and she pulled into the path of Stark's vehicle, causing the collision.

Upole was reportedly uninjured in the mishap. She was cited in the incident. Southern Rescue Squad and the Oakland VFD also responded to the 6:15 p.m. accident.

The third accident occurred on Rt. 495, north of Bittinger, when a 1994 Plymouth Duster, operated by Dale L. Yutzy, 18, Grantsville, skidded off the road and struck a telephone pole. Yutzy and his passengers, Jessica L. Yutzy, 2, and Gerald K. Yutzy Jr., 9, were all taken to the hospital by Northern Garrett Rescue Squad.

No charges were filed in the 6:15 p.m. mishap, according to the police report. Also responding to the scene were volunteers from the Bittinger fire department.

CORRECTION NOTED

In last week's issue of The Republican, a report involving a Grantsville man who was seriously injured when his pickup truck struck a highway sign that was lying on the roadway, contained an error.

Because of incorrect information received, it was reported that Scott Dewain Smith, 24, was injured when his vehicle struck a construction warning sign owned by the State Highway Administration. The sign, which read "work area," is owned by Asplundh, a tree trimming/spraying company, not the SHA.

Pfc. A.S. MacLane is continuing his investigation into the June 25 accident. Smith, who was ejected from the vehicle and suffered severe head injuries, has been a patient at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland since the accident. His condition Wednesday morning was listed as "stable," according to a hospital spokesperson.

This summer's performance is being produced by Valley Ridge Studio, which has produced Front Street Cabaret Theatre for the past five summers in Thomas.

Directing the performance is E. Reid Gilbert, who is also playing the role of Hector, the deceased husband of Annie (Aunt Arie Carpenter), who is being played by Charlotte Leisinger of Detroit, Mich. Although the show is not a musical, it does contain some mountain music with local musicians performing on fiddle, banjo, bass fiddle, and guitar.

Let's Celebrate...

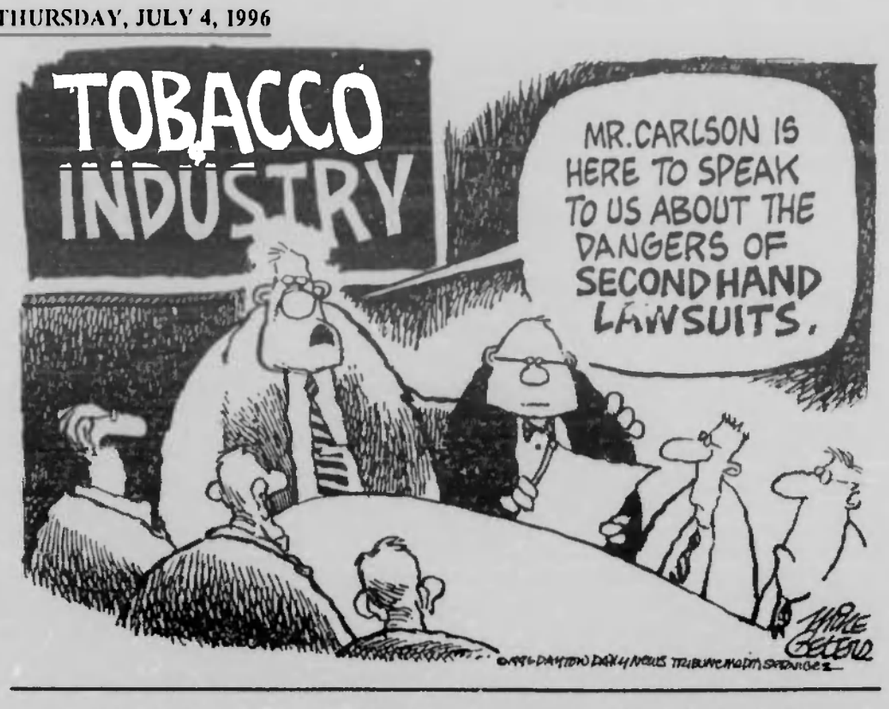
Barbecues, boating, swimming, parties, and fireworks will be among the activities of the next few days, as our nation once again celebrates Independence Day and remembers what a blessing it is to live in a free society. Making the message more poignant this year for all Americans will be the 1996 Olympics that will open in Atlanta in about two weeks. The opening ceremonies, most likely followed by many playings of the Star Spangled Banner as our athletes garner gold medals in their respective competitions, will swell the pride in each one of us observers throughout the course of these games.

It was in the opening ceremonies of the 1936 Olympics in Berlin, Germany, that every flag bearer slightly lowered his flag when his team passed before the leader of the host nation - every bearer except the one for the United States, who refused to dip the American flag. It happened that this particular leader was Adolph Hitler; however, the U.S. bearer refused not because it was Hitler, whose evilness was still basically unknown at the time. He refused simply because he decided that the U.S. flag should not be lowered for any earthly leader.

Was it discourteous? Some may think so; but we believe that no nation should feel obliged to lower its flag for any host country's leader, just as we believe no nation should be or feel subservient to another. Citizenship and national pride are valuable, personal gifts that are, or should be, of equal value to each and every person.

Of course, we reiterate that it is what our flag represents, and not the material flag itself, that is precious and must be protected. Flags are but symbols of things infinitely more important, including - ironically - the freedom of expression for one who may choose to desecrate the symbol and not be punished, despite the repugnancy of such an act.

We hope all U.S. citizens will choose to set aside this July 4 to show respect, to recognize the privilege, and to celebrate what it means to be an American.



Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Re: your editorial on the federal court's position on banning "smut" on the internet, the following thoughts occur to me.

Our penchant for using the scientific method to solve our problems in this country has lead us to apply the same equation to our social ills as well. When we write a law we seek formula in substitute for judgment. The litmus test for "good law" is a kind of psychological jujitsu wherein the suggested legislation is applied to the most bizarre case imaginable. If the resuh falls on the desired side, then it is deemed "good law." if not, it is deemed "bad law."

I was born in 1928 in the United States and have spent my entire life in this country, with brief wartime excursions elsewhere. I grew up with censorship. I grew up with corporal punishment. I do not consider myself to have been an abused child or a deprived adult. On balance the adults in my life acted with my best interest at heart.

I was not allowed to read filthy books. The librarian would not have allowed it. I did not hear music on the radio with unacceptable lyrics. The radio station would not have played it. The "Hays Office," created by F.D.R., made sure the good guys wore white hats and the bad guys wore black hats and that the bad guys always went to jail or, at the very least, did not profit from their ill-gotten gains.

There was no movement to suppress any political point of view by using any of these censorship agencies. There was a lot of discussion about communism and fascism and adultery and all of the things we talk about today. But that discussion was not a part of my awareness until I was a young adult. I do not consider myself having missed out on anything. I even had some religious training, however lame it may have been. By the way, I am not a member of any church, sect or other type of spiritually based organization.

In final analysis we, and our parents, delivered to this generation of adults a country with boundless energy, infinite spirit, and rich in material and intelleetual wealth beyond belief. Over time we have been made to believe that everyone has the right to shout obscenities at us, subject our children to obscenities, and all in the name of "free speech." If we want to not hear or see this all we have to do is not participate in life. Just don't go to the movies. Don't go on the internet. Don't turn on the radio and listen to "music." Embracing that philosophy is turning this country into a social slime-pit.

The thesis that there cannot be control over verbal abuse and insult and the exposition of filth in public because it inhibits some one's right to free speech is patently absurd.

The idea that a legal system cannot be expected to deal with judging what is unacceptable and what is not simply means that our legal system is populated with fools. If it is, we need to change it. Not the system. Just the fools. It should not be necessary to write down all the words and phrases in a list and measure each author's line against it to administer some reasonable control over the preservation of what used to be called "common decency".

Is it a lot of work? Yes! Is it expensive? Yes! Is it necessary? You bet!

When you allow children to swear at their teacher and get away with it, what does that say to the whole group of children?

I read into your editorial a deep, paralyzing fear that if we should undertake to control these simple social practices that we would open the door to the religious nut cases to demand censorship of practically everything to a ridiculous degree.

Indeed, when I was growing up there were some counties in Maryland which did not allow dancing. I thought it was pretty stupid, so we went somewhere else to dance. We must not embrace one extreme doctrine out of fear of putting ourselves at risk of attack from the opposite extreme. We must fight for balance. If the pendulum is allowed to swing this way too far, when it swings back the backlash will be just as extreme.

Your penultimate paragraph is confusing to me. Government does enact laws and mete punishment. Laws do describe what a society has deemed to be right behavior and wrong behavior but that says everything about values. That, sir, is what values are. You are right, it is the job of the parent to set examples. But, it is also the job of this paper and our local radio station and our TV stations and the people on the internet to set the same examples. You cannot think for one minute they will do it without some nudging from government or other controlling body.

A philosopher does without being commanded what others do for fear of laws (Aristotle). Alas! We are not all philosophers.

When I was a 9-year-old we were living in a small town in Texas where my mother was raised. If I was at one end of town and did something wrong, no matter how fast I rode my bike home, my mother knew about it before I hit the door. The only scars I carried were those on my pride at the time. They disappeared quickly.

Re: the internet specifically, I believe that it is only a matter of time when the federal government must wake up to the fact that the telephone system in this country is much like the mail system. Though not public in ownership, we should have laws which prohibit using the telephone to defraud in the same context that we have the postal laws which prevent the US mail from being used to defraud. Along with this could and should go a ban on smut whether spoken or computerized and handled strictly on a complaint basis. That is to say, the government does not need to eavesdrop. If someone calls you and uses smutty language or you encounter smut on your computer net, then you complain to the appropriate authorities in the same way you would report a fraud which had been perpetrated on you.

You are worried about taking away freedom? I would like my freedom restored. I would like to be free to participate in normal day to day public activities without the fear of being exposed to indecency, and that includes the internet.

Respectfully,
Frank Parish
Swanton

To the Editor:

The current effort to deter drug trafficking has resulted in further impairment of our Constitution's Fourth Amendment prohibition against unreasonable searches and seizures of our property. Police officers may stop motorists for minor traffic violations where the real motive is to look for evidence of drug trafficking.

On June 10, 1996 the U. S., Supreme Court unanimously upheld the Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit affirming convictions of two men for possessing crack cocaine, marijuana and PCP. They were stopped by under cover narcotics officers after pausing too long at a stop sign and one officer noticed two large plastic bags of what appeared to be crack cocaine. The defendants argued that the traffic stop was an unlawful pretext and that a traffic stop should be permitted only if an officer would have stopped the car for the suspected traffic violation absent any other circumstances. Undercover narcotics officers in the District are not supposed to enforce traffic laws unless a violation "is so grave as to pose an immediate threat to the safety of others."

Writing for the Court, Justice Antonin Scalia said that police may use traffic stops to investigate serious crimes and that an ulterior motive does not strip officers of their justification for a stop. "For the run-of-the-mine case, which this surely is, we think there is no realistic alternative to the traditional common-law rule that probable cause justifies a search and seizure." Whren v. United States.

Steven R. Shapiro of the American Civil Liberties Union said, "This is an opinion that essentially allows police to do an end run around the Fourth Amendment." Motorists now are more likely to be subject to arbitrary stops. In addition to Fourth Amendment questions, police practices have become a civil rights issue for African Americans because in some cases race has been part of a drug courier "profile", given as justification for a traffic stop. Some statistics show that blacks are stopped more frequently than whites.

Arrest Man

An early Friday morning single-vehicle accident on the Glendale Road led to DWI (driving while intoxicated) charges being filed against a Swanton man.

State police charged 46-year-old David Charles Hoadley, who was injured in the 12:30 a.m. mishap, was traveling east on the Glendale Road, at the intersection with the Glen Cove Road, when the 1996 Dodge Avenger he was operating traveled off the right side of the road and struck a tree. The vehicle then reportedly spun around and then struck a second tree.

Hoadley was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Northern Garrett Rescue Squad, where he was treated and released.

DWI ARREST

One additional DWI arrest was logged at the McHenry barrack during the past week.

Samuel James Wagner, 20, no address given, was charged with DWI on June 29, by Tfc. Mark Clapper.

Friends were received at the Newman Funeral Home, McHenry. A service was conducted at St. Paul's Lutheran Church on Sunday, June 30, with the Rev. Roland E. Nairn III officiating, and the Rev. William Carlson and the Rev. Wilfred Karsten assisting. Interment followed in St. Paul's Cemetery. Graveside military rites were accorded by area veterans organizations.

Looking at Windows -- Part 3

We began peeking inside Windows last week, and we learned about the Program Manager window. This time, let's look at the primary program groups available from the Program Manager. Remember that a program group is just a cluster of related programs. It is just like a drawer in your filing cabinet.

The major program groups that come with Windows are called Main, Accessories, StartUp and Games. You may also have other program groups that were added by the person who set up your computer or owned it last. Typical additional program groups include Microsoft Office, Lotus Applications, Adobe Type Manager and Network ntilities. There could be quite a lot of these program groups on your computer, and I can't begin to go into all of them in the space I have here.

The Main program group is a collection of functions that are used to manage your computer. For example, the File Manager is used to copy, delete, move and report on the files on your computer. (A file is usually one of two things. It may be computer code that performs some service for you, such as word processing or spreadsheet accounting. Or a file may consist of data, such as your letter or expense account.)

File Manager displays the files on all your disk drives. You probably have at least one "hard' disk drive (meaning that it is permanently attached to your computer -- usually inside it). You probably also have one diskette drive. (Computer nerds like to call them "floppy" disks because the original ones were extremely flexible, but they haven't been floppy in many years. They are now inside hard plastic envelopes for protection). You may even have more than one of each of these types of disks.

From the Main program group, you can also access the Control Panel program. As its name implies, the Control Panel allows you to control many of Windows' settings. To see what each icon does, just click on it once. Then, its function will be displayed at the bottom of the window.

Using the Control Panel is actually a lot of fun. With it, you can change the screen colors, select different "wallpaper" for the background of your Windows desktop, and choose a screen saver for when your computer is idle.

You can also do more serious things, such as setting up printers and modems (the devices used to communicate over phone lines with another computer or fax machine) if your mouse moves too quickly or slowly for you to control it comfortably, you can change its settings.

That's a high-level look at the Main program group. Next week, we'll look at some additional program groups.

DECLARATION OF FOOD INDEPENDENCE

There is a right without which no people can remain free. It is a right that no one, to date, has tried to take away, but which many have been successful in talking us out of exercising, namely the right to produce our own food.

From 1910 to 1990 we, as a nation, went from having about 33 to about three percent of the population living on farms. As a nation we were persuaded that food production is something best left to experts of which we would need fewer and fewer every year.

There were always serious flaws in such thinking but any stupidity will come to be widely believed if it is repeated often enough. The propaganda has become so successful that hardly any mainstream farmers raise their own food. Their wives go to the supermarket like everybody else.

The microscopic hairline cracks in the theory have become great gaping holes in countries like Sudan, Somalia and Ethiopia where subsistence agriculture has been replaced by the green revolution and famine. In the USA we have been lulled by grocery stores so full that boxes are stacked in the aisle.

Another flaw has been the emphasis, almost to the exclusion of any other, on cheap food as the premier goal of American agricultural policy. One by one, other industrialized nations have shifted their primary agricultural policy goal from food security to cheap food. Food security is an excellent long-term policy goal with considerable short-term costs. Cheap food is a disastrous long--term policy goal with tremendous short-term benefits.

The third factor has been the race among trans-national companies (the petro-chemical companies in the forefront) to control the production of food and fiber world-wide. The combined net effort of these trends has been to create an international dependence of the people upon a few corporate producers, with a consequent risk to our liberty. For when a people does not control its food supply it cannot be sure of its freedoms.

Have any of these big-picture trends begun to show up on the shelf? I suggest that the sad state of our grain reserves is partly the result of them. We have a 113-day reserve supply of oats but we only produce 60% of what we use, and import the rest. The barley situation is similar. We have a 74-day reserve, but we only produce 90% of our need. With sorghum we get a different picture, we have a 32-day reserve, but that low level is due to continued exports.

We have only a 53-day reserve of wheat, but again the low reserves are largely due to exports. We have allowed our corn reserves to fall to a 27-day supply, exporting about 25% of our domestic production. To be honest, I am surprised there is any corn left to sell in this country when the local price has been as high as $5.60 per bushel this past spring. Not only are reserves in terrible shape, but we, apparently, have no mechanism to intervene in the realm of exports regardless of how far grain stacks fall. Cheap food may turn out to be very expensive.

All of a sudden, my little potato patch seems more significant in light of USDA policy in general and the condition of grain reserves in specific.

I suggest we publish on banners in the streets of every village and town, on the rural dirt roads and in the cities, too, the definition of "farmer" given by Laura Ingalls Wilder in Farmer Boy. "A farmer depends upon himself, and the land and the weather. If you're a farmer, you raise what you eat, you raise what you wear, and you keep warm with wood out of your own timber. You work hard, but you work as you please, and no man can tell you to go or come. You'll be free and independent, son, on a farm." It is a definition that few of us on the farm can meet. Perhaps that will engender a little humility and a great deal of determination toward the task before us.

State Grants $47,000 To GC Arts Council

The Garrett County Arts Council (GCAC) has received a Community Arts Development grant of $47,395 from the Maryland State Arts Council for fiscal year 1997.

"We very much appreciate the active and dedicated support of the state in our work to promote the arts locally," stated Steve Schlosnagle, GCAC administrator. "This strong support has enabled us to award $21,450 in grants to local arts organizations so far this fiscal year. We are now in a position to consider additional grant applications."

In addition to granting funds to local organizations for arts activities, the GCAC publishes a quarterly newsletter and calendar of events, sponsors the annual Heritage Craft Festival during the Autumn Glory Festival, provides funding for permanent outdoor art installations, and directs a summer arts workshop program for county residents and visitors.

The local council also plans to publish a 1997 wall calendar featuring the work of 13 Garrett County artists.

The GCAC will observe its 20th anniversary on September 7, with a public program featuring local performing artists at Garrett Community College.

"The arts are an essential part of the quality of life we offer our citizens," stated Governor Parris Glendening in a press release announcing the grant award. "By supporting county arts council organizations through the Community Arts Development grant program, we are ensuring that all Marylanders will benefit from a strong and vibrant arts community."

The CAD program supports county arts councils in each of Maryland's 23 counties and Baltimore City. The funds are used to defer the councils' operating expenses and to assist local arts programs and organizations.

"The arts not only enrich our lives, they also bring a strong economic benefit to our communities as well," stated James Brady, secretary of the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development in the grant announcement. "Last year more than 9.6 million people attended arts events in Maryland. The arts had an economic impact of $634 million on the Maryland economy, generating $21 million in state and local taxes."

The mission of the Maryland State Arts Council is to identify, develop, and sustain artistic excellence wherever it exists in Maryland; to make art of high quality increasingly available to all citizens; and to encourage the active and supportive relationship between arts and the public that is essential to the cultural development of the state, a spokesperson said.

LOCAL ARTS COUNCIL RECEIVES GRANT - During a recent meeting of the Garrett County Arts Council, Shirley Giaritta, representing the Maryland State Arts Council, presented a Community Arts Development grant of $47,395 to Ron Skidmore, GCAC president. The grant funds will be used to support local arts organizations and projects and to defer the local council's operating expenses. Last year, the GCAC handed out over $40,000 for local arts programs, and has distributed nearly $25,000 so far this year. Giaritta serves as director of the Allegany County Arts Council.

TWO CHARACTERS FROM AMERICA'S PAST will appear under the tent at Garrett Community College on Saturday, July 6, at 7 p.m. when the Maryland Humanities Council presents "Chautauqua: A Voice in America." Ann Seville, author and researcher, will portray former first lady Eleanor Roosevelt. Seville has made over 60 portrayals of Mrs. Roosevelt based on her extensive research. Charles Everett Pace, a veteran of the Great Plains Chautauqua Society, will portray former slave Frederick Douglass. Clay Jenkinson will appear on stage as Thomas Jefferson on Friday, July 5, at 7 p.m. Both programs will be preceded by a brief musical program by Tom and Susan Peterson on Friday evening and the Marsh Mountain Recorder Consort on Saturday evening. The Chautauqua programs are open to the public free of charge.

Earles Is New President Of Arts Council

Helen Earles was elected president of the Garrett County Arts Council at the organization's annual membership meeting held recently at Garrett Community College. Charity Janssen was elected vice-president, Willetta Rissell was named secretary, and Clint Englander was chosen as treasurer.

Also during the meeting, Outgoing President Ronald Skidmore was presented with a certificate of appreciation in recognition of "four outstanding years as president of the board of directors."

Before adjourning, the council members adopted new by-laws and President Earles commented on the impact of the arts on the quality of life and economic development in the county and discussed the potential for future arts development.

Special projects of the council for the past year have included the 16th annual Heritage Craft Festival, directed by Marcette Danner, which realized a gross income of over $12,000 as well as the commission of an outdoor sculpture for installation at Swallow Falls State Park; funding support for an outdoor mural project sponsored by the Ecumenical Youth Ministry; presentation of a summer workshop program offering 24 art classes to county residents and visitors; and planning for the publication of a 1997 wall calendar featuring the work of 13 Garrett County artists. The council plans to produce a total of 3,000 of these calendars.

Other recent council activities were the presentation of a Vietnamese music concert at Garrett Community College, the awarding scholarships to students attending last year's Allegany-Garrett County Summer Fine Arts Camp, and the publication of an expanded quarterly newsletter and calendar of events.

The Garrett County Arts Council was incorporated in 1976 as a nonprofit organization to "aid, encourage, advance, and coordinate activities dedicated to the promotion of cultural arts in Garrett County." The council was recognized as the county's official arts agency by the Garrett County Board of Commissioners in 1993.

After Year Of Work, Lioness Club Dedicates Grantsville Playground

After months of effort, the Grantsville Lioness Club conducted formal dedication ceremonies for the newly constructed playground at the Grantsville community park during the Grantsville Days celebration last weekend.

The dedication, the culmination of a one year project by the Lioness Club, was attended by District 1 State Senator John Hafer, District 1A Delegate George Edwards, Garrett County Commissioners John Braskey and Wayne Wilt, Grantsville Mayor Fred Holliday, and other government and Lions Club officials.

The Lioness Club kicked off the playground project during last year's Grantsville Days, and spent several months raising the $50,000 price tag for the modern playground equipment. The club conducted numerous fundraising events, and the town of Grantsville agreed to provide matching funds up to $25,000. The equipment was installed in May and now rings with the sounds of children.

"I am still truly amazed at the generosity of the Grantsville community in monetary support as well as well as labor and services which we received during this project," stated Joan Holliday, Lioness Club president, during her address at the dedication ceremony. "I am proud to live in such a community.

"The results of the project, I think, are outstanding. I feel sure that this playground will rival any in the state or any neighboring states," she added. "Again, I want to thank each and every person, business, church, and organization which had a hand in this true success story."

In addition to money, community members donated goods, services, and their own labor to bring the project to fruition.

The honor of officially dedicating the playground went to Margaret Hershberger, wife of the late Donald Hershberger who served as park chairman when the Lions Club built the original playground at the Grantsville Park approximately 20 years ago.

When the Grantsville Lioness Club was formed seven years ago, the group chose the community playground at its special service project. A merry-go-round was purchased for the playground in 1993, and is still in place alongside the new equipment.

Last year the group purchased paint for the original playground equipment, which has since been donated to Grantsville Elementary.

"Last year at Grantsville Days we first launched our project of acquiring a new, state-of-the-art playground for the park," Holliday told the crowd gathered at the dedication ceremony. "When we mentioned the amount of $50,000, most people thought we were crazy. Some of the Lioness members weren't so sure about it, either. But, we were encouraged when a few local people put $100 donations in our jar and started the ball rolling. We asked for donations from all of the area businesses, organizations, churches, and individuals. The response has been outstanding."

The Lioness Club is still accepting donations for the playground project, and plans to erect a permanent sign at the site in September recognizing contributors.

The Lioness Club raised over $5,000 for the project through three major fundraisers: a community yard sale and chicken barbecue, a haunted house, and a benefit auction. With matching funds from the town, the club reached its goal of $50,000 in December of 1995, only six months after kicking off the project.

The installation of the equipment took three days labor, from 7 a.m. until dark each day. Many volunteers assisted.

"During the installation weekend, everyone worked so hard to finish the project," Holliday said. She went on to recognize three youths -- Petey Stein, Tyler Sweeney, and Chris Baker -- who "worked all three days, morning until night, right along side their fathers. They got tired but kept on going."

Before the ceremony, Holliday reflected on the effort that went into the playground project.

"It has been a hard year, and many, many hours of work have gone into this undertaking," she said.

Lioness members who participated in the project were Sue Beachy, Carolyn Debose, Debbie Klotz, Genny Raley, Donna Schulte, Phyllis Finzle, Carol Bowen, Candy Fetterly, Anne Kolbfleisch, Zip Robeson, Jean Swauger, Carole Newman, Pam Braskey, Gloria Hitchins, Martha Leese, Maxine Ross, Linda Towers, Marilyn Schoenian, Lula Brown, Mary Jo Johnson, Joyce and Nancy Watkins, as well Race, Josephine Schoenian, as Holliday.

CHILDREN'S BOOK MONTH PROCLAIMED - Representatives of the Ruth Enlow Library and the organizing committee for the 8th Annual American Trust Bank Charity Golf Tournament came before the Garrett County Board of Commissioners recently as the board proclaimed July to be Children's Book Month in the county. Again this year, proceeds from the golf tourney, slated for Friday, July 19, at the Oakland Golf Club, will go to benefit the children's book fund of the Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library. July 12 Blood Drive Set In Friendsville

The Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross will conduct a bloodmobile in Friendsville on Friday, July 12, from noon to 6 p.m. at the Friendsville fire hall. The blood drive is intended to help insure an adequate supply of blood and blood products during the summer months.

According to Elizabeth Huxford, chapter blood services chairperson, people are needed to give blood during the summer months to help guarantee enough blood and blood products to provide an adequate supply for cancer patients, accident victims, surgery patients, and others who depend on donated blood.

"As can be expected during the summer time, fewer people donate blood," Huxford explained. "Warm weather and vacations all affect several sponsors that we typically see during other times of the year for bloodmobiles, such as schools and businesses. This can result in fewer donations because these sponsors are not able to provide the donations that we need to help keep a steady supply of blood."

Also, with the increased potential for outdoor accidents during the summer, Huxford commented that it is very important that there is a sufficient supply of blood. Type O blood is particularly important because it can be safely transfused in an emergency to patients with other blood types.

"We need to let people know that just because it's summer, they should not take a vacation from donating blood," Huxford remarked.

The Red Cross bloodmobile will also visit Oakland on Friday, July 19, at the Oakland Armory from noon to 6 p.m.

Miss Case Marries Mr. Wright In June Ceremony At Oglebay Park

Katherine Frances Case and Lee Robert Wright were united in marriage on June 29. The bride is the daughter of Charles C. and Susan Case of Deep Creek Lake. Mr. Wright is the son of Dennis and Carol Wright, Wheeling, W. Va.

The double ring ceremony took place at 5:30 p.m. in the Formal Gardens of Oglebay Park in Wheeling, with the Rev. Manning Smith of Oakland and the Rev. Mark Killen of First English Lutheran Church, Wheeling, officiating.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, the bride wore a Mori-Lee gown of candlelight satin and re-embroidered lace. The dress had a modified V-neckline, fitted bodice with long tapered sleeves. The bodice and sleeves were encrusted with tiny pearls and sequins. A split double bow adorned the back, and the full skirt had cascading lace appliques from the waistline to skirt that flowed to a full cathedral train. The bride wore a headpiece of pearls and tiny flowers with a fingertip veil.

Serving as her consin's maid of honor was Abigail Radcliffe. Bridesmaids were Tina Isaly, Diane Hedinger, Aimee Wright, sister-in-law of the groom; Carrie Martinkosky, and Frances Wright and Gladys French, both sisters of the groom. Amelia French, the groom's niece, served as flower girl, and Bethany Webb was ring bearer. Acting as his brother's best man was Dennis Wright. Groomsmen were Mark McMills, Charles C. Case IV, brother of the bride; Scott Cook, Boyd Huis, Andrew Goshe, and Matthew Weekly.

The couple was chauffeured to a dinner/dance reception at The Fort Henry Club in Wheeling. Music for the cocktail hour was provided by a string quartet under the direction of Earl Summers, Wheeling, and for the reception by The Original Fantasys.

The bride is a graduate of Wheeling Central Catholic High School. She holds a bachelor's degree in philosophy from Loyola College in Baltimore and a master's degree in business administration from Frostburg State University.

Mr. Wright is a graduate of Wheeling Park High School and holds degrees in chemistry, mathematics, and biology from West Liberty State College. He is currently pursuing a doctorate in chemistry at Stanford University.

The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at Christopher's Restaurant in Wheeling on Friday, June 28, for the bridal party and family.

Following a honeymoon to Toronto, Canada, the couple will reside in Palo Alto, California.

when he lost control of his vehicle as he traveled along Interstate 68, near the intersection with U.S. Rt. 40.

Barry M. Haynes, 20, was treated and released at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, following the 5:40 p.m. accident. He had been traveling west on I-68 when he lost control of his 1995 Nissan, causing it to run onto the median, strike an embankment, then roll twice. The vehicle came to rest upright, police said.

Haynes was transported to the hospital by volunteers from the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad.

POLICE ISSUE HOLIDAY REMINDER

Sgt. D.P. Moore, highway safety crash prevention coordinator at Barrack W, has issued a reminder to area travelers during the summer season.

"The Fourth of July officially begins the summer travel period, and the personnel at Barrack W would like to wish everyone a safe holiday," Sgt. Moore said. "As speed continues to be a major cause of accidents across our state, troopers will be aggressively enforcing speed limit laws on all state and county roads. This enforcement program will continue throughout the summer months. Again, have a safe summer, and please buckle up."

Social Security

MY BROTHER'S KEEPER: SOCIAL SECURITY IS ONE WAY

by Thomas W. Armbruster
Area Social Security Manager

Most people think of Social Security in terms of the benefits they would receive. But, as a social insurance system that pays benefits to everybody who works and pays Social Security taxes, Social Security plays a major roll in helping those who may otherwise be dependent, to help themselves.

The success and popularity of Social Security is based on the fact that it strikes a balance between the complementary goals of individual equity -- providing benefit protection which is related to an individual's contributions -- and social adequacy -- providing advantages to a society as a whole by alleviating poverty and allowing as many citizens as possible to enjoy a reasonable standard of living.

Here are some of the ways Social Security benefits society as a whole:

*Social Security allow almost 42 percent of the elderly -- 10 million people -- to live out of poverty.

*Social Security relieves younger generations of the burden of providing for the financial needs of older relatives at the same time they are trying to raise their own families.

*Last year, Social Security paid about $41 million in benefits to about six million disabled workers and family members. A young worker has a one in three chance of becoming disabled before age 65.

*Social Security paid about $67 billion in benefits to more than seven million survivors of deceased workers last year. A young worker faces roughly a one-in five chance of dying before age 65.

Social Security is designed to provide a measure of financial independence to all workers and their families. It offers society a blanket of protection for now and in the future.

Sure times are tough. And cutting your advertising budget may seem like a good way to deal with the economic crunch you're experiencing.
But there's one important thing you should keep in mind. The 'hide-your-head-in-the sand' approach only succeeds in hiding your business from customers and potential customers... until you're soon forgotten! (And wouldn't your competition love that!)
The fact is, when you cut your newspaper advertising budget thinking you'll save money, you end up cutting your best opportunity to
- Generate customer traffic
- Improve customer awareness
- Increase sales
- And most importantly...MAKE MONEY!

"Summer Authors" To Be Presented By FSU Children's Literature Centre

The Children's Literature Centre at Frostburg State University will begin its annual "Summer Author Series" beginning the week of July 15. This year's guests include Judith St. George, Carl Schwartz, and Ralph Masiello. In connection with this week-long workshop, each author will be giving evening presentations at 7 p.m. in the campus Lane Center room 201. All presentations are free and open to the public.

Author Judith St. George will be featured Tuesday, July 16. St. George is the author of award-winning nonfiction books as "The Brooklyn Bridge: They Said It Couldn't Be Built" and "Mason and Dixon's Line of Fire." She has also written "Crazy Horse;" "Dear Dr. Bell--Your Friend, Helen Keller;" and "To See With the Heart: The Life of Sitting Bull." In addition to writing more than 20 books, St. George has also taught workshops and conducted story hours and reading programs for children. It is her goal to "entice children into exploring new worlds through books."

On Wednesday, July 17, illustrator Carol Schwartz will speak about her contributions to the world of children's literature. Schwartz is the illustrator of "Sea Squares," "One Small Fish;" "Maiden of Northland;" Where's the Cat;" and many other illustrated books. She is a graduate of the Kansas City Arts Institute and had the opportunity to spend her last year of school at the Rhode Island School of Design. She resides in Gaithersburg, and says she "looks forward to visiting the mountains of Western Maryland this summer."

The week will end Thursday, July 18, with illustrator Ralph Masiello. Masiello visited the region last fall when he conducted presentations at John Humbird, Westside Elementary Schools, and FSU. Also known as the "Icky Bug Man," Masiello is the illustrator of numerous alphabet books for young readers, including, "The Icky Bug Alphabet Book;" The Yucky Reptile Alphabet Book;" "The Extinct Alphabet Book;" "The Icky Bug Counting Book" and his new book, "The Flag We Love."

Lake Fees

ted in the recent session of the General Assembly.

Early this year, Penelec officials met with the District 1A Delegate George Edwards, the Garrett County Board of Commissioners, and area business owners to discuss lake concerns. Following this meeting, a Penelec official stated that Edwards and the commissioners had asked the utility company to stabilize dock fees and to give the state or county first refusal rights if the lake were to be put up for sale.

Another matter of concern was the difference between the term lengths of the company's lake management agreement with the DNR and the company's water use agreement with the state. (The water use agreement permits the company to use lake water at its generating facility).

The three lake issues listed above, and possibly others, will now be brought to the table with representatives of the DNR within 30 days after GPU receives the results of a new survey and assessment of its Deep Creek holdings, slated to be completed this fall.

Carl Brooks, vice-president for generation for GPU, stated at Friday's meeting that the geographic survey and financial assessment of the lake are part of an ongoing effort by GPU to review all of its assets, including 200 to 300 buildings and other holdings.

Paul Durham, manager of Deep Creek Lake State Park, also attended last Friday's meeting and said that county government and the Deep Creek Lake Advisory and Review Committee will also be involved in the negotiations with GPU.

The GPU officials also stressed that the company has no plans to sell the lake.

"We can't say enough that we have no intention to sell the lake," remarked Carole Snyder, vice-president for public affairs.

The DNR's current management agreement with GPU will end Dec. 31, 1998, at which point it may be renewed, amended, or terminated.

Utility company attorney Tim Atherton noted during the meeting that lake user fees will be reviewed to see if they are "equitable across the using public." However, he added that the company will also want make sure that its share holders are getting fair compensation.

Snyder commented that a goal of the negotiations with the DNR will be to bring the dock fees into line with the market value of the docks.

Residential dock fees were increased from $50 to $150 and common dock slip fees were upped from $25 to $120 in 1994.

For Reasons

For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God. Romans 3:23

For there is not a just man upon the earth that doeth good, and sinneth not. Ecclesiastes 7:20

For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord. Romans 6:23

For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost. Luke 19:10

For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life. John 3:16

For these reasons, Jesus came to save you! What's the reason you don't want to be saved?

No Fishing Rodeo At New Germany

New Germany State Park will not be holding a fishing rodeo on July 4, according to park official Eric Savage, who said that information in the Garrett County schedule of events was inaccurate.

"We held our fishing rodeo on June 19," Savage said. "However, July 4 is a free fishing day in the state of Maryland, so persons are certainly welcome to come to the park that day and enjoy fishing without possession of a state fishing license."

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

Winds Howl For Races... Again

by Dan Muss

Saturday's racing was quite civilized with winds from the northwest at about 1-4 mph. The start was between Turkey Neck and the Deep Creek Yacht Club at Deer Haven in what we call the "slot." The reason we call this rather narrow neck of the lake the slot is that, when the wind is blowing from southwest, west or northwest, the wind tends to get funneled through this slot in a westerly direction and the intensity is magnified.

(How are sailboat races started anyway? The starting line is defined by an orange flag buoy and a vertical spar on the anchored committee boat. On this lake, as in most sailboat races, the boats are given a ten minute signal, then a five minute signal and then the starting signal. These signals are given by raising a colored shape on the committee boat with a simultaneous loud horn or blank shotgun shot. The signal that counts is the visual signal, the shot is extra. The first class to start on Deep Creek Lake is the Laser Fleet, the second the Flying Scot A and last the Flying Scot B. If a boat is over early it has not started. The committee attempts to inform boats that are over early but often the word is passed from boats near the committee to the guilty crew; as they attempt to turn back to start they must keep clear of all the other racers. Occasionally the entire starting fleet is over early and the committee has the option to cancel that start and restart that fleet after the other fleets have gone.)

On Sunday the wind was quite fierce at race time and the committee elected to race again up through the slot. I was watching the race from a motorboat and I thought the wind was about 15 mph gusting to 25. Six lasers started plus two lasers from the sailing school with shortened rigs that were to be scored separately. The two student boats quit before the first windward mark. Dan Rubel was forced out with a broken tiller extension and Andrea McMillan just did not have the weight to hold the boat down under those conditions. Of the 8 Lasers that started only 4 finished.

The Flying Scots A had 7 boats starting of which 4 finished; Flying Scots B had 3 at the start and only 2 finished. I could not tell for sure, but it looked like the winning Scots B boat, skippered by John Frank, had a problem with their mainsheet and they had some jury rig in place that did the job.

RESULTS:

Lasers - Tom Johnson, first; Keith Spinnenweber, second; Kevin Rissell, third.

Area Speedway Review

Somerset County Speedway

Fifty six cars competed for prize money and trophies sponsored by Shaffer Racing of Somerset at the Somerset County Speedway on June 28.

Heat winners in the Street Stock Division were Brian Taylor, Bobby Smith, Dan Stockwell, and Jon Valentine. Brad Brown and Joe Donaldson clinched victories in the Pro Stock Division.

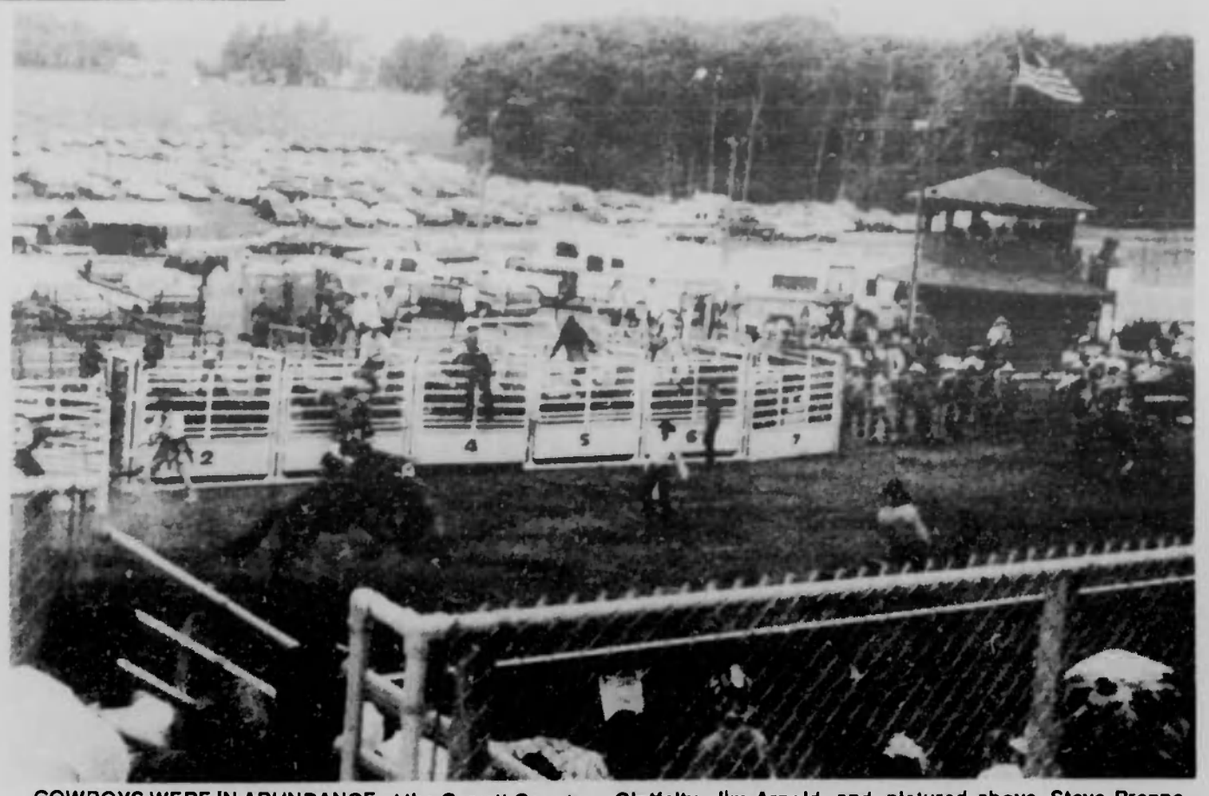
In the "C" Main feature, Nelson Bailey held on to the number one spot for 10 laps. However, in lap 11 Roger McKenzie came on strong and stole the number one position. McKenzie, of Meyersdale, held on one final lap for the victory. Following McKenzie and Bailey were Rick Hayman, Jon Friend, Mike Emerick, Henry Bockes, Jim Coughenour, and Bob Downton.

Roger Shaulis of Somerset captured first place in the "B" Main. He took over number one position in lap seven and held on until the end. Finishers behind Shaulis were Jon Tressler, Doug Barcley, Brad Reckner, Bob Singo, Greg Cornell Sr., Eric Stayrook, Bart Tressler, Dave Greer, Doug Kimmel, Eddie Kemp, and Dan Delancey.

Jamie Kemp of Confluence held a half a lap lead over the rest of the field to capture the victory in the "A" Main. An exciting race occurred behind Kemp as drivers from the back of the pack tried to push their way forward to capture the remaining positions. When the checkered flag waved, behind Kemp was Brian Taylor, Duane Horning, Dan Stockwell, Bobby Smith, Clyde Prince, Greg Cornell Jr., Brad Dickey, Dwane Shultz, Denny Rounds, John Valentine, Clair Duppstadt, and Doug Shaffer.

Pro Stock points leader Brad Brown tried to capture a victory in the Pro Stock feature and was successful at holding the number one position for the first 14 laps of the race. However, a spin out by Brown sent him to the back of the pack and Tom Humberson, last year's Pro Stock track champ who held second position, moved into the lead. Humberson held on the final six laps for his first victory at the speedway this year. Following Humberson were Ed Kemp, Dave Grasser, Duane Folk, Brad Brown, Joe Donaldson, Kevin Bender, Craig Smith, and Gene Moats.

Regular Friday racing will be held July 5. The speedway will once again feature semi-lates, along with a regular points race, on Sunday, July 14. There will be no racing Friday, July 12.



COWBOYS WERE IN ABUNDANCE at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry this past weekend, and they came from as far away as Canada to participate in a rodeo sponsored by the Deer Park Volunteer Fire Department. Garrett County representatives in the competition included Toby Glotfelty, Jim Arnold, and, pictured above, Steve Brenneman on board a bucking bronc. The event was deemed a major success, as an estimated 4,000-plus were in the stands on Saturday night and about 3,000 were present on Sunday.

West Virginia Speedways

At Elkins Motor Speedway Saturday night a thrilling Coca-Cola UMP Modified feature saw points-leader Greg Tressler, of Oakland, and second-in-points Steve Cook fight door-to-door for 15 laps. Holding onto the lead by the slimmest margin for 13 laps was Tressler, but a miscue that sent him spinning in turn two with two laps remaining opened the track for Cook who crossed the checkerboard in front of Vic Vandergrift, Shaun Davis, Cliff Cochran, and Dave Defibaugh.

The North East Winners Series (N.E.W.S.) makes its first appearance at Elkins Motor Speedway this Saturday as Roy's Travel Trailers presents $2,500 to win the Bank One Late Model feature. In celebration of Independence Day, one of the best fireworks displays in central West Virginia will welcome the N.E.W.S. drivers expected from five states.

This Friday night, July 5, at Interstate 79 Speedway will be the first ever visit by the N.E.W.S. late models as they race for the $2,500 first prize in the second leg of the West Virginia State Championship Series. Regular racing will be held in the other four divisions. Gates will open at 5:30 with racing at 7:30.

Howard Winner Of Annual Iron Furnace 5-K

Todd Howard, who led the Southern High School boys' cross-country team and distance events for the track and field team for the past several seasons, was the winner of the eighth annual Iron Furnace 5-Kilometer Run, held Saturday in Lonaconing.

Howard, who is the Maryland state Division 1A runner-up in cross-country, finished the 3.1-mile course with a winning time of 16 minutes, 16 seconds, to top Mike Bowman by 12 seconds and third place finisher Andy Adam by 25 seconds. There were 116 finishers in the event.

The fastest female runner of the day was Maureen Hall with a time of 18:31. Lynn Bridges was second in 20:06 and Rachel Admec placed third (21:27).

Tom Langan and Ellie Thayer were the top male and female masters finishers with respective times of 17:28 and 22:09.

Thirty-three others finished the one-mile run/walk race.

MARYLAND FORESTS

by Patrice Jastrzembski

The Maryland Forests Association has recently become the Maryland coordinator for an important fund raising campaign called Log a Load For Kids.

The Log a Load For Kids project is part of the Children's Miracle Network which raises funds to help 161 children's hospitals nationwide.

The contributors to Log a Load For Kids are loggers, forest product companies, and wood suppliers. The concept is that the contributors donate an amount equal to the value of a truckload of logs. Depending on the type of timber, a load of logs can range from $300 to $1,000. Log a Load For Kids is an excellent opportunity for loggers to demonstrate their professionalism and commitment to community service.

The Maryland Forests Association has collected donations from loggers from all over Maryland. A lump-sum check will be presented to the Children's Miracle Network during their annual telethon. Money collected by the Maryland Forests Association in this first campaign reached nearly $5,000.

One hundred percent of the money raised through Log a Load For Kids goes directly to local children's hospitals. Money collected through the Maryland campaign for Log a Load For Kids will be donated to Johns Hopkins Children's

AMONG THE HONORED GUESTS in the 19th annual Grantsville Days parade were Garrett County Commissioners Roger Glotfelty and John Braskey - who actually took some good-natured ribbing for the recent rise in county property taxes - and Garrett County's own Maryland State Farm Queen Lori Evans. The many-unit parade was co-sponsored by the Grantsville Lions Club and the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department, with Duane Stein serving as parade chairman. Other events Friday evening included musical entertainment by Perry Kamp, who was sponsored by Hilltop Delite, and a fireworks display sponsored by Grantsville Foodland. Photos by Craig Phillipa.

TAKEN FROM THE FARM TO THE PARADE? Not quite, since this is an antique Farmall tractor restored. Driven by Arnold Garlitz in the Grantsville Days Parade, the tractor was one of acores of units in the celebrated event. Boy scouts can be seen marching behind the tractor, and a fire truck follows the boys. Thousands came out for the parade, which opened a full weekend of activities and events celebrating Grantsville and its residents.

COMPETITION WAS JUST PART OF THE FUN at the 19th annual Grantsville Days, with players engaged in sporting contests of all kinds. Pictured above is one contestant in the tractor pull event, held Saturday, and shown below is action on the basketball court where a three-on-three tournament took place. Several area businesses and individuals generously sponsored the various events, making it possible to have numerous activities on the schedule.

Fiddle, Banjo Contests Slated In Friendsville

The 32nd Annual Old Time Fiddlers' Contest and the 8th Annual Baajo Contest will be held at the Friendsville Park on Saturday, July 20, from 7 until 10 p.m.

The fiddle contest was first held in conjunction with Friendsville's bicentennial in 1965, and has since then been made into an annual event. Sponsored by the Rotary and Lions clubs in Friendsville, the contests are open to all amateur fiddlers and banjo players in the area. Cash prizes and trophies will be awarded to the top three winners in three age divisions of the fiddle contest and one age group in the banjo contest.

During intermission, the Fisher Family from Dawson, Pa., will perform. Family members include Carol Ann who plays the fiddle and sings, Mother Judy who plays the piano and sings, Father Cal who plays the guitar, and Uncle Harry who plays the five-string banjo and sings. The group performs a variety of traditional fiddle, country, bluegrass, and gospel music.

Entertainment by local bands and daneers will be from 3-6 p.m. Refreshments will be available, and it is suggested that visitors bring lawn chairs. No pets or alcoholic beverages will be permitted on the grounds. In case of rain, the event will be held on Sunday, July 21, at 2 p.m. Admission is $5 for adults and $2 for children 16 years of age and younger.

Pictured are Kristen Gregory, who was named reserve champion in the intermediate radio/public address category, and her brother John Gregory, who won the title of champion in the same category. The Gregorys are members of the Mountaineer 4-H Club. Not pictured is Morgan Rodeheaver of the North Star 4-H Club who received a participation ribbon in the intermediate extemporaneous speech category.

NEW BUSINESS OPENS IN ACCIDENT - The Thrift Store and More, owned and operated by Alan Herman, recently opened in an Accident storefront with a century of history. The structure, formerly Kolbe's Store, sat empty for some time, but now bustles with new life. The new shop offers a variety of items at wholesale prices, new and used power tools, hand tools, household and cleaning supplies, crafts, clothing, and other items. Herman plans to expand in the near future into the building's lower level, which will be used as a showroom for furniture and antiques. Pictured left to right at the store are part-time employee Rhonda Bowes, full-time employee Veronica Yoder, and Florida resident Marie Martin, niece of the owner. The store can be contacted at 746-8122.

Barbecue Basics Offered By County Extension Office

"Barbecuing on the backyard patio or over an open campfire is fun, and the enticing aroma of foods cooking over hot coals is hard to resist," said Extension Agent Irmgard Koscielniak. For the "outdoor chef," there is a greater versatility in meal planning with a vast array of foods from which to choose.

"From appetizers to main courses to desserts, everything tastes just great cooked outdoors," Koscielniak said.

How To Make A Fire

1. Line the grill fire bowl with heavy duty or extra heavy aluminum foil to aid even cooking and ease clean-up.

2. Select the type of charcoal or wood to be used.

3. Place charcoal in a pyramid inside the fire bowl. The amount of charcoal needed depends on the type of equipment used and the food to be cooked. Do not use too much charcoal.

4. Select a fire starter, either liquid, jelly, or electric.

5. Check safety precautions before lighting the fire. Never burn charcoal in an enclosed area. Locate the grill away from shrubs, dry wood, and buildings. Open any grill air vents and remove grill covers until fire is well established.

6. Light the fire. Once the fire is started, do not add more liquid fire starter.

7. The fire is ready to use for cooking when the charcoal appears light gray in color.

Some charcoal fires are hotter than others. The degree of heat will vary with the individual fire. The size of the fire bowl, the amount of charcoal used, the placement of the briquettes, and the distance from the top of the coals to the food all affect the degree of heat. Since cooking periods vary, the recipe timings are only guidelines.

Center in Baltimore, Children's National Medical Center in Washington, D.C., and West Virginia University Children's Hospital in Morgantown.

Similar efforts have been coordinated this year by the Mountain Loggers Group, an organization of forest products operators from West Virginia. Proceeds collected for Log a Load For Kids by the Mountain Loggers Group will be donated to West Virginia University Children's Hospital.

The Log a Load For Kids campaign began in 1988 when the South Carolina Forestry Association joined forces with the Children's Miracle Network to help children's hospitals in South Carolina. Since that time, Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Maine, Mississippi, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Virginia, and West Virginia now participate in the Log a Load For Kids program.

Loggers who live in states other than those listed above may also donate to the Children's Miracle Network through the Log a Load For Kids campaign. In states without a coordinating organization, donations are coordinated by the American Pulpwood Association.

The Children's Miracle Network began in 1983 and is now the largest fund raiser of its kind in the world. In 1995 the Children's Miracle Network raised $133 million. The premier event of the organization is its 21-hour telethon. This year's telethon was held the weekend of June 1 & 2.

The telethon, which is broadcast from Disneyland, features many television, movie, music, and sports personalities. During the telethon, time is dedicated to educating the public on the needs of local children's hospitals and recognizing sponsors.

Maryland's newly established Log a Load For Kids campaign of the Children's Miracle Network has generated necessary funds for a most worthwhile cause. Local loggers and wood products operators of our state can be proud of their efforts to help children in need.

To donate to Log a Load For Kids, contact the MFA at P.O. Box 599, Grantsville, MD 21536, or call (301) 895-5369.

UNIGLOBE®
Adventures in Travel
Dear Travel Partner,
We would like to tell you a little about Uniglobe Adventures In Travel. We have been in business for over 25 years, serving western Maryland. The agency is owned by Bill and Sandy Thoman who reside in McHenry.
In the midst of the "high season", we're reminded that in the travel business, there's really no such thing as the "low season!" After all, you may be vacationing, but we're thinking about next season, anticipating the different needs of our clients and trying to "expect the unexpected".
The diversity of travellers and their tastes is our biggest challenge. Some shop for short term bargains, taking off whenever the price is right. Some seek only new places and experiences, whatever the expense. Still others plan meticulously for that once a year chance to "get away from it all." Our goal is to offer rewarding travel experiences for all our clients, whether they're going now or later, budget or luxury, individual or group. We strive to match our clients unique tastes with consistently exceptional value and quality.
Most people still believe that they pay a fee for our services, if they use a travel agent. They think they can save money by making their own travel arrangements, going direct to the airlines, car rental company and hotel. It makes sense to use our professional services and experience as we represent all airlines, hotel, cruise lines, tour operators, and car companies. We can save you time and money at no cost, plus we deliver tickets to Garrett County.

Bender Honored For 25 Years Red Cross Service

In recognition of her 25 years of volunteer service as bloodmobile chairperson for the Grantsville community, Lela Bender was recently honored with an award plaque from the Blood Services Division of the American Red Cross.

The plaque thanked Bender for 25 years of "outstanding dedication and support."

Bender, who has lived in Grantsville for almost all of her life, accepted the position of community bloodmobile chairperson in 1972 when the existing chairperson became ill. Now, a quarter of a century later, she still holds the post.

"It was something that needed to be done and nobody else seemed to want the responsibility," Bender said in an interview this week. "I just hung in there."

Bender stated that the community showed excellent support to the blood drives over the years, adding that she could not have served as bloodmobile chairperson for so long without the blood donors and volunteers.

"I've had excellent help," she said.

Bender hopes to find another volunteer to take over her bloodmobile chairperson duties by the end of this year.

Before taking on the mantle of bloodmobile chairperson, Bender volunteered as a Red Cross recruiter for a decade, from 1962 to 1972, thus making her total service to the Red Cross 35 years.

Bender has also been the beneficiary of donated blood. Her late son was a hemophiliac and required blood transfusions, and Bender herself received a blood transfusion following surgery in 1964.

OPENING FOR THE SEASON this Saturday, July 6, at 10 a.m. will be the Mountain Fresh Market in the pavilion adjacent to the Oakland town parking lot. The market will be open every Saturday and Wednesday through October 26, offering the finest in area fresh produce. There will also be demonstrations conducted throughout the season at the pavilion by Irmgard Koscielniak, of the Garrett County Extension Office. For more information about the market, persons may call Cathy at 334-1990 or 334-4580.

Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Lake Associates Awarded GRI Designation

ARLENE MURRAY

ANN SMITH

Arlene Murray and Ann Smith, sales associates with Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, McHenry, recently received notification that they have completed coursework and passed examinations to qualify for the Graduate, Realtors Institute (GRI) designation.

Murray and Smith received this designation after successfully completing 90 hours of specific education outlined by the National Association of Realtors, which awards the GRI designation. Conducted by the Maryland Association of Realtors, the Realtors Institute of Maryland was developed to satisfy the need for a more comprehensive and effective learning experience in all phases of real estate, according to a Coldwell Banker spokesperson.

The GRI designation was conferred upon realtors who successfully completed their third and final course of the institute program. Murray and Smith join seven other Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty associates who have previously graduated from the institute.

PESTICIDE APPLICATORS NEED TO CARE FOR PROTECTIVE CLOTHING PROPERLY

Spring was late in coming. In the hurry to catch up with fieldwork, proper care and safety measures concerning pesticide application may be neglected. The Cooperative Extension Service wants to remind growers about the importance of proper use and care of protective clothing.

Drift and spills from pesticides are extremely harmful if ingested absorbed through the skin, or inhaled. Therefore, wearing and properly caring for protective clothing is a must.

Before using protective clothing, inspect it for tears or holes; all skin should be covered. It used to be thought that fabric should be tightly woven, but research has shown that chemical sprays still penetrate closely woven fabric. Therefore, change clothes immediately after applying pesticides, or more often, if necessary.

Shirts should have collars and long sleeves, do not tuck the sleeves into gloves, but wear them outside. Pants should be worn outside rubber or plastic boots that can be rinsed after each use. The boots should reach at least halfway to the knee. Do not wear boots made of leather, since leather cannot be decontaminated once it has absorbed pesticides.

A broad-rimmed hat or a hood is recommended to protect the back of the neck, which is very susceptible to spray mist deposition and absorption. Select unlined gloves that do not have a fabric wrist band and that can be washed inside and out.

Store contaminated clothes in plastic containers. These garments, as well as other equipment used during spraying, should not be washed with the rest of the family laundry. Washing should be done in hot water, preferably 140 degrees because cold water is ineffective in removing most pesticides. Bleaches or ammonia cleaners alone are not recommended because they do not adequately remove pesticides; heavy-duty detergents, however, achieve maximum efficiency and are best for laundering contaminated garments. If contamination is severe, two or three washes may be necessary to assure adequate cleaning.

Items such as gloves, boots, goggles, and rubber aprons should also be washed. Be sure that the rinse water does not cause an contamination problems.

Mixing and applying pesticides can be harmful tasks, but by taking proper care of protective clothing and equipment, growers take smart steps to protect themselves.

For more information, persons may contact the Cooperative Extension Service at 202 South Third St., Oakland, MD 21550; or phone 334-1990.

Sen. Sarbanes Backs Randolph Lake Compact

U.S. Senator Paul Sarbanes recently appeared before a House judiciary committee to urge the House to approve legislation which would enable the states of Maryland and West Virginia to have joint management and law enforcement at Jennings Randolph Lake, located on the North Branch of the Potomac River in Garrett County and Mineral County, W.Va.

Sarbanes was joined by Maryland District VI Congressman Roscoe Bartlett and West Virginia Congressman Alan Mollohan.

"The compact, when approved, will allow the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Police and their West Virginia counterparts to patrol the entire lake and enable them to go into each other's territory to ensure boater safety, protection for the visiting public, and [protection for] the area's natural resources," said Sarbanes.

The creation of Jennings Randolph Lake in 1982 removed the natural boundary between West Virginia and Maryland and the meandering nature of the former river and the depth of the lake have made it virtually impossible to reestablish the precise location of the boundary. The lack of an identifiable boundary has raised serious jurisdictional questions making enforcement of natural resources and boating laws and regulations difficult.

The dam creating the lake was specifically designed to improve the water quality of the Potomac River, reduce flood damages for communities in the North Branch Potomac River basin, provide municipal water supply for the Washington metropolitan area, and opportunities for recreation.

"With the summer boating season already upon us, it is critical to move forward and pass legislation as quickly as possible," Sarbanes said.

The Sarbanes-sponsored legislation has been approved by the Senate twice, in 1994 and 1995, and is awaiting House approval.

Melvin D. Sisler,

the love of my life for more than 50 years, went home to be with the Lord on June 20, 1996. Melvin was in the hospital for almost two months, and during that time many, many people performed kindnesses to him and to me. It is impossible to list all of these friends here, but I want to publicly thank the people who drove me to Morgantown daily, so that Melvin and I could be together:

As difficult as those days were, as hard as it was for us to be separated, your sacrifices blessed Melvin and I more than I can ever tell you.
I will always be grateful.
Much Love,

Women At Work
by Tamara Jones

On July 5, PBS will air the first part of an eight-episode weekly series, "Searching for God in America." Subsequent episodes will air July 12, 19, and 26.

I chatted with Reverend Roberta Hestenes, the first female Presbyterian president of the Baptist-affiliated Eastern College, and the first woman president in the Christian College Coalition. Many women say that while they do believe in God and consider themselves morally upright individuals, sometimes they're made to feel their private views — such as having the right to choose, for one, and denying any doctrine that puts husbands ahead of wives — make them religious outsiders.

Rev. Hestenes didn't deny that some people feel this way. But she said, "We all search for God in our own ways. So, while I may follow a certain path, that doesn't mean someone else can't follow another path. It's the belief in God and the need to find Him, on whatever path we choose, that's important."

Yet, as my readers often point out, so many who seem determined to "put women back into their place," as it were, often invoke God as their guide in this quest.

"I realize that," Rev. Hestenes said. "But I think you'll find the more enlightened clergy have different views. They see women as God intended for us to be seen: as capable human beings who have the God-given right to be respected."

Rev. Hestenes certainly broke some pretty solid ground in her career. Did she think her success in a strongly male and patriarchal society would give hope to women who feel they can't participate in their churches at the highest levels?

"I don't know that it would, although I believe it should. Perhaps what it's done is help shorten the time it's taken for women to be recognized for their talents and gifts and not be rejected just because they are women."

UNUSUAL ORGANIZER — I have found a wonderful use for an extra silverware tray. I placed it in my desk and it works great as a desk organizer. Kim T., Springfield, N.J.

VINYL WALLPAPER — This may not be news to some people, but I pick up vinyl wallpaper at garage sales or wallpaper stores when a pattern is discontinued and use it for shelf liner. It's also great for drawers. Marian L., Grosse Pointe, Mich.

NECESSARY RECEIPT — A friend of mine had a terrible experience recently with her dry cleaner. The owner did not give her any receipts for several suits and a coat. The building in which the cleaners was housed had a fire, which destroyed all of the clothing. My friend wasn't able to recover anything from the insurance company since she had no receipts to show what was destroyed.

It is not presumptuous to request some sort of receipt regardless of how well known a customer you are. Rita S., Staten Island, N.Y.

TELEPHONE SMARTS — After I had my baby, I began calling the 800 numbers on every baby product I had, from formula to toys.

Not only will most companies send you coupons to use when you make a purchase, they also send free gifts, samples and catalogs.

Now I do this with other household items. Hannah V., Hobart, Ind.

You can enjoy those Christmas pictures and a lot of other ones every time you sit down. The glass top is easy to keep clean with a squirt of window cleaner. Thelma K., Balch Springs, Texas.

Dollars & Sense
by Bryon Elson

You can put your kids on the road to financial independence, if you hire them to work in your business. By hiring your kids, your family also can benefit from some significant tax advantages.

For children under age 15, the "kiddie tax," as it is popularly called, taxes unearned income — or investment income — in excess of $1,300 at the parents' top marginal rate. This contrasts with the treatment of a child's earned income. If you claim your child as a dependent on your 1996 tax return, his or her standard deduction is limited to the greater of $650 or the child's earned income up to $4,000. This means your children could each earn up to $4,000 from your business tax-free. Earned income above that amount is taxed at your child's rate regardless of age.

In addition, if you are a sole proprietor, the wages you pay to your children under age 18 are exempt from Social Security taxes. This makes the effective cost of employing your child less than that of a non-family member.

Your child must do work that you would pay another person to do. Depending on your child's age, performing clerical tasks, answering phones, and making deliveries may qualify as appropriate tasks. But do not expect the IRS to believe that your 10-year-old prepares company invoices.

Additionally, you must pay your child reasonable wages. The IRS requires that the amount you pay your children not exceed the going rate for other employees who perform comparable tasks. To comply with IRS guidelines, keep careful records indicating hours worked and wages earned.

If your child earns income, inquire with your CPA about starting a tax-deductible Individual Retirement Account (IRA). Under current rules, your child may deposit the lesser of $2,000 or 100 percent of earnings into an IRA and deduct the full amount. When you combine the $2,000 IRA contribution with the $4,000 standard deduction, it is actually possible for your child to earn up to $6,000 in 1996 without paying federal income tax. Keep in mind, however, that an IRA is a long-term investment and that your child will face stiff penalties if funds are withdrawn prior to age 59½.

Antiques

The old glass pump with a large glass globe that advertised the brand of gas has been replaced with sleek, rectangular, digital, self-serve models. But collectors can still cherish the pump of the past, as they are bought and sold at special auctions and sales.

A few collectors have the entire pump, usually over 8 feet high, but most collect just the glass globes. There is a surprising variety of globes. The most interesting were made in unusual shapes. A 1930s Texaco globe, shaped like a fireman's hat, sold for the record-setting price of $16,500.

Q. I have had a woven coverlet for many years with a flower and leaf design in blue and green and rose colors. In both corners at the bottom, woven into the fabric, it says "Coverlet. Wm. H. Van Gordon, Weaver, Covington, Miami, Co. Ohio 1853." I'd like its history.

A. William H. Van Gordon worked from about 1824 to 1853. He is listed in the 1850 census for Covington, Ohio, and was described as a weaver. The Jacquard loom became available in the United States in the 1820s, and it was the start of a new business. Trained weavers could make coverlets with the elaborate patterns that were in demand. Many of them took orders for special coverlets from families in other towns.

The housewife was no longer the only one who could weave for the family, but housewives often dyed and spun the yarn for their own coverlet. Many weavers were immigrants from Europe, especially Germany. Most of them lived in Ohio, Maryland and Pennsylvania and nearby states.

Amy Britton Is Candidate For MLP Council

Amy Britton will run for one of the three vacant seats on the Mountain Lake Park Town Council, with the election slated for Tuesday, July 9. There are six individuals vying for the council positions.

Britton has lived permanently in Mtn. Lake Park since 1994, but has had a home in the area since the 1950's.

"I have always felt it to be my home," Britton said. "And there is no better place to rear a child than in Garrett County."

Britton, who is employed by Cellular One, worked for four years for the Charles County government as a bookkeeper in the Department of Community Services. During that tenure, she monitored seven agency budgets, including budget projections and analyses, and grant compliance. The total budget was seven million dollars with six million in grant monies, Britton said. She also worked for Andrews Federal Credit Union as an accountant for four years.

In civic activities, she served as the PTA treasurer for James Craik Elementary School in Pomfert for two years. She also served on the Budget Advisory Committee for the Charles County Board of Education for two years.

She is married to James Britton and the couple has one daughter, Caroline.

"I would like to reduce spending and apply for available grants," Britton said. "I would like to continue to develop existing areas for our children to play - they are the future of our community. I want to serve the community of Mountain Lake Park."

Food For Thought

Barbecue basics. shishkebab or sate won't turn and flop around on the grill if you thread them on two parallel skewers.

When salmon steaks are boned and skinned, with the "tails" tucked in, they make attractive rounds for serving.. Wrap strips of flour tortillas around the fish to hold it, then season and grill or bake 10 minutes at 400 degrees. Serve with lemon and dill.

Couscous is the easy pasta. The grains are so small, they need only boiling liquid poured over and time to soak it up. Add 1 cup hot chicken broth to 2/3 cup couscous with ¼ tsp. ground tumeric, a small can of diced green chili peppers, and a sliced green onion.

Or try beef broth, ¼ cup shredded carrot, diced pimento and a big pinch of dried oregano, crushed, for a different flavor dish.

Cantaloupe is the most popular melon grown in America, with sweet orange flesh and skin covered with a web of netting. When the melon is ripe, the skin under the netting is a sandy gold color.

Residents May Call Governor's Office Toll-Free

For the first time ever, Maryland's governor has a toll-free 800 telephone number allowing easier citizen access to the governor's office.

1-800-811-8336 is the direct toll-free number to Governor Parris N. Glendening's Annapolis office. The new 800 number is for the convenience of Marylanders who live or work on the Eastern Shore, in Western Maryland, the Washington suburbs nad any other area where a caller would have to make a long distance call to the State House.

"Our new 800 number allows the governor's office to be more customer-oriented," said Governor Glendening. "This additional access provides thousands of Marylanders with toll-free connectivity they have never had before.

Marylanders who work in the District of Columbia, Delaware, Pennsylvania and Virginia can also use the new 800 number to reach the governor's office. People who live or work in Baltimore City, and parts of Anne Arundel, Baltimore, and Howard counties can still dial 974-3901, which is a local call.

Over 46 state agencies currently have statewide toll-free 800 numbers which allow access to state government offices at no cost to the caller.

The Dimensions of Liberty

Have you ever taken her measure?

------from base to torch: 151'1"

------from heel to top of head: 111'1"

------length of hand: 16'5"

------index finger: 8'0"

------finger nail: 13" x 10"

But these are the dimensions of a statue only. The dimensions of liberty are greater.

And one of these is faith in God!

The desire to worship faithfully and freely according to the dictates of one's own conscience inspired the birth of our Nation.

And to this day, every hymn, every prayer, every act of reverence and service and sacrifice which flows from our hearts toward God...

MANY HOSPITALS LET MOM STAY WITH CHILD

The presence of a parent can often do more to help a child recuperate than anything else. Realizing this, a great many hospitals have radically changed their visiting hours and overnight policies for the parents of a hospitalized child. Knowing the temperament and emotional reactions of your children you should inquire about this before planning any admission to the hospital.

We hope it never becomes necessary, but if you do have to plan an overnight stay with one of your children, we can make you up a small kit of night-time essentials to help you be more comfortable.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

YOUR REASON TO SING
July 7, 1996

Background Scripture:
Psalms 104
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 40:25-31

Every day Valerie and I pray for an ever-increasing list of people who are in need of healing and help. Some days, our listing of all these names seems very much like a shopping list that we have delivered to God, much in the way we might call the local grocery store to give them our list.

So, from time to time, something in us says, "Enough asking, now start praising!" Of course, all our prayers need to have some element of praise and thanksgiving. I know that, but often I become so involved in asking, that praise tends to get crowded out on a regular basis.

But, you might want to ask, if God is God, why does he need our praise? The answer, I believe, is not that God needs it, but that we do. The problem is not that God gets out of sorts when we fail to praise him, but that we do. Praising God is essential to our health and well-being.

BEHIND THE SONG

The 104th Psalm, one of our finest psalms of praise, is actually like a joyous song that the psalmist sings. Perhaps the Psalmist was moved by some personal experience. Why did the psalmist sing this song? What wonder, what gift, what grace did he experience to make him break forth in such rapturous verse?

But, even more important is the question of what would cause YOU to sing a psalm of praise to your Creator? The Psalmist says that he has been meditating upon God and his universe. He has been thinking of the wonders of the world and the blessings of his life and out of that thinking has grown an irrepressible urge to praise God. Maybe you do that on a regular basis; but, like me, maybe you get too wrapped up in telling God what to do.

On what should we meditate? Let's see what the Psalmist considered in his mind and heart. The late Professor of Old Testament, Samuel Terrien, has analyzed the 104th psalm and called it a psalm of "The Lord of the Seven Wonders." The first of these, vs. 2-4, is the wonder of the sky.

WRAPPED IN LIGHT

A month ago, while sailing on the Arabian sea, I gathered with fellow passengers on the deck of the Royal Viking Sun to see a new comet. To help us see better, the captain had most of the lights momentarily extinguished. The heavens that stretched out above were staggering! I felt as the Psalmist must have felt when he wrote: "He is wrapping himself with light as with a garment. He spreadeth out the heavens as a curtain" (trans. by S. Terrien, The Psalms And Their Meaning Today, Bobbs-Merril, 1952). When was the last time you stood under a star-crowded sky and praised the Creator?

The Psalmist also praised God for the earth (vs. 5-9), for water (vs. 10-13), vegetation (vs. 14-18), moon and sun (vs. 19-23), and the sea (vs. 24-26). All of these, when we give ourselves time to think upon them, are great wonders that most of the time we take for granted. But, if from time to time we meditated upon them, we would likely end up praising God. The reason, then, that we don't praise God more is that we just don't think enough about his wonders.

Finally, the Psalmist lists the seventh and greatest wonder of all, the gift of life (vs. 27-30). The Psalmist observes nature and the creatures of the world and he sees that all of us are dependent upon the goodness of God: "These all look to thee, to give them their food in due season...when thou takest away their breath, they die and return to their dust. When thou sendest forth the Spirit (or "breath"), they are created: and thou renewest the face of the ground" (RSV, vs. 27, 29b, 30). Can you possibly think upon the precious gift of life and not break forth in praise? I have something to sing about. What about you?

Costas won't avoid issues at All-Star Game

By Jim Baker
©TVData Features Syndicate

Bob Uecker

Bob Costas is loaded with hot issues for NBC's broadcast of the 67th All-Star Game on Tuesday, July 9.

Costas, rejoining Bob "Front Row" Uecker and Joe Morgan, leads into such juicy topics as Albert Belle, Marge Schott and baseball's continuing attendance and ratings problems with these observations:

Belle (the Cleveland Indians' temperamental outfielder) – "His controversies will be brought up on the broadcast because he'll be an All-Star starter. He could find himself in another series of incidents if he doesn't get control over his temper."

Belle's most celebrated incident was a temper tantrum with NBC's Hannah Storm during last year's World Series, followed later by a baseline forearm shiver that flattened Milwaukee second baseman Fernando Vina and prompted a five-game suspension, which Belle appealed.

Schott (the embattled Cincinnati Reds owner) – "Freedom of speech rights had nothing to do with her situation. She's a member of a private organization and violated its code of conduct with her remarks (e.g. 'Adolf Hitler was good at first'). Baseball has a right to expel her."

Roberto Alomar (Baltimore Orioles second baseman) – "Baseball has as many stars as at any time in the last 20 years, and Roberto is a great example, flirting with a .400 batting average. There's a lot to celebrate in this game."

Poor pitching – "Such hitters as Alomar are taking advantage of it. The home run records of Roger Maris and Babe Ruth are in jeopardy. The way hits are coming, some records might stand 10 minutes. It makes me want to grab a bat. Scores of 14-8 and 10-9 used to be rarities. But now you see three to five of them most every day."

Nielsen woes – "Fox's baseball ratings have not been overwhelming and any reasonable person would think that's in reaction to the game's strife of the last two years.

"Things became better with a decent TV contract, Cal Ripken's consecutive game record and last year's great Seattle-New York series in a convoluted playoff structure.

"The game wasn't killed, but it was seriously wounded and it will be awhile before acceptance comes back to what it was."

No contract – "There's still no collective bargaining agreement and I'll be surprised if there's one before the season ends." (Costas didn't say it, but there is no full commissioner, either).

Club owners – "The owners left themselves legally vulnerable but were let off the hook by a federal judge who was looked upon as saving baseball. That was the worst thing that could have happened. The best would have been if the two parties had been left to their own devices and there would have been some pressure for a real deal."

Costas will be surrounded by a strong cast at the All-Star Game – Uecker with dry humor, Morgan with good insight, Johnny Bench and Jim Gray as reporters and Storm handling the warm-up show (stand by, Belle).

IN FOCUS

Jason Alexander (Seinfeld), a talented TV and Broadway performer, raises his voice in song in a one-man variety show in Evening at Pops.

This episode premieres Monday, July 8, on PBS (check local listings).

Jazz percussionist Airto Moreira is also featured in the program, performing excerpts from a piece by Pat Hollenbeck titled "Pela a Floresta."

The concert also features the Boston Pops Orchestra under the direction of Keith Lockhart.

Here's looking at you, PBS

Leave it to PBS to take the road not taken.

In a week dominated by baseball's All-Star Game, PBS offers another event from the City of Brotherly Love: a Cezanne retrospective.

In a week filled with reruns, PBS looks at the whole contorted TV landscape in Signal to Noise: Life With Television. For reruns, it has classy Middlemarch, airing again on Masterpiece Theatre.

And who says nothing ever happens on PBS? Seinfeld's Jason Alexander is hanging out on Evening at Pops.

The journey begins Sunday, July 7 (check local listings), with Part 1 of Middlemarch, George Eliot's saga of a young woman who tries to follow her principles and neglect her heart.

Monday, July 8, Jason Alexander wows the Pops crowd with a bit of crooning and a little of the old soft shoe.

The Tuesday, July 9, edition of POV is The Transformation, a film about one man's metamorphosis from homeless, HIV-positive transvestite in New York to churchgoing, married man in the Bible-belt mecca of Dallas, where status symbols and the status quo rule.

While they're sweeping up peanut shells in Philadelphia's Veterans Stadium, PBS steps across town for a retrospective of the work of post-Impressionist Paul Cezanne. Cezanne airs Wednesday, July 10.

Signal to Noise, a three-part essay on the state of television, begins Thursday, July 11. A subjective view, Signal to Noise asks what's on our airwaves and why.

Friday, July 12, public radio's Robert Siegel reports on Occupied Japan: An Experiment in Democracy, recalling postwar policies.

POV presents The Transformation, about the conversion of Ricardo, a k a "Sara," from a homeless transvestite to a married man. It airs Tuesday on PBS (check local listings).

TV PIPELINE

By Taylor Michaels

Angela Lansbury

Q: Will Murder, She Wrote ever come back to TV? I am very disappointed that it is going off the air. –M.K., Burlington, N.C.

A: Angela Lanshury will indeed continue to play Jessica Fletcher in a series of Murder TV movies, although you may not see one this coming season (she'll be doing a sequel to Mrs. 'Arris Goes to Paris).

Q: Among the Mama's Family supporting characters, could you tell me the names of the daughters played by Betty White and Carol Burnett? –Francine Johnson, Charlotte, N.C.

A: White played social-climbing Ellen Jackson, while Burnett was, of course, the terminally frustrated Eunice Higgins.

Q: A quick correction to your May 26 column. The Champions was not an NBC series, as you reported, but a British series that had some of its 30 episodes carried by NBC. To the best of my knowledge, this highly original program is available on video only in the U.K. –Larry Oliver, Long Beach, Calif.

A: Thanks for the additional info, Larry. My source didn't indicate the British origin.

Q: On Jack Benny's old TV program, can you tell me the name of the man who was his sidekick? I believe his first name was Don. –Mary Bogle, Oakland, Calif.

A: Don Wilson, who played Benny's announcer and friend, and Eddie "Rochester" Anderson were the only weekly regulars who were with Benny for his entire TV run.

Q: Recently, Bruce Weitz from Hill Street Blues was a regular on Sisters. Would you please remind my friends and me of what his Hill Street character's name was? –L.L.K., Wurtsboro, N.Y.

A: Weitz won an Emmy playing Detective Mick Belker, the scruffy undercover officer.

Q: Are Marina Sirtis and the actress who played the mother on Life Goes On sisters? What does CAG stand for on JAG? –A reader in Medicine Hat, Alta., Canada.

A: Sirtis is not related to Patti LuPone. The CAG is the Carrier Air Group commander.

Q: I'm looking for a movie called J-Men Forever and have had no luck through Movies Unlimited and other sources. Help! –Maria Elena Whiting, Layton, Utah.

A: Thanks for asking. If you have not been able to find a movie through Movies Unlimited (800-4MOVIES) or Critics Choice Video (800-367-7765), try calling the video detectives at A Million and One World-Wide Videos (800-849-7309).

Between these three companies, you should be able to find any video that CAN be found.

SOAP TALK

Beradino dies at 79; Locklear stays on MP

By Candace Havens
©TVData Features Syndicate

Heather Locklear

Dear Candace: I was wondering what had happened to the actor who played Dr. Steve Hardy on General Hospital. He has always been one of my favorites on the show. He is never around anymore. –S.R. in Vacaville, Calif.

Dear Reader: John Beradino died of cancer on May 19. The actor was 79. He had been a regular on GH since 1963. The actor had suffered with the disease for several years.

Beradino previously played second base for the Cleveland Indians.

He is survived by his wife, Marjorie, their children Katherine Ann and John Anthony, and his children from a previous marriage, Toni and Cindy.

Dear Candace: I heard that Heather Locklear is leaving Melrose Place. Is that true? I think it would be a big mistake for the producers to let her go. –James G. in R.I.

Dear Reader: Locklear isn't leaving anytime soon. The actress has signed a one-year contract with the show. She has hinted she would like to leave when the year is up.

There are also several other series regulars who will most likely not return after next year.

Dear Candace: The actor who plays Dr. Ben Harris on As the World Turns looks familiar. Has he been on another soap? –Nancy in Orlando, Fla.

Dear Reader: It is no surprise the actor seems familiar to you. Peter Parros, who plays Dr. Harris, also played Dr. Ben Price on One Life to Live. Talk about typecasting.

McCOMBS RETIRE - Rev. Earl and Norma McCombs were recently honored as Rev. McCombs retired as interim pastor of the Oak Park Church of the Brethren, Oakland. Rev. McCombs had cut his retirement short two years ago when he agreed to pastor the church upon the transfer of Rev. Paul Stauffer, former pastor of the church, who departed in June of 1994. Pictured, the McCombs display one of the cakes presented to them at the recent appreciation day event held at the church. The newly hired permanent minister, Rev. Mel Menker from Medina, Ohio, assumed the pastorship of the Oak Park Church on Monday.

White Joins Race For MLP Town Council

Patricia "Pat" White has announced her candidacy for a position on the Mtn. Lake Park Town Council.

White has been a resident of Mtn. Lake Park since May 1957. Although not a Garrett County native, she has spent most of her adult life here. She is originally from West Virginia.

White feels that as a town council member she would listen and learn about the workings of Mtn. Lake Park, and would like a chance to help the town with its problems.

The election is set for July 9 at Mtn. Lake Park Town Hall.

Local Writers Participate In Poetry Weekend

Writers from Garrett County participated recently in the Mountain Lake Writers' Festival 1996 Poetry Weekend held at Leatherbury Fantasy Valley.

Following the success of last year's week-long writing workshop for young writers, the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival sponsored the Poetry Weekend on June 21-23 as an outlet for adults. Professionals, homemakers, students and educators from Oakland, Grantsville, Accident, McHenry, Mtn. Lake Park, and Baltimore participated in the session.

Poet Barbara Hurd, associate professor of English at Frostburg State University, instructed the two-and-a-half day intensive group session. She is the winner of a Maryland State Arts Council Individual Artist Award and the author of Objects in This Mirror. Hurd guided writers through the weekend in sections: gathering ideas for poems, using those ideas to write poetry, collectively critiquing work, revising poems, and seeking publication.

To cap off the Poetry Weekend, students and instructor read some of their poems at a reception on Sunday afternoon. Many of the writers who participated are members of the recently revived Mountain Top Writers' Guild; they say they look forward to sharing their experience with others. "Everyone who came agrees that the setting, the quality of the instruction and the chemistry of the group all made for an enjoyable learning experience, one that has this year's participants looking forward to next year," said Hurd.

She will also be a lead instructor in the upcoming Young Writers' Summer Workshop on July 22-26. For further information persons may contact Annie Williams at (202) 265-8010 or Sandy Flanigan at (301) 387-4487. The Mountain Lake Writers' Festival is funded by a gift from The Eugene M. Lang Foundation; Fantasy Valley facilities are contributed by Chaney Enterprises.

New DNR Trail Stewardship Program Noted

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) State Forest and Park Service has started a new statewide Trail Stewardship Program.

"Maryland's state forests and parks have hundreds of miles of trails through all types of scenery," DNR Secretary John R. Griffin said. "Our new Trail Stewardship Program offers people who enjoy the use and beauty of these trails a way to volunteer to maintain and educate people about the trails and to give money toward their continued maintenance and upkeep."

Recent studies suggest that a majority of people support and use trails through their communities and on public lands. In northern Baltimore County, DNR's Northern Central Rail Trail supports more than 465,000 visitors a year, many whom use the trail for birdwatching, hiking, fishing, and exercising.

The kickoff of the new program was held on Saturday, June 1, at Patapsco Valley State Park, near Ellicott City, to coincide with National Trails Day, a national day of celebration designed to draw attention to the important role trails play in people's lives. Besides providing areas for passive recreation, trails create open stretches of land for use by wildlife. These trails provide important wildlife habitat and areas where people can watch and enjoy nature, according to Griffin.

The Trail Stewardship Program provides people with a way to make tax-deductible donations for trail maintenance, operation and education for specific state parks and forests. Footprints Only, Inc., a non-profit organization, is sponsoring the program.

Money raised through the program will be used for improving accessibility to trails, ranger patrols, maintenance of trails, and for improving information about trails.

The program will also offer opportunities for people to volunteer to work to improve access, maintain trails, or educate people about trails in Maryland's state forests and parks. People making a minimum $5 donation will receive a sticker they can display to show their support for trails on public lands. They can also receive updates on trail programs and other volunteer opportunities in the facility headquarters.

To learn more about the Trail Stewardship Program, persons may contact their nearest state forest or park, or call DNR's State Forest and Park Service at (410) 974-3771.

Attention customers of Potomac Edison

During the next few weeks, Potomac Edison will be joining its sister companies in the transition to a new company, Allegheny Power. We are redesigning the way we deliver service to our customers so we can keep rates low and continue to offer efficient, reliable electric service.

As part of our redesign, we will be closing a number of regional business offices and opening a new, centralized Customer Service Center to process all customer inquiries, including bill payments, new service applications, credit arrangements and other transactions. While our regional offices will be closed to walk-in customers, construction crews, linemen, meter readers and other key personnel will remain at those locations to provide the same high level of service you have come to expect from us.

In addition, we will be offering several convenient options to make it easy for our customers to pay their bills.

GCCAC Employee, Volunteer Of The Year Are Named

TWO HONORED BY GCCAC - One employee and one volunteer of the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc., were honored recently by being named the GCCAC Employee of the Year and the Volunteer of the Year. Pictured above with Duane Yoder, GCCAC executive director, are Melissa Green, left, the Volunteer of the Year, and Dora Ringer, the Employee of the Year.

The Maryland Association of Community Action Agencies, Inc., of which the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc., is a member, recently named GCCAC staff member Dora J. Ringer the GCCAC 1996 Employee of the Year. In addition, the GCCAC also named Melissa Green, a resident of Jennings, as its Volunteer of the Year.

According to a spokesperson for GCCAC, Ringer has been employed with GCCAC since April 27, 1992. She was hired as accounting clerk and is now in the position of assistant finance director.

Ringer is a graduate of Frostburg State University with a bachelor of science degree in accounting. As well as other awards, she has received the American Legion Certificate of School Award, Who's Who American Junior College Award, and the State of Maryland Scholastic Merit Award.

Ringer was a Head Start parent group president when her daughters, Emma and Tabitha, were in Head Start. She also served as the Habitat For Humanity treasurer volunteer.

Ringer is responsible for supervising accounts receivable and payable and the accuracy of accounts. Her duties encompass all aspects of payroll, including the state and federal payroll reports and updates. She communicates daily with staff, vendors, and other agencies.

Betsy Lawson, director of the Finance department of GCCAC, said, "Dora has been an exceptional employee. She is very capable and knowledgeable. She is dedicated and will work until a project is completed accurately. She has been a real pleasure to work with."

Linda Green, director of Community and Emergency Services, states concerning Ringer, "She is a committed team player. She gets the job done, and in a way that is conducive to mutual trust and personal enrichment on the part of all parties involved. She also motivates her fellow workers at GCCAC to give their best as well."

As a single parent, Ringer has worked to put herself through college and purchase her own home. "She is a beacon of encouragement to all," Green added.

According to a spokesperson from GCCAC, Melissa Green began volunteering for GCCAC on a regular basis in 1986 at the age of 13. She has volunteered for four different departments in GCCAC, including: Transportation, Head Start, Garrett County Food Resources, and Area Agency On Aging.

In the Transportation department, she wrote driver dispatches, assisted drivers in delivering meals to the elderly, and helped with commodity distribution to the elderly and handicapped.

She volunteered for Head Start as a classroom aide for two and a half years. During that time, she completed the 90-hour Child Care Course and gave over 2,500 hours of her time to Head Start.

She has been a volunteer with the Garrett County Food Resource Program's Self Help Pantry for six years, where she is involved in many aspects of the program, from helping to load trucks and to bag the food, to shopping for a sponsor, and even transporting food to the distribution site.

Pam Nelson, director Of Community Service and Family Development at GCCAC, commented, "Melissa has touched the lives of countless children and adults in Garrett County. I truly appreciate her commitment and dedication to helping others."

In addition to giving of herself for GCCAC, she has also volunteered for the Wild Life Program Owl Banding Project for Garrett Community College.

Kevin Dodge, director of the program at GCC, stated concerning Melissa, "Though she is not a student in the Wildlife Program, Melissa has volunteered for the owl banding project for the past two years. She comes in at 3 a.m. and works until dawn. She has been very helpful, and I have come to rely upon her to get the job done without supervision."

Green traveled to Solomon's Island on Wednesday, May 8, where she was honored for her volunteer efforts by the Maryland Association Of Community Action Agencies, Inc.

Green graduated from Garrett Community College this year with an associate in arts degree in agricultural management.

Not Guilty Verdict Handed To Man Accused Of Battering Wife

Among the numerous cases heard by visiting District Court Judges Thomas A. Lohm, W. Timothy Finan, and Paul J. Stakem in recent district court proceedings was one involving an Oakland man who was cleared of assault and battery charges.

Judge Lohm presided over the case of Brian E. Deem, 28, who was found not guilty of both charges because the victim, Rebecca A. Deem refused to testify.

The case involving Deem began on April 1, when he was arrested for the offenses by a Garrett County sheriff's deputy after he reportedly battered his wife by hitting her with his fist and with a stick.

According to the charging statement, the defendant began hitting his wife as she was driving their car. He reportedly hit her in the head repeatedly. At one point, he told her to pull the car to the side of the road near Herrington Manor, and the two walked into the woods. As they walked, Deem told her to tell him about her work, and when she would stop talking, he began hitting her on the head with a stick and his fist. The report further stated that with each blow, Mrs. Deem's head would hit a tree. Deem then told his wife not to lie to him anymore, and the pair walked to the car.

The report stated that Mrs. Deem had an appointment at Social Services, and she told the officials there about the incident. The police were then contacted and officers found the victim bruised and scratched, with a large bump on her head. When the deputies questioned the defendant about the incident, he reportedly told them they were simply having "regular marital problems."

In other district court news, Michael T. Upole, 26, Oakland, pleaded not guilty, but was found guilty of one count of battery. He was sentenced to a 90-day jail term, but all of that sentence was suspended except for 10 days. He was also fined $50, placed on three years of unsupervised probation, and ordered to have no contact with the complainant, Sherry Upole.

The charges against Upole stemmed from a March 10 argument with his wife, when he reportedly grabbed her and threw her to the ground, causing several cuts and bruises.

Lysander L. Dudley, 32, Sterling, Va., pleaded guilty to one count each of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS), and one count of DUI. He was placed on 180 days of supervised probation, and fined a total of $400 for the combined offenses. Conditions of his probation state he must satisfactorily complete a driver education program. An additional charge of speeding, also filed against Dudley, was not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

The charges against the defendant stemmed from his April 4 arrest by Maryland State Police after he was stopped for speeding. The arresting officer stated a small plastic bag of marijuana fell from the glove box as the defendant opened it to retrieve his identification. The trooper stated he also detected an odor of alcohol on Dudley's breath at the time of the arrest.

Mario J. Hendricks, 20, Bethlehem, Pa., pleaded guilty to one count of trespassing on posted property. He was sentenced to five days in jail and fined $50. Two counts of fourth degree burglary were not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

Hendricks was charged with the offenses on Dec. 22, 1995, after he apparently used a key to enter a CSTX tower in Mountain Lake Park to get out of the cold, to photograph trains, and to look for train souvenirs. The charging statement, filed by the CSTX police in Cumberland, indicated that the defendant had made unauthorized entry into the tower, which was posted with a "no trespassing" sign.

Gerald Distel, 35, Frostburg, was not prosecuted on two counts of trespassing. The charge was filed on Feb. 21, by John W. Greathouse, Grantsville.

Tammy J. Sanders, 24, Mtn. Lake Park, was granted probation before judgment after pleading guilty to possession of CDS. Judge Lohm placed the defendant on 180 days of supervised probation, and fined her $50. Sanders was charged with the offense on Aug. 14, 1995, after Garrett County sheriff's deputies served a search and seizure warrant at her home and

Edna Bender To Lead Workshop On Oil Painting

Local freelance artist Edna Bender will teach an oil painting workshop for beginners as part of ArtWorks '96, the summer arts workshop program being sponsored by the Garrett County Arts Council.

Bender's four session oil painting workshop will be held in the art room of Garrett Community College adjacent to the Bausch & Lomb Gallery on Monday evenings from 6:30 to 9 p.m., beginning July 22 and concluding August 12. Advance registration is required by contacting the Garrett County Arts Council at 387-3121

An Arts Council spokesman described Bender's oil painting workshop as "a relaxed, low stress class, designed especially for individuals who want to paint but think they can't draw a straight line." The workshop is also designed for persons who have done a few previous paintings, but desire continued help and encouragement. The instructor will explain the beginning steps of oil painting, and participants will be encouraged to complete an oil painting along with the instructor as she demonstrates.

Mrs. Bender is a children's book illustrator and coordinator of the annual Accident IDEA art show and competition. Her commissioned paintings hang in hundreds of private and public collections throughout the United States and abroad.

Bender teaches art classes for adults and children of all ages in numerous community programs and locations. Though she works with students of all levels of achievement, she claims "a special satisfaction" in introducing first-time students to the joy of working with oils.

For further information on this and other workshop offerings in the ArtWorks '96 summer program, persons may call the Garrett County Arts Council at 387-3121. Complete listings and registration information are also available at all branches of the Ruth Enlow Library.

He was placed on one year of unsupervised probation, and ordered to forfeit his gun. Maryland To Implement New EMT Curriculum

The Maryland institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems (MIEMSS) announces that the new United States Department of Transportation Emergency Medical Technician-Basic (EMT-B) curriculum was implemented statewide beginning July 1, 1996. The program has been customized for Maryland through consensus by the Statewide Emergency Medical Services Advisory Council. Currently, the EMT-B program has been implemented by approximately 14 states nationwide.

In Maryland, there are presently four levels of certification for the professionally trained personnel who respond to the emergency scene to assess, stabilize, and transport those with emergency injuries or illness. They are First Responder, Emergency Medical Technician-Ambulance (EMT-A), Cardiac Rescue Technician (CRT), and Emergency Medical Technician-Paramedic (EMT-P). By January 1, 2000, the EMT-A certification will no longer be recognized in Maryland. There is a 24-hour "bridge" course that allows current EMT-A providers to upgrade their knowledge and skills to the EMT-B certification. The full Maryland EMT-B course requires 128 hours to complete. To date, seven 125-hour EMT-B courses and 24 EMT-A to EMT-B bridge courses have been held. It is anticipated that 540 EMT-B's will be trained by July 1,1996.

The new EMT-B program provides instruction in the essential skills necessary for providing emergency medical care at a basic life support level. The course puts emphasis on patient assessment. Lifesaving interaction is stressed. Students must have a prerequisite of current CPR certification. They are then taught how to use an Automated External Defibrillator (AED) to assist in the care of patients in cardiac arrest. The new EMT-B's will be trained to assist patients in administering their own prescribed medications of nitroglycerin for the relief of chest pain, auto-injectors for allergic reactions, and inhalers for asthma. With the assistance of a doctor, they will be able to administer charcoal or Ipecac for poisonings and glucose paste for diabetic patients.

MIEMSS Executive Director Dr. Robert Bass said: "It is through the continued support of Maryland's career and volunteer emergency medical care providers and their dedication to providing the best care to their patients that this program will be effective. Maryland will continue to lead the nation in the delivery of emergency medical care."

Spruce Forest Prepped For Summer Events

A team of volunteers representing the Spruce Forest Artisan Village Board, the Penn Alps Board, and the Spruce Forest Artisans' Guild recently rolled up their sleeves to help tidy the artisan village, located near Grantsville, for the upcoming Summerfest and Quilt Show, slated for July 11-13.

"This was the first of what we hope will become several joint efforts this year between Spruce Forest and Penn Alps to work together to help our village campus prosper," stated Trish Morgan, village administrator. "The Summerfest/Quilt Show is our biggest fundraiser during the year, and is funded in part by Penn Alps, the Garrett County Arts Council, and the Maryland State Arts Council. We anticipate over 6,000 visitors to our village during the festival, and we're keeping our fingers crossed for good weather."

Participating in the clean up effort were Morgan, along with her husband, Tony, and son, Andy; Lowell Bender, forest president; Spruce Forest board members Jean Swauger, John Hepler, Maxine Broadwater, and Susan Anderson; Spruce Forest Artisan's Guild members Susan Holt, Bonnie Frederick, Meriam Brode, and Lynn Lais; Jerry Beachy, Penn Alps president; and Penn Alps Board members Alta Schrock, Clifford Maust, Ralph Miller, and Jeannie Miller; and Walter Swauger.

Other activities planned for the remainder of the year include the Music at Penn Alps summer concert series, which will offer live music every Saturday evening in August; an outdoor concert in the forest in early September; the Spruce Forest Village Walk/5K Run, titled "My Heart's in the Arts," on September 28; summer and fall tours; and a Christmas in the village event December 6 and 7.

For more information about Spruce Forest activities, persons may call 895-3332.

Glimpse of The Past . . .

A TIME OF REMEMBRANCE captured on film in the Grantsville Cemetery many years ago by renowned photographer Leo Beachy, a resident of that town, seemed appropriate for this July 4 issue of The Republican. It is more probable that the photo was taken on Memorial Day; however, Independence Day affords one more opportunity for American citizens to celebrate our freedoms and to remember and pay tribute to all who, throughout the first two-plus centuries of our nation's independence, sacrificed so much to protect that independence. The photo is published with permission from Maxine Beachy Broadwater, a relative of Leo Beachy who now owns his glass negative collection. "Glimpse of the Past" photos are published courtesy of the Garrett County Historical Society and The Republican.

Lake Users Are Urged To Use Caution Over 4th

The Natural Resources Police (NRP) is asking all users of Deep Creek Lake to exercise extreme caution over the Fourth of July holiday, as the waters will be busy throughout the four-day weekend. A heavy volume of traffic is expected in the form of speedboating, swimming, tubing canoeing, "jet-skiing," fishing, and all other water recreation.

The NRP has asked that persons consider little or no alcohol consumption, and that they remember that the bright sun and the increased wave motion on the lake can cause stress and delay a driver's reaction time in an emergency situation. Danger is increased by a person's inability to maneuver.

Persons are asked to use common sense on the water at all times to help make the weekend a safe one.

Wins Scholarship To Mercyhurst

Nikolas Patrick James, a 1996 graduate of Southern High School, was recently awarded a music department scholarship to study at Mercyhurst College this fall.

Through an audition process, James was also awarded the Egan scholarship and a grant. A self-taught musician, James plans to pursue a career as a classical pianist. Of 1,800 applicants, only 400 were accepted into the college for the fall semester.

During his years at SHS, James was listed on the honor roll and was recognized by Who's Who Among American High School Students (four years), the U.S. Achievement Academy (three years), and the Foster T. Bittle Honor Society. He also received the National Leadership and Service Award.

James served as secretary of the Cumberland Astronomy Club and the SHS chapter of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA). During his membership on the VICA quiz bowl team, the team placed 2nd in 1995 and 1st in 1996 in the Maryland State VICA Quiz Bowl competitions.

James is the son of Donald and Juanita James, Kitzmiller. His brother, Cristopher, is a 1988 graduate of SHS.

Keller Stonebraker Real Estate
A VERY SPECIAL PROPERTY ON THE SHORES OF DEEP CREEK LAKE

Go back to a time when there were no condominiums on Deep Creek Lake, and the places to go were Thayer's Barn, Stone Tavern, and Halsey's Snack Bar. Ofcourse that is impossible, but it is possible to enjoy a sample of that era in this 3+ bedroom, original log cabin that has been lovingly maintained and upgraded to a year-round residence on a level, wooded 100' waterfront with type "A" dock.

Surrounded by other impressive homes on Lakeshore Drive, this wonderful unique property, that has not been offered for sale in the past 40+ years, has a peaceful, private, easily accessible setting similar to the home in the movie On Golden Pond.

The home includes a massive native stone fireplace for your winter time enjoyment, and a spacious wrap around porch for summer entertainment and relaxation. For more details, and your personal tour,

Ranks First In WVU Ag/Forestry Graduating Class

Jennifer D. Thorn, Mtn. Lake Park, graduated summa cum laude with a 4.0 grade point average from West Virginia University in May. She ranked first in a class of 353 students graduating from the College of Agriculture and Forestry, and received a bachelor of science degree in dietetics/human nutrition.

During her college career, Thorn was inducted into the Mortar Board National Senior Honorary, Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi, Phi Epsilon Omicron Honor Society, Phi Theta Kappa International Scholastic Order, and Alpha Lambda Delta Honor Society.

West Virginia University Hospitals/Ruby Memorial Hospital selected Thorn as one of the six interns chosen among applicants from across the United States. After she was selected for the position, the American Dietetic Association awarded her a national scholarship to cover the full tuition for the dietetic internship, which will begin in the fall. Successful completion of this program will enable her to sit for the examination to become a registered dietitian.

She is the daughter of Donald and Carolyn Thorn and a graduate of Southern High School.

Names Omitted From SHS Roll

At least four names were inadvertently omitted by school officials from the Southern High School honor roll that was published last week. Students whose names should have been listed include: Janet Cook, who was named to the distinguished honor roll for both the term and the semester; and William Stoner, Alicia M. Wolfe, and Daniel Sincell, who were also on the regular honor roll for the semester.

OCYF Hearing On Systems Reform Initiative Slated

In announcing the hearing, a local OCYF spokesperson encouraged local residents to attend the event.

"We want you to share with the task force examples of successful community-based programs currently working in the county, ideas for improving the continuum of family services and for improving family-based services in the county, and, finally, testimonials on how the systems reform initiative has impacted the county," the spokesperson said.

The systems reform initiative is a statewide effort to change the way services are provided to children and families, the way decisions are made at state and local levels, and the way services are funded.

COCOMO'S LAKESIDE

Lulubelle Is Spotted!
(In more ways than one)

After last month's disappearance of Cocomo's famed cow, Lulubelle, the community of Garrett County has banded together to insure her safe and prompt return. Many feared injury, amnesia, and even kidnapping. Police had few leads to the whereabouts and circumstances leading to Lulubelle's disappearance. Concerned citizens organized an independent task force in search parties that have lasted for days, stretching into weeks.

Random sightings of a holstein matching Lulubelle's description have been reported to the Sheriff's Office. Police officials have now discounted foul play in the cow's disappearance. Many speculate that Lulubelle's disappearance is instead a voluntary effort to "graze where no cow has grazed before." Disgruntled cowmates openly complain, "She was always of a different breed, seeking her own pasture rather than following the hoof-beaten paths of others."

Miss Lulubelle Is Spotted At Cocomo's Lakeside!

Eyewitnesses have identified a red and white polka dot bikini clad holstein in and about the Deep Creek Lakeside area. Frequent sightings at Cocomo's Lakeside have been reported by casual onlookers. One tourist remarked, "She obviously has good taste," as the cow was observed exiting the restaurant. They had just enjoyed the ice cream treats and sandwiches and were coming back later for some of the baked goods available from Miss Cleta's kitchen. Rumor has it that Miss Lulubelle's downfall is the cinnamon rolls, much to the detriment of her feminine bovine figure.

While a few of the holstein herd continue to harbor resentment and jealousy over Lulubelle's increasing public attention and popularity, the majority tends to express curiosity of once-uncharted bovine territory. "Hot Fun in the Summertime," has become a prominent theme among the heifers. Funland, a family fun center featuring go-carts, bumper cars, and a putt-putt course, is now a popular attraction for "barn-raising" good times for the adventuresome 4-legged beasts.

Cocomo's Ice Cream and Sandwich Shoppe is located 2 miles north of Deep Creek Lake on Route 42 (746-8375), and Cocomo's Lakeside is located at Funland Family Fun Center on Route 219 at McHenry (387-2063).

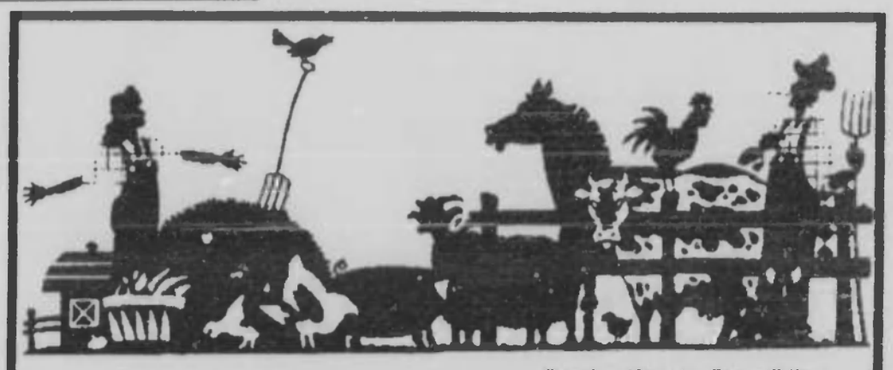
Small Grain Harvest In Full Swing

For the week ending June 30, small grain harvest made significant progress as drier weather prevailed throughout much of the state. Many areas were still experiencing problems with excess moisture and drainage.



Barnice Kepple, Farm Editor

Farming In Maryland.....

Barley harvest made good progress, but continued to lag considerably behind the five-year average. Rye harvest did not progress as well during the past week, but remained close to normal. Wheat harvest jumped significantly over the previous week and was ahead of average. Corn planting was completed and the crop had just begun to silk.

Corn condition was one percent very poor, seven percent poor, 24 percent fair, 51 percent good, and 17 percent excellent. Soybean planting progress again leaped forward. The crop was five percent poor, 23 percent fair, 61 percent good, and 11 percent excellent. Sorghum planting also made significant gains over the previous week. The crop was one percent poor, 35 percent fair, 56 percent good, and eight percent excellent.

Vegetable planting moved ahead. Lima bean planting continued to lag behind the five year average. Other crops fared better as cucumbers, snap beans, and sweet corn were all over 90 percent planted. Harvest of green peas jumped ahead and approached the five year average. Harvest of cucumbers and snap beans continued as harvest of sweet corn was underway.

Cutting of alfalfa and other hay continued to progress slowly. First cuttings of other hay was finally over 90 percent done. Second cuttings of other hay were off to a slow start, making little progress over the previous week. The second cutting of alfalfa was also running behind the five year average. Pastures were three percent poor, 15 percent fair, 67 percent good, and 15 percent excellent. Hay supplies were mostly adequate.

Apples were five percent very poor, five percent poor, nine percent fair, 71 percent good, and 10 percent excellent. Peaches were four percent very poor, five percent poor, eight percent fair, 73 percent good, and 10 percent excellent.

Topsoil moisture was one percent very short, nine percent short, 83 percent adequate and seven percent surplus. Subsoil moisture was four percent short, 81 percent adequate, and 15 percent surplus. Conditions allowed for an average of 5.5 days suitable for fieldwork.

PROBLEMS IN THE BEAN FIELDS

If your beans are not looking very healthy, you had better check for root rot. Just this week I saw an entire field of beans wiped out due to Fusarium Root Rot. The Symptoms appear soon after seedlings emerge. The taproot is first slightly discolored, gradually becomes brick red, and finally brown with longitudinal cracks. Bottom roots are usually killed; new fibrous roots may form just above the discolored area and just below the soil surface. Over the years I have seen this disease quite often, especially during wet soil conditions. The fungus is soil borne and continues to build population as long as a legume is present. Rotation of beans following a non-legume crop is the best prevention method. However, I still recommend using a soil treatment of Ridomil at planting time. Apply 1 to 2 quarts per acre as a 7-inch band over the row at seeding or Ridomil PC 11G at 12 oz. per 1,000 lin. feet of row.

LATE BLIGHT OF TOMATOES

This could be the season for problems in the tomato patch. Already people are experiencing bacterial leaf spot, anthracnose, stem rot, etc. If you recall a couple of years ago, the late blight wiped out most of our tomatoes. This is a new strain of fungus that is very aggressive on tomatoes and resistant to Ridomil. I would recommend applying one of the following protectant fungicides and repeat every 7 days: Bravo 720, Dithane M-45, Manzate 200, Manex II or Terranil.

MT. FRESH IS OPEN FOR BUSINESS

The Mt. Fresh Producers will open their "tailgate" market in Oakland this Saturday, July 6, and continue each Saturday and Wednesday throughout the summer and fall. The bell rings for business promptly at 10:00 A.M. Believe it or not, there will be Garrett County ripe tomatoes for sale. The Daniel Yoder family has the first hydroponic tomato production system in this county. I have already enjoyed eating the tomatoes.

With technology this superior, we don't have to push.

The Krone Mower Conditioner achieves maximum flotation by pulling the cutterbar rather than pushing it. Plus, parallel linkage allows the cutter bar to closely follow the contour of the ground.

And in addition to roller-type, Krone also offers you the option of finger-type conditioning, which provides fast drying while still preserving the nutrients.

While others are pushing old technology, Krone's Mower Conditioner will pull better results for you. See your dealer for a demonstration today.

Leighton Named "Friend Of The 'Arts" By GCAC

The Garrett County Arts Council has presented its 1996 Friend of the Arts Award to Dorothy Brock Leighton. The award is presented annually to recognize "exemplary support of Garrett County arts."

Leighton, a former public school music teacher with degrees in music from Shenandoah Conservatory and Northwestern University, has held the position of choir director at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland for 25 years. She travels extensively to view art exhibits, sculpture displays, and architecture.

Leighton served on the Board of Directors of the Garrett County Arts Council for 13 years and was elected council president in 1982. She obtained a special grant for the arts announcement board in the lawn of the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland and worked on other special grants on behalf of the council in addition to successfully applying for annual support grants from the Maryland State Arts Council, a council spokesperson stated.

As president of the council, Leighton supported special performances in the schools with funding assistance from First United National Bank. She assisted with the arts council's annual Heritage Craft Festival in Oakland for 13 years and served on the Board of Directors of the Allegany-Garrett County Fine Arts Camp as well as on the GCAC scholarship committee, awarding scholarships to Garrett County students attending the annual camp.

In accepting the Friend of the Arts award from council president Ron Skidmore, Leighton commented that she has "made a special effort over the years to see that the people and the artists of Garrett County were represented and that all transactions of these boards were ethically and legally right."

In addition to her work with the arts council, Leighton also served on the planning committee that founded the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival and was a member of GLAF's Board of Directors for over six years.

FRIEND OF THE ARTS - Oakland resident Dorothy Leighton recently received the 1996 Friend of the Arts award from the Garrett County Arts Council for her local efforts on behalf of the arts. Pictured above, she accepts the award from Ron Skidmore, GCAC president.

I want to explore the possibilities of grant writing so we have greater financial flexibility," Learey said. Miss Fireworks 1996 Begins Reign Over TA's July 4th Celebration

Teri Queen, the 15-year-old daughter of T.R. Queen of Terra Alta and Debbie Carder of Jane Lew, was crowned Miss Fireworks 1996 during a coronation Monday evening in the community building at the Terra Alta Park. The event kicked off the 70th annual 4th of July celebration in Terra Alta, the state's oldest continuous Independence Day celebration.

The Rev. William Anderson, pastor of the Trinity United Methodist Church, offered the invocation, followed by The Star Spangled Banner, sung by Larilyn DeBerry, a recent graduate of Preston High School.

Stevie Bayles, mistress of ceremonies for the evening, introduced Miss Fireworks and her court, and Miss DeBerry emertained with a selection of popular and patriotic songs.

Teri was escorted during the coronation by John Grose, son of Bill and Patti Grose. Maid of Honor Melinda "Mindy" Grimm, daughter of Elmer Jr. and Mary Ann Grimm, was escorted by Micah Feather, son of Gary and Robin Feather, and Maid of Honor Trina Wolfe, daughter of Belinda Metheny and Robert Wolfe, was escorted by Jared DeWitt, son of Randy and Debbie DeWitt.

The princesses were Ashley Miller, daughter of Donald and Sandy Miller, who was escorted by Adam DeWitt, also the son of Randy and Debbie DeWitt; and Tiffany Whetsell, daughter of Charles and Angie Miller. Her escort was Jason Kelly, son of Ronald and Juanita Kelly.

Merian Kessler, daughter of Daniel and Tammy Kessler, is this year's flower girl; and Scott Fields, son of Scott and Sherry Fields, is the crown bearer.

Miss Maryland 1990, Kimberly Weimer, crowned Miss Fireworks, and Miss Fireworks 1995, Tina Freeland, daughter of Jay and Jody Freeland, officially handed over her title and offered words of encouragement to her successor.

Gifts were presented to Miss Fireworks by One Valley Bank, The Terra Alta Volunteer Fire Department, and Tina Freeland, and a representative from the Terra Alta Civic Club, sponsors of the coronation, presented gifts to members of the court. Two recent Preston High graduates, Brenda Anderson, and Kelli Hill, were the recipients of civic club scholarships.

Miss Fireworks and her court were guests of honor at a teen dance which followed the coronation in the East Preston Junior High School gymnasium. A disc jockey from WVAQ radio station in Morgantown provided music for the evening's entertainment.

Teri will continue her reign over the five-day Independence Day celebration in the mountaintop town, and at various parades and events throughout the year, including the Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade in Oakland, and the Preston County Buckwheat Festivalparades. A parade through Terra Alta will begin at 3 p.m. today (Thursday), featuring approximately 150 units; a "fireworks extravaganza" is planned for Friday, July 5, beginning at 10 p.m.; and the ever popular demolition derby will begin at 5 p.m. on Saturday, July 6. Visitors to the celebration will be treated each day to a carnival, featuring one-price ride tickets, live entertainment by local bands, an arts and crafts show and sale, and commercial exhibits.

Insect Repellants: Useful But Can be Dangerous

Bites and stings from insects are common during the summer months in many parts of the U.S. For those who are allergic to insect venom, the problem can be significant. An estimated 30 to 50 allergic Americans die each year from such stings. Many people apply insect repellants before going outdoors. Repellants work by discouraging insects from attacking the skin. They do not kill the insects.

According to the Handbook of Nonprescription Drugs, the best all-purpose repellant is DEET. Most repellant products contain from 15 to 20 percent DEET. Adults and children can be at risk from the toxic effects of this and other repellants. The Major toxic effect is on the central nervous system. Toxic symptoms may include nausea, vomiting, and a drop in blood pressure. The most serious problems, which occur after prolonged use, include manic psychosis, rapid pressured speech pattern, seizures, coma, and death.

The Centers for Disease Control recommends that repellants be applied only to exposed areas of the skin. Products with high DEET concentrations should be avoided. Do not inhale or ingest repellants or get them in the eyes. Use repellants sparingly since applications can last up to 8 hours. Wash repellants from the skin after going outdoors. Call a physician if a toxic reaction is suspected.

Aurora-Area Residents Speak Out On Consolidation Issue

by Nathan Raybeck

While Preston High School is busy winning national recognition, some people are busy thinking that the idea behind Preston consolidation is definitely not blue ribbon material.

According to former Preston County Board of Education member Arvin Harsh, Eglon, the major side effect of consolidation is the lack of social involvement in his community.

"I am talking about the athletic program, the public speaking program, and the arts," Harsh said. "All these have been lost with the formation of one school for the entire county. Some would say you can still have that if you come to the high school at Kingwood. The key word is 'if.'"

Harsh cites that the time spent on travel to and from the school is a predominant force that has caused many problems in the community.

"All the time they spend in travel is lost time to spend at home, or to spend in school activities. We have lost parental involvement with our children and this has been very destructive toward the family, the children's social life, and the community," Harsh said. He also stated that allowing parents to choose between sending their children to school in Preston County or Tucker County has only added to the conflict, citing a family that he knew that sent one of its children to Tucker while another one went to Preston.

"You can imagine the conflicts this would cause. In that kind of situation, people are going to get edgy, and there is no sense in any child going through that kind of situation," he said.

"I am soon 65, and this is the most disruptive thing that has ever happened, in may life, to our community. This has caused people to have a negative attitude and to have to adapt to a new lifestyle that has been degenerative to our community just to grow and prosper economically. This is just the worst thing that has ever happened," stated Harsh.

The type of weather customary to this area also adds to the dilemma of consolidation, Harsh said. Preston County schools missed numerous days of school this year, and he believes consolidation was the biggest cause of all these absences. Harsh said that the roads that the buses travel to take the students to and from school are not made for this type of long distance traveling.

"I can remember walking to school, wading through the snow to get there, and I think we can save classroom instruction time by going back to the way things were before consolidation," stated Harsh, adding that if each community had its own high school only about two or three days would have been missed because of the weather.

"It is just more practical, in my sense, to give the communities back their ability to make their educational decisions," he added.

Jean Winters is another resident of the area who agrees with Harsh's sentiment. Winters said that there are both pros and cons of consolidation, but the cons seem to outweigh the pros. She said that while consolidation offers, or should offer, a wider curriculum, the time lost in travel for most students and the inability of these same students to participate in activities after school seems to give a bad taste to the idea of consolidation in her mind.

"We are not turning out the well-rounded students like we used to when each community had its own school," she said.

While Harsh talks about the what he believes to be problems of consolidation, he also suggests answers to these problems. Harsh said that each school needs to be given back its ability to educate its students, and he believes community schools can give students the same, if not better, opportunities by using an interactive approach.

"We can bring the students into a room and sit them in front of a T.V. and let them watch and learn," he said. "That way, they can have teachers from Charleston or Tokyo, it does not matter. Students can have the opportunities of the big schools with the personal, human touch of their home schools."

Winters seemed to agree with this statement when she said that Preston was "too big" and that some students had fallen "through the cracks" that a little school could easily fill.

Winters seemed able to sum up both her and Harsh's feelings when she said "If proper education is a train headed east, then right now we are the caboose of a train headed west."

BUDGET MESSAGE FOR FISCAL YEAR 1997
THE BOARD OF GARRETT COUNTY COMMISSIONERS
JUNE 18, 1996

The Fiscal Year 1997 the General Operating Budget for the Board of Garrett County Commissioners will be $28.4 Million with an increase of 3.5% primarily attributable to increases to the Board of Education and Garrett Community College plus the establishment of two debt reduction accounts that will directly address current debt obligations. There is actually a decrease of 0.5% in the General Operation Budget ($136,247) when the expenditures for Debt Reduction ($850,000) and Reserve Fund ($250,000) are taken out.

The Capital Budget is $1.19 Million which reflects an increase of $418,472 or 5.44% when compared to Fiscal Year 1996. The major designation of these expenditures are the Board of Education, Garrett Roads Division, Garrett Community College, and Ruth Enlow Library.

The total General Operating Budget and Capital Budget show an expansion of $1,382,225 or 4.89% with 80% of this increase in expenditures being applied to the a reserve fund and direct debt reduction.

This budget has been very laborious to compile and the unexpected and unbudgeted disasters of the past winter made the financial condition of the County even more demanding. We must become financially solvent and in a position to prepare for future catastrophies. The County must continue to sufficiently promote economic development, afford for the best possible education for our children, and maintain the highest quality public service mandatory from all departments in a timely, efficient and courteous manner. This delivery of services will be provided through the proficient competence of our employees and in partnership with our citizens. To totally achieve this goal, the government must be operated in an open and accessible atmosphere, be based on comprehensive and strategic long term and short term planning, and have an appropriate management organization of fiscal responsibility.

Part Two of a Three-Part Series

Maryland's Lead Paint Poisoning Prevention Program

Ninety-five percent of the housing units built in Maryland before 1950 contain lead paint. Swallowing or breathing lead can poison children. Lead poisoning can slow a child's development and cause learning disabilities and behavior problems. While case findings are lower in the outlying counties, far fewer children are tested as compared to Baltimore City. The hazards associated with lead paint are the same regardless of the location of the property.

Maryland's Lead Paint Poisoning Prevention Program is designed to reduce the incidence of childhood lead poisoning, while maintaining the supply of affordable rental housing. The Maryland Department of the Environment has proposed regulations concerning risk reduction treatments, lead paint abatement services, liability relief for property owners and compensation for tenants.

Frequently asked questions about this program:

Question: When is lead risk reduction work required?
Answer: Risk reduction work is required in a vacant dwelling at turnover or if a tenant notifies the property owner of deteriorated paint, and the dwelling was built before 1950 (or pre-1979 if the property owner elects to participate in the program).

Question: What must be done to meet the risk reduction standards?
Answer: The property owner must pass the test for lead-contaminated dust or remove and repaint chipping, peeling and flaking paint, repair sources of paint failure, strip and repaint or replace interior window sills, cap window wells, secure upper window sashes and rehang doors as necessary to prevent friction. Bare floors must be made smooth and cleanable. Kitchen and bathroom floors must be overlaid with a water-resistant covering. Also, cleaning with a high phosphate detergent or its equivalent and use of a high efficiency particulate air (HEPA) vacuum is required.

Question: Can a property owner obtain lead-free status and be exempt from the risk reduction standards?
Answer: Yes. New legislation (House Bill 16 passed in the 1996 Session of the General Assembly) provides two procedures for exempting a property from the requirement to meet risk reduction standards. They are: (1) no lead paint (except factory applied coatings) on exterior or interior painted surfaces; or (2) no lead paint on interior painted surfaces and no chipping, peeling, or flaking lead paint on exterior surfaces.

Question: Can a rental property owner perform risk reduction work?
Answer: Yes. Owners may perform risk reduction work following completion of a two-day training session.

Six Transported To Hospital After Two-Vehicle Crash

Six persons were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital Sunday following a Sunday afternoon car crash in Deer Park. All six were treated for injuries and released, according to information at the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. The driver of one vehicle was cited.

According to the report, a 1996 Chrysler van, driven by Carol A. Klapal, 52, Randolph, N.J., was traveling westbound on Rt. 135 and a 1987 Ford Ranger, operated by Jason T. Miller, 19, Swanton, was traveling eastbound. Klapal apparently thought Miller was attempting to turn left into the Deer Park fire hall parking lot and she crossed the center lane to avoid hitting the Ranger. However, Miller was not turning into the lot and the van hit his vehicle on the right front driver's side. The Ranger spun around and hit the guardrail, and the van came to rest in a grassy area south of the impact zone.

The report indicated that the skid marks of the Ranger showed no evidence of Miller attempting to turn. Klapal was cited for failure to drive right of center.

Both drivers were transported to the hospital, as well as the following passengers in the van: Blanche Helbig, 82, Norfolk, Va.; Lucille R. Novak, 70, Framingham, Mass.; Ruth R. Jackson, 75, Oakland; and Ailene M. Harvey, 72, Lan-

Funds Sought To Obtain Van For Local Woman

A fund drive has been initiated by the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church with the purpose of purchasing a special van for a Grantsville resident who has suffered a disease that has left her paralyzed from the waist down. Diane Beitzel has not allowed the illness to stop her from volunteering her time to help others, according to Sheila Miller, who is spearheading the fund drive.

"For three years, Diane has volunteered at Grantsville Elementary School at least two to three days a week. Her time has benefitted many adults and children," Miller said. She added that the 26-year-old woman has volunteered at her church by being a Bible School assistant, library

SEVENTY-SIX TROMBONES, and at least one trumpet, will comprise the Gary, Indiana, High School Band, according to band director Harold Hill; however, the credentials of the professor are highly suspect and the focus of the hit musical, The Music Man, which will open this Saturday evening on the Southern High School stage. Saturday's 7:30 p.m. opening will be the first of five performances presented by the Garrett Choral Society, under the direction of Nancy Learey. Others are scheduled for Sunday, July 14, at 4 p.m., and Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, July 18-20, at 7:30 p.m. (Note the time change from 4:30 p.m. for the July 20 performance.) Cast members and their respective characters pictured above are, from left: Jann Dehus as Marion Paroo, Patrick Dehus as Winthrop; Fred Learey as Mayor Shinn (so addled he forgot to put on his pants), Sue Harkins as Mrs. Paroo (mother of Marion and Winthrop), and Tom Peterson as Professor Hill. Tickets are available ($8 for adults, $4 age 12 and under) at Englander's Pharmacy, Deep Creek Pharmacy, Arrowhead Grocery & Deli, and from Choral Society members. The production is being funded in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council/Maryland State Arts Council, and through special arrangement with Music Theatre International, New York, N.Y.

School Board Tightens Tobacco Ban, Finally Adopts Drug/Alcohol Rules

All activities of the Garrett County Public Schools will now be completely tobacco-free, as the Garrett County Board of Education voted Tuesday night to tighten the already-in-place tobacco ban. While the current policy, which was adopted in January of 1993, disallowed tobacco use in school buildings and on school grounds during the school day, the new addition will completely ban all tobacco products at all school activities. Tobacco use will not be allowed at any sports events, in or out of school buildings.

The tightened policy came about as part of the Garrett County Health Department's Tobacco-Free Coalition's continuing goal to lessen smoking among teenagers, which is apparently on the increase. The Coalition prepared a draft policy and procedure for the board to consider, and final documents are to be passed at the August meeting.

Garrett County Health Officer Rex Archer attended the meeting Tuesday and commended the board for moving ahead with the ban expansion. Some board members noted their concern about how to enforce the new rules.

"While the issue of enforcement always gets raised, it is almost never a concern," Archer said. "If you announce at games that smoking is not allowed, I think you will have crowd support." He later added that he will be at the games as well. "If it takes action by the health officer, then I'll do it," he said. He said that disallowing tobacco use is part of a "cuhural change we're going through" and that the policy is helping to "move things forward."

Archer also told the board that the Coalition will help to provide "No Smoking" signs to be placed at school fields. Dr. Brenda McCartney, director of elementary education, asked if the signs would also be placed at elementary schools, and the answer was yes.

Natalie Messer, health educator of the health department, told the board that in other counties where the ban was already in effect, there had been no negative difference in attendance.

"If we're trying to promote a healthful lifestyle to students, then this is a very important step to take,"

St. Police Arrest Frostburg Man On Fugitive From Justice Warrant

A Frostburg man was arrested on a fugitive from justice warrant from New Jersey following a traffic stop last Wednesday morning on Interstate 68, near the Casselman Bridge.

According to a report filed with the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, 31-year-old Keith J. Decollewaert was charged with that offense, as well as speeding, driving a vehicle with an expired tag, and driving on an expired license. During a check through the Motor Vehicles Administration, it was learned Decollewaert was wanted on an active warrant in Atlantic County, N.J.

He was transported to the Garrett County Detention Center, where he was awaiting extradition. No additional information about the warrant was available.

DRUG, THEFT CHARGES FILED

A 20-year-old Baltimore man and a juvenile were arrested on drug and theft charges following a traffic stop early Saturday morning.

According to a report filed by Tfc. Robert Sharp, Robert Jerry Hill Jr. was operating a 1987 Oldsmobile on Rt. 219, near the Glendale Road, at the time of the stop. The trooper reportedly noticed a hand-rolled, burned cigarette butt in the ashtray, and initiated a search of the vehicle. It was soon revealed that the juvenile was in possession of a plastic bag containing suspected marijuana, and the driver's license in Hill's possession had been reported stolen.

FIREWORKS CONFISCATED

The state police confiscated a large amount of illegal fireworks on July 4 from several persons in the area of the Wisp Hotel.

According to a report filed by Cpl. Bryan Davy, he was supervising traffic during the authorized fireworks display at the Wisp when several illegal displays were observed. Davy confiscated an assortment of bottle rockets, firecrackers, Roman candles, and other flying fireworks from five individuals, and transported the items to Steve Wendling, deputy fire marshal,

Motion Hearing Set For Aug. 28 In Fousek Case

Attorneys for the defense and prosecution in the criminal case against former Garrett County Clerk Robert Fousek will square off in a motion hearing slated for August 28 in Garrett County Circuit Court.

On the table will be a motion by Michael May, Fousek's attorney, calling for a change of venue for Fousek's trial to a courtroom outside of Western Maryland. May has also filed motions to dismiss all charges against his client.

Presiding at the hearing will be Judge Fred A. Thayer.

Maryland State Prosecutor Stephen Montanarelli has asked the court to deny Fousek's request for a change of venue.

In his motion for "removal" of the trial to another jurisdiction, May argued that prejudicial pre-trial publicity, in the form of articles, letters to the editor, and editorials printed in The Republican and the Cumberland Times-News, has permeated the judicial environment, impeding his

Mini-Stars To Take The GCC Stage Tomorrow

The Mini-Stars of Broadway, a team of 30 performers between the ages of 6 and 18 from the Civic Light Opera of Pittsburgh, will take the stage at Garrett Community College tomorrow, with the show opening at 8 p.m. The show is one of the many offerings of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival.

The young performers will present songs and dances from The Desert Song, Annie, Into the Woods, My Fair Lady, 42nd Street, and 1776. The group will also present a tribute to the late Gene Kelly.

This event is being sponsored by the Dental Health Group and the Oakland Area New Car Dealers.

The Mini-Stars were part of the GLAF line-up in 1994. The event was a sell-out and GLAF organizers expect a similar response this year.

"We're happy to include them in our season again," said Fred Stemple, GLAF executive director. Ticket prices for this event will be $7 for adults and $4 for students. Tickets are available at the door or at the following pharmacies: Beachy's in Grantsville (895-5177), Deep Creek in McHenry (387-5300), Englander's on Alder Street, Oakland (334-9455); and Gregg's on Third Street, Oakland (334-2197).

For tickets or information on any program, persons may contact the GLAF office at 387-3082.

Grantsville Girl Logs Over 1,000 Hours As Volunteer For Seniors

Fres[illegible]heran Services

Heather Butler isn't even certain why she volunteers.

"I guess it's because I just like older people," she said. Although she is just 12 years old, this young girl has logged more than 1,000 hours of service over the past three years, an accomplishment for which she was honored and recognized by Frostburg Village of Allegany County.

Heather began volunteering her time at age 9, helping with residents at the Village Nursing Care Center who were involved in the New Horizons group for persons with cognitive impairments. When her mother, Sharon Butler, a certified nursing assistant, moved from the center to the Mountain Glade Adult Day Care Center in Oakland, Heather began volunteering there.

"She has done a great job," said Kathy Copen, an activities assistant at the Village nursing care center. "She accumulated some 600 to 700 hours of service here before going to the day care center. She's a very hard worker."

A seventh-grader, Heather does most of her volunteering during the summer.

"I also come in on days when school is closed, such as around the holidays," the 12-year-old said. "I help the people play games and go for walks. We also do activities and other stuff. I help them get their lunches, too."

With career plans of becoming a nurse, Miss Butler reported that she has become close friends with a number of residents over the past few years.

"They are really nice, but some have passed on, which was sad," she said.

Her activities, she says, have spurred several of her friends to volunteer with other programs.

"I really like volunteering. It shows you how different people are and how you can appreciate them," Heather said. She is the daughter of Wayne and Sharon Butler, Grantsville.

Clerk Addresses County Workers' Pay Raise Issue

In a letter to all Garrett County government employees this week, Garrett County Clerk Lamonte Pagenhardt commended the workers for "a job well done," but provided official confirmation that the employees will not receive a pay raise this year.

"The commissioners' budget for fiscal year 1997, passed last month, holds the line on county government pay rates, including the commissioners' own salaries.

"I would like to explain how difficult it was to not include a cost-of-living adjustment in the fiscal year 1997 budget," Pagenhardt told the employees. "We need to address the current financial situation, accept the fact that there is no substantial projected increase in revenue, and continue to provide for the many services imperative to the people of Garrett County.

"The county will also not be filling the positions vacancies with the roads division," the clerk added.

However, Pagenhardt complimented the county employees on their performance, and asked for their help in increasing revenue and lessening expenses.

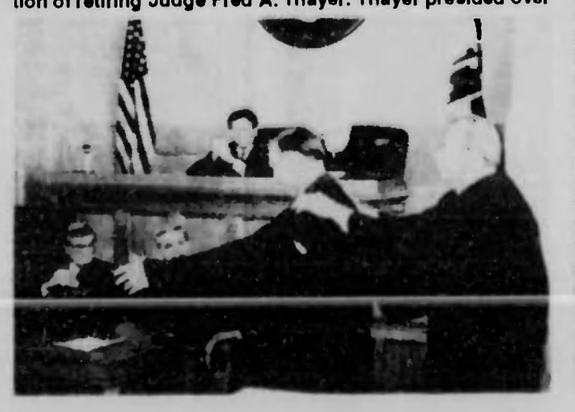
DISTRICT I CHAMPIONS - This team of Oakland Little League All-Stars captured the Maryland District I Junior League championship this past week by sweeping four playoff games. The local 13-year-olds stopped visiting Halfway, of Hagerstown, in the title game, 16-6, to claim the District I title and earn a spot in next week's sectional tournament. Team members pictured above include, kneeling, from left: Bryan Panther, Josh Fitzwater, Rusty Strubin, John Hayhurst, Justin DiSimone, and Mike Lantz. Standing, same order, are: Joe DiSimone, coach, Ken Tressler, manager; Mike DeWitt, Lance Treesler, Jared Fike, Jeremy Hayhurst, John Lucas, Jason Rohrbaugh, Justin Stephens, and Al Rohrbaugh, coach. See story on sports pages for details.

THE GAVEL WAS PASSED - In a ceremony last Friday, James L. Sherbin was inducted as associate judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit of Maryland, taking over the position of retiring Judge Fred A. Thayer. Thayer presided over the investiture ceremony, during which he passed the gavel to Sherbin - the same gavel used in the investiture ceremony of Thayer in 1977, on loan from the Garrett County Historical Society. Thayer noted that Sherbin is the county's fourth resident circuit judge, as the Maryland General Assembly voted to provide Garrett with its own circuit judge in 1955. David K. Martin, clerk of the circuit court, read the commission, witnessed Sherbin's signing of the Test Book, and administered the oath (shown top left). District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett then assisted Sherbin in donning the robe (pictured below). The Honorable Fred C. Wright III, now chief judge of the Fourth Circuit following Thayer, gave remarks, providing Sherbin with 10 "commandments" to follow. He instructed the new judge to be kind and patient, prompt and concise. He advised that he pray for guidance and, finally, to have the "hide of an alligator and the heart of a guardian angel." Sherbin spoke as well, thanking God and his wife and family for their support. He said he accepts the challenges before him and intends to perform his duties to the best of his ability. One of his first acts as judge was to swear in Lisa Thayer Welch as the new state's attorney for Garrett County (pictured above right), which took place Monday morning. Sherbin will be accompanied by Judge Thayer in the first few months on the bench as he "learns the ropes."



Pittsburgh Early Music Ensemble To Perform July 17 At GCC

by Kristina Carr Smith

A small group of musicians located in Pittsburgh with a love of early music bonded 6 years ago. Wanting to play and perform the music of this era, an ensemble was formally started in 1990 to play 17th and 18th century works. Their debut performance in Pittsburgh was hailed as one of the Ten Best concerts of 1991, and success has continued to follow them as they've performed baroque chamber music throughout the region. Next Wednesday, the ensemble will perform for Garrett County residents as a part of the Garrett Lakes Art Festival summer season.

The key to their success? The challenges that come from interpreting score with slight directions from the original composer, and their excitement about this time period and using skills they've struggled to achieve through long hours of practice alone and rehearsals... what they were trained to do -- make spirited and lively music from a past era come alive before eyes and ears. Dressed in clothing of days past, all that's needed is a bit of imagination to picture castle walls and a candlelit atmosphere to re-experience this past in the present.

"There's a fair amount of information regarding the ornamentation, and instrumentation, there's a fair amount of freedom in how to perform (the music) compared to the modern day, 19th century score. Today, a composer really gives a lot of information about how he wants his music performed," said Patricia Halverson, viola de gamba and recorder player, and an original founding member. "That's not the case with the 17th century. There's not very much information given so there's a lot of opportunity for choice and individual interpretation for the musician performing it, and that's nice." And a lot of fun for this four-member group.

Halverson likes how the music itself sounds and finds satisfaction in that as well. For next week's concert? "We will be playing 17th century music written by Italian and English composers, some music based on dance styles and movements, and some written in a division style, the English music has a ground or repeating base line and the soloist plays themes and variations over that. We'll be playing some sonatas as well. It should be fun," said Halverson.

Besides the ensemble's concert series in Pittsburgh

GCSO Probing Property Damage At SHS Track

An unknown culprit apparently drove a vehicle onto the running track at Southern High School over the weekend, causing several hundred dollars in damage to the area. The vandalism was reported to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office on Saturday and an investigation is underway.

According to the report, Dep. J. Green responded to the track and found that someone had apparently pulled on the locked gate with a vehicle, damaging both the chain-link gate and the fence. Once inside, the vehicle was driven down the walkway, across the track, and into the infield, where the tires were spun in the dirt. The vehicle was then apparently driven back across the track, leaving four-foot black marks on the surface.

The damage was estimated at over $300. Any person with information about this incident is urged to contact the sheriff's office at 334-1911.

Three-Car Wreck Sends Two To Garrett Memorial

A Mountain Lake Park woman and her passenger were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital last Wednesday afternoon following a three-vehicle accident on Third Street, Oakland.

According to a report filed by the Oakland City Police, Paula A. Aronhalt, 34, and her passenger, Brian K. Aronhalt, were injured when the 1993 Pontiac Firebird she was operating was struck in the rear by a 1996 GMC truck operated by James L. Riley Jr., 34, McHenry.

Aronhalt's vehicle was reportedly stopped in traffic that was headed south on Third Street, when Riley's vehicle struck hers. Riley admitted to police that he wasn't giving his full attention to his driving, according to the report. After the collision, Aronhalt's vehicle reportedly lunged forward and struck a third vehicle, a 1995 Ford Bronco operated by Cynthia H. Hemenway, 43, Wexford, Pa.

Both Aronhalts were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Southern Garrett Rescue Squad, for treatment. Neither Riley, nor Hemenway were injured in the 12:46 p.m. mishap. Also responding to the scene were volunteers from the Oakland fire department.

Auction, Dinner To Benefit ARC Set For July 26

The Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross will host its annual dinner and auction at the Pleasaut Valley Community Center on Friday, July 26. Tom Henline will be the auctioneer for the event which is scheduled to begin with dinner at 6 p.m. "The auction promises to be the most unique sale offered in Garrett County with items ranging from custom decorating advice by Decorator's Nook to an oil change and lube from Team One," stated an ARC spokesman.

Many local businesses have offered their services to benefit the Garrett County American Red Cross, which is supported by local volunteers and donations. Items to be auctioned include: a special "in-your-home" meal prepared by the executive Chef from Wisp Resort, personalized computer training by Dusty Huxford from FCSI, live piano entertainment for a private event by virtuoso David Sheetz, car detailing from Team One, tanning sessions by Heavenly Bodies, dog grooming from Wild Side Dog Grooming, a cord of delivered wood from Dry Wood Company, and a variety of other quality services and items from local merchants and residents.

"COME AND GET IT!" is a favorite directive of Charlie Fox, executive chef of the Wisp Resort, whose talents will be up for bid in a special dinner/auction to benefit the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross. A private meal prepared by Chef Fox is just one of numerous unique "items" that will be auctioned off following a dinner that will be served at the Pleasant Valley Community Center on July 26. Tickets are now available for the event. See story for details.

The American Red Cross is most known for Blood Services which supply the public with much needed blood and blood products. In addition, the ARC provides service to military families and veterans through communications, information, and financial assistance without funding from the government or other agencies. The agency also offers programs on disaster preparedness, emergency mass care, and assistance to individuals and families with urgent disaster caused needs.

American Red Cross volunteers are constantly participating in a nationwide program of education training, and other volunteer services designed to respond in disasters and other emergencies.

Trained volunteers offer courses in first aid, CPR, and courses for swimming, lifesaving, and survival swimming skills.

All proceeds from the event will benefit the Garrett County chapter of the ARC. Tickets are available for $7.50 and can be purchased at Proudfoot's, Flowers by Weber, or by calling the Garrett County American Red Cross at 387-2570.

Bloodmobiles Set; Local Blood Recipients Discuss Experiences

The American Red Cross bloodmobile will visit Friendsville and Oakland in upcoming days. A blood drive will be conducted at the Friendsville fire hall on Friday, July 12, from noon to 6 p.m., and at the Oakland Armory on Friday, July 19, from noon to 6 p.m. Babysitting services will be provided during the Oakland bloodmobile.

As the bloodmobile dates approach, two local persons this week discussed how they have benefitted from blood transfusions.

Mary F. Bever, Swanton, has suffered from a blood disorder for the past year, and is required to receive frequent blood transfusions. In a letter to The Republican, Bever addressed blood donors.

"You are very special because you, a volunteer, willingly and faithfully give life to me through your blood . . . As I receive your blood, I don't even know your name or what location you are from, but God knows, so I pray to him and ask him to bless you," Bever remarked.

"I could not make it without you," she added. "I wish I could come to the Red Cross centers and personally tell you all these things . . .

"You are the giver and I have to be the receiver. I thank you so much for the life we share through your blood. You have truly touched someone's life," Bever remarked.

In a telephone interview this week, Edith Gaither, Bayard, explained that she received a transfusion of four pints of blood last summer after losing blood before an operation.

"It saved my life," she commented, adding that she is thankful to blood donors.

Gaither added that her husband was a former blood donor, and now, following her operation, her grandchildren have stated that they want to donate blood "when they get old enough."

To give blood, persons must be at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 110 pounds, and be in generally good health. Normally, individuals can give blood every 56 days.

According to Elizabeth Huxford, blood services coordinator for the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross, local residents and patients are among those served through blood services of the Red Cross organization's Johnstown Region, a 63-county area in Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia. The Johnstown Region also supports blood needs experienced by patients elsewhere in hospitals served through Red Cross blood services.

The Oakland bloodmobile, slated for July 19, is unique in that it's one of 25 in the Johnstown Region that has accepted a challenge to substantially increase donations to help boost the summertime blood supply.

"During the summer we generally have fewer available locations where people can donate blood," Huxford said. "Vacations and warm weather affect several sponsors that we typically schedule at other times of the year for bloodmobiles, such as schools and businesses. This can result in fewer donations because these sponsors are not able to provide the donations that we must collect to maintain an adequate blood supply."

To further ease the blood donation process and help maintain accurate donation records, each donor is asked to bring his or her Red Cross donor card, driver's license, or other form of positive identification to the bloodmobile site. Individuals with specific questions may contact the Red Cross toll-free at (800) 54BLOOD.

Groundbreaking Set For Accident Library Addition

The Board of Trustees of the Ruth Enlow Library will conduct a formal groundbreaking ceremony On Monday, July 15, for the renovation/enlargement of the Accident Branch Library. The ceremony will begin at 11 a.m. at the branch site.

Although the Accident library has the highest circulation of Ruth Enlow's four branch locations, Accident librarian Janet Otto hopes the building expansion will attract more visitors to the facility.

The construction project will effectively double the library's floor space.

The Accident branch operates a pre-school reading club in the fall and spring, as well as a six week summer reading club for elementary school students.

School groups regularly tour the library, as do children from the local Head Start center. Zion Pre-School Nursery also brings children to visit the library, where they watch videos, hear stories, make crafts, and enjoy snacks.

The Accident library's three regular employees also serve numerous adult readers, including seasonal visitors from the Deep Creek Lake area.

The Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland, also operates three other branch sites, in Friendsville, Grantsville, and Kitzmiller. Books and other items are circulated among the five library facilities.

Mezzo Soprano Soderberg To Be At Penn Alps

Mezzo soprano Karen Soderberg will perform in the Great Hall at Penn Alps, Grantsville, on Saturday, July 13, at 7:30 p.m. She will be accompanied on piano by Joan DeVee Dixon.

Dr. Soderberg is director of vocal and choral activities and the current chair of the music department at Frostburg State University. She earned professional degrees from Pacific University, Lewis and Clark College, and the University of Arizona. She is the state vice president of the American Choral Directors Association and college/university representative and state choral sight-reading chair for the Maryland Choral Educators Association.

Her program will include selections by Mozart, Schubert, Barber, Rodrigo, Gershwin, and Victor Herbert.

Individual tickets, priced at $8 for adults and $4 for students 13 and over (children 12 and younger are admitted free), are available at the door or can be reserved by calling 895-3332. A pass to any five Music at Penn Alps events is available at $35 for adults and $15 for students.

Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by Spruce Forest Artisan Village and Penn Alps, with additional support from the Maryland State and Garrett County arts councils.

Elk Garden Man Cited By GCSO For Theft, DOP

An Elk Garden, W.Va., man was charged by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week for crimes he is alleged to have committed in the past several months. Douglas M. Bircher Jr., 36, was placed under arrest for violation of an expart order, theft, and destruction of property.

Bircher is accused of coming into the Mtn. Lake Park home of Kellie L. Stonebraker in April, despite a court order mandating that he stay away from the residence. The complainant reported that Bircher kicked in her door, broke up some glass in the house, and took her compact disc player and various compact discs. She said he also threatened to burn her house down and kill her cats.

In addition to the alleged crimes against Stonebraker, Bircher is also accused of taking a vehicle owned by Daniel Tasker, Elk Garden, without permission. For this the defendant has been charged with theft.

In other sheriff office news, three individuals were cited for DWI (driving while intoxicated) over the weekend.

Angela S. Geer, 24, Oakland, was arrested at 2:20 a.m. on July 6 when an officer observed her vehicle cross the center line of Rt. 219.

Robert W. Tabor, 22, Friendsville, was charged with DWI on July 7 at approximately 1 a.m. Tabor was operating a Ford truck on Sand Flat Road and an officer noticed the truck was weaving in the road. Tabor apparently then drove off the road and over a bank. He was not injured, according to the report.

Brian B. Richards, 46, West Mifflin, Pa., was charged with DWI on July 7. He was driving on Rt. 219 south of the Rt. 219 bridge and apparently crossed the center line several times. The arrest was effected at 2:12 a.m.

An Oakland man has been charged with fourth degree sex offense. Nathan T. Bendler, 21, has been accused of engaging in sexual activity with a 15-year-old girl on several occasions. He was arrested on July 9 and later released on his own recognizance.

Three bench warrants were served to individuals, all of whom were charged with failure to appear in court. They were: Deana L. Nolf, 27, Confluence, Pa.; Jeffrey M. Priapi, 23, Accident; and Kenneth F. Moskey, 49, Buffalo Mills, Pa.

To Perform

and surrounding areas, the group has been busy creating and performing a number of innovative programs for children which teach about the kinds of music that they play. "The programs are interactive, so that the children are not just sitting there listening to us saw away on our instruments," said Halverson. "The programs are designed in such a way that it makes for audience involvement."

The group has also designed a program that addresses a much talked about and developing process in schools across the country today, which deals with conflict resolution. "The premise is that we are a music ensemble that can't get along, and we have a concert that we are supposed to perform. We have a narrator who basically takes suggestions from the children to solve our problems, and the children help us come up with ways that we can get along and do what we need to do," said Halverson.

"In six years, we've just made a big transformation. One of our members has just moved to Israel; so changes are in progress. We'll be performing with two violins, viola de gamba, and harpsichord. Our name has changed as well to Chatham Baroque, partly in that we do our series in Pittsburgh at Chatham College," said Halverson. The quality of the music and their performance remains constant and something for audiences to look forward to.

The Pittsburgh Early Music Ensemble will perform Wednesday, July 17, at Garrett Community College at 8 p.m. Tickets are adults $10 and youth $5. For more information about this performance and other up-coming GLAE events, persons may call 387-3082.

Another Clean-Up...

At its Tuesday meeting this week the Garrett County Board of Education voted to make our school system entirely tobacco free. The decision was really just a revision of the policy adopted way back in January of 1993 to make all school buildings in the county tobacco-free. Garrett County was one of the first in the state to take this bold step.

The revision passed Tuesday simply amends the original policy to include all school property; in other words, smoking at school football games is also now prohibited.

While we laud the school board members for making this decision, that is not the purpose of this column today. Instead we feel obliged to utilize it to clean up yet another misrepresentation of the facts by a neighboring daily newspaper to make sure our residents get the correct story.

The Tuesday issue of the Cumberland Times-News carried on its front page an enormous headline that read "Garrett Eyes Smoking Ban." The lead started as follows: "Garrett County may soon adopt tobacco-free school environments..." Both the headline and the lead, quite obviously, gave the impression that making schools tobacco-free was something new in Garrett County.

Worse than the story, however, is today's editorial in the same publication that is titled "Garrett schools join fight against tobacco." Among the sentences/phrases in this piece are: "It's a wonder the step wasn't taken before now," and "...the Garrett County decision is anti-climatic," and "Allegany County public schools have had a strong anti-tobacco policy for some time."

To say the least, we are outraged with this kind of reporting and editorializing. Besides being totally inaccurate, it is patronizing and degrading, suggesting that those dense people "up there" in Garrett County have finally seen the light that the wise folks in Allegany County saw a long time ago.

Sour grapes from one newspaper to another? We don't think so, but we frankly don't care if someone makes such an allegation. We just wish the Cumberland Times-News staff would center its editorials on issues of Cumberland and Allegany County; or, if they insist on writing about issues in Garrett County, they should at least make sure they have the correct information.

To the Editor:

The rodeo that was recently sponsored by the Deer Park Fire Department has moved on down the road and who knows how many performances have taken place since Garrett County. If you missed the first rodeo in 20 odd years to come to Garrett County, I believe that you missed a beautiful evening of pure fun. Many cowboy fans will agree, viewing from the bleachers was less than desirable and a number of cowboys failed to reach the eight-second time limit in their respective event. So what! There is no guarantee when getting on the back of a thousand pound bull or a bucking horse that the prize money is on the way to the bank.

Bob Martin, you are to be commended for a performance well organized and fast paced. Goober, you and "the man" did a beautiful job of working the crowd.

We can imagine that the cowboys and cowgirls are mending their wounds, but I'll take odds they are already filling out the entry forms for the next rodeo. To the mutton busters, you have also made your move in becoming rodeo performers. A personal thanks to everyone for the enjoyable evening.

Sincerely,
Lonnie Rodeheaver

To the Editor:

July I marked the beginning of a new fiscal year for many non-profit organizations. The Southern Band Boosters is such an organization. Many hours nave been spent trying to balance a budget for the Boosters. It has proven to be a very difficult undertaking.

This year the Boosters will spend approximately $600 per band member to teach, outfit, and transport the band. Our 1996-97 budget is over $61,000. This money is almost exclusively raised by the Southern Bank Boosters. It is becoming increasingly harder to raise these funds every year.

Southern's Band participates in many community activities. Parades, Veteran's Day and Memorial Day activities, Fresh Air Christmas, football and basketball games are just a few. Community support for the band has been great, but now we must ask for more. We need the alumni of Southern High School to assist by contributing monetary donations or if you have a good usable instrument, gathering dust, donate the instrument. Some of the band's instruments are over 40 years old.

We urge band parents to join us in raising the required funds. Booster meetings are held on the first Tuesday of every month at 7 p.m. in the band room.

Donations may be mailed to P.O. Box 124, Oakland.

We would also like to take this opportunity to thank The Republican newspaper for your fine coverage of Southern's Band.

The Boosters' organization is very active. We have many parents who are already volunteering time and money. Join us and feel pride when the Southern Garrett Marching Band takes the field.

Debbie Barnard, pres.

To the Editor:

While the results are not yet complete and their effect has not yet worked through the system, it seems clear that a January 9, 1996, decision of the U. S. Supreme Court, "raises the stakes for boat manufacturers and the marine industry, and potentially increases liability for boat owners as well." The case concerned the death of a 12-year-old girl who slammed into a sailboat at anchor off a Puerto Rican beach-front resort on a rented Yamaha "WaveJammer." Puerto Rican law prohibits operation of a personal watercraft under age 14.

Her parents, Lucien and Robin Calhoun, residents of Pennsylvania, sued under that state's wrongful death and survival laws. They alleged negligence and faulty design on the part of Yamaha and claimed damages for the child's lost future earnings, loss of society, loss of support and services, funeral expenses, and punitive damages. Yamaha claimed boating accident damages are limited by federal admiralty law in death and injury cases to pain-and-suffering, medical and funeral expenses and lost wages. In a 9-0 vote, Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg wrote that workman's compensation laws are available to compensate survivors of seafarers," and that the courts may use the same state laws that apply in land-based accident awards to non-seafarers. The case was sent back to the state court. Yamaha v. Calhoun.

Baltimore admiralty attorney James W. Bartlett III, who argued the case for Yamaha before the Supreme Court, said, "The decision means that claims and damage awards could be determined by invisible lines in the water -- the boundaries between states -- or the residence of the parties involved as in this case." He said the Court decision undermines the long standing uniformity principle in admiralty law. He was supported by The Maritime Law Association, the National Marine Manufacturers Association, and the Solicitor General of the United States. On the other hand, Mobile, Ala., admiralty attorney Ross Diamond, who filed a brief on behalf of the Calhouns for the Association of Trial Lawyers of America, noted that while the laws in most states allow greater damage awards, the laws are fairly consistent from state to state in defining the general types of non-economic damages plaintiffs are allowed to recover.

BOAT/U.S. Marine Insurance Vice President Carroll Robertson reported that questions about how boat liability insurance policies are written, whether underwriters will write policies for just the state where the boat is to be used, or, most important, will insurance premiums go up, "are questions that can't be answered at this point. It is unlikely that the Supreme Court decision will have any immediate effect on our insurance program." If there are significant implications, comprehensive protection for members will be provided.

THE COMPUTER CORNER

LOOKING AT WINDOWS -- PART 4

Last week, we talked about the Main program group. Now, let's look at the other primary program groups available from the Program Manager.

The Accessories program group contains tools that come free with Windows. They include a simple word processor, a calculator, a drawing tool and a clock that can be displayed on your screen, among other things.

The Games program group is there to whet your appetite for some of the fun things that you can do with a computer. Of course, if the computer is in your office, you probably shouldn't get caught playing games! The one exception that I make to that rule is this: a novice can learn to use the mouse by playing Solitaire with it. All of the hand-eye coordination skills that you need in order to use the mouse for word processing and other business tools can be learned by playing this well-known game. I usually encourage my beginning students to play Solitaire for a half hour a day for the first week. After that, they will have the necessary "mouse skills" and are on their own if they get caught.

Finally, the StartUp program group has just one purpose in life. It allows you to make sure that certain programs (Word Perfect, for example) will always be started whenever Windows comes up.

Now that we have seen the major program groups, let's take a look at the anatomy of a window. All windows work pretty much the same, so let's look at Program Manager.

At the top left is the control box. It has a large "minus" sign in it. You can use it to do things like moving the window or making it larger or smaller. You will probably use the control box mainly to shut down or close Windows. Click on the control box, then on Close. A little window will appear, asking you if you're sure. If you click on OK, Windows will shut down in an orderly fashion.

Here's an important note: if you just turn the system off, Windows will usually recover the next time you start it up. Be careful, though, because this is not always the case. I know of people who have had serious problems because they did this.

Across the top of the Program Manager is the title bar. It contains the name of the program or Windows component that is running at the moment. Only one is active at any given time, meaning that it will respond to your commands. You can usually tell which window is active because its border is a different color than the others.

If the window is not the full size of the screen, you can move it around by clicking anywhere in the colored area of the title bar. Instead of releasing the mouse button, hold it down. Then, when you move the mouse, the window will move, too. Release the mouse button when the window is where you want it. This is called drag and drop. Be careful, though, because you can move a window right off the screen.

At the right-hand side of the title bar are two more little boxes. One always contains a black triangle that points down. It numinizes the window, shrinking it down to an icon. An icon is a little picture that is supposed to symbolize the program that has been minimized. If you have minimized a window, doubleclick on the icon to return it to the size it was.

The second box is either a triangle pointing up, which maximizes the window, or two triangles (one up and one down). The meaning of the two triangles is that Windows will return your window to the last size that it was, before you maximized it. You can move the top, bottom, left and right edges of any window to make it almost any size you desire. This feature lets you find a shape you like and then always return to it when you move to another window.

Board Tightens

Messer said.

Board member Rodney Durst supported the ban completely, reminding other members that he had tried for a total ban in 1993 when the first strict policy was adopted.

"If we don't stop people from blowing smoke in our children's faces, then we re just cowards," Durst said.

The smoking ban will affect all school fields at all times, which means adult leagues that utilize the areas will be under the ban as well.

In other school board events Tuesday, the members finally passed a procedure for dealing with drug and/or alcohol use by school employees. The extended procedure has been re-worked for approximately five months, with board attorney Robert Watson writing several drafts. The policy passed with the positive votes of members Patrick Riley, Dale Carpenter, and Charlotte Sebold, board president, who had to cast a tie-breaker as Durst and board member Hannah Sincell voted against the adoption of the procedure.

The controversial topic arose several months ago when the majority of the board expressed the desire for a more specific and authoritative procedure. Sincell has been against the more stringent policy from the outset, maintaining her belief that the lengthy document gives the impression that the board does not trust the employees of the school system, and also the impression that drugs and alcohol abuse is a large problem in the local system when she feels it is not.

Durst's opposition to the procedure appeared to have to do with the wording, as he claimed that while the board had wanted a concise document that clearly delineated crimes and punishments for those crimes, he feels the new procedure remains ambiguous and open for litigation.

School Superintendent Jerome Ryscavage said the new procedure is "much more prescriptive, which I think was your intent." He added that it will provide him as superintendent with some advantages in verifying his actions in certain situations.

Sincell asked the superintendent to provide to the board the number of hours Watson had to work on the document.

"I would really like to know just how much money we have spent on this thing," Sincell said.

Another issue that arose Tuesday had to do with the principalship at Red House Elementary School. A rearrangement of principals took place at last month's meeting, and as Lindsay Stanton will be the principal of the new school when it opens, she was given the charge as principal of both Loch Lynn and Red House schools next school year. Timothy Skipper, president of the Red House PTA, addressed the board to express his group's concern about the arrangement.

"We were under the impression that our school would operate with a full staff until the completion of the new consolidated school. . . . We were assured we would operate as normal . .

"What happens if a problem arises when the principal is at the other school? How to you propose not interrupting the class of the Teacher In Charge?" Skipper read.

Ryscavage responded to the concern by explaining that Linda Buckel, the former principal at Red House, was a teaching principal and so operated essentially as a part-time principal. Therefore, the change would not be as drastic as the PTA may have feared. He also noted that the schools are in close proximity and that Stanton will be "a phone call away" should the need arise for her presence.

Skipper appeared to be receptive of the response, but again reiterated that the PTA simply wanted the board to be aware that they are concerned. Ryscavage said the situation would be monitored and problems that arise will be handled as well as possible.

View From My Window

Vacation Bible School

The week of vacation Bible school at the church I serve as pastor has roused memories of 30 years ago and more, memories of my own childhood. In the 60's the community of my home church still had a core of active farmers with wives whose work was in the home and farm. They were free, or could make themselves free, during the day, so Bible school took place from 9 a.m. to noon each morning.

That was also a time before camps, whether day or residental, were such a common feature of life. Vacation Bible school was a big deal, and ran for two weeks, Monday to Friday. Perhaps there are churches which still run their VBS according to that old schedule, but most churches I know hold it one week for two hours in the evening.

The cultural transformation indicated in the shifting from mornings to evenings and the shortening from two weeks to one is considerable. Such changes bespeak a more urbanized and just busier culture.

The irony is that while culture has moved in one direction, the physical elements of our lives have moved in another. We are an urbanized nation where no one wants to live in the city. We have more leisure than any society in history (save perhaps among elite groups in a few ages) and yet we are too busy to do anything.

My congregation really is in a city. We are a small group of 120 confirmed members and with a Sunday School youth division of 30. We envisioned VBS as outreach to our neighborhood, and it has been a terrific success. We have had over 60 children participate, with an average youth attendance each night of 55. Only 10 of these kids are also in our Sunday School.

The kids have learned and studied the Lord's Prayer together. They have learned songs. One little boy from the neighborhood taught all of us a song, and one of the most popular songs of the week.

Who is the king of the jungle?
Who is the king of the sea?
Who is the king of the universe?
And who is the king of me?
I tell you
(clapping on each letter) J-E-S-U-S! Yes!
He is the king of the universe.
He is the king of me.

If they remember and believe that, then surely the rest will come later.

That such a simple, vivid song should be taught to all of us by a small boy whose experience of Christianity has been episodic at best is itself a remarkable thing. But then the King of the Universe tells us through the sacred page that a little child shall lead us, a prophesy we saw come true before our very eyes.

Thirty-three years ago I sat on the back steps of my home church during VBS. Looking over the graves of my ancestors I heard the story of David Livingstone, the great medical missionary to Africa. While the teacher told the story I also heard the voice of God, saying "I want you to do that too." For the next 10 years I thought God meant for me to be a medical missionary. College chemistry corrected that interpretation. The sense of calling was true. It was the manner and location of service that needed re-thinking.

As I watched the 60-some children's faces attending our VBS I thought about my own calling again, about the needs just outside the door of the church I serve. I wondered too if one or more of those children might have heard the voice of God as I did many long years ago.

Many Visit County Over July 4 Weekend

The July 4th weekend was a busy one in Garrett County, with a large number of travelers to Deep Creek Lake and the rest of the county.

The Route 219 Information Booth at Deep Creek Lake opened for the summer season on Friday, May 17. From Thursday through Sunday of the July 4th weekend, the staff greeted 1,348 travelers who stopped at the booth seeking information about accommodations, restaurants, recreation and historical sites in Garrett County. Visitors over the weekend were from 24 states and 10 foreign countries.

This booth is open seven days a week from mid-May through the Autumn Glory Festival weekend and is staffed by William Sipple and Edgar Bender, both of Grantsville. The booth is managed by the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council.

Learey, McIntyre, Michaels Elected To MLP Council

Three persons were elected yesterday to town council positions in Mountain Lake Park. Those chosen by the 127 voters were Nancy Learey, Charles McIntyre, and Jack Michaels. (McIntyre was an incumbent councilperson.)

The voting broke down as follows: McIntyre, 94 votes; Learey, 72; Michaels, 63; Amy Kittle Britton, 55; Pat White, 39. According to a town hall spokesperson, there was also one vote for Mark Proulx, who had originally filed for candidacy but withdrew because he plans to move out of the town in August, and eight votes for Cecil Jackson.

The three new members will join currently serving members Rebecca Williams and Robert Damon. David Turney is the town's mayor.

Friendsville To Be Site Of Tues. Hike, Bike Event

Friendsville residents are invited to participate in a free hike and bike event on Tuesday, July 16. Persons taking part are asked to bring their bicycles to Grace Lutheran Church at 10 a.m. on that day.

The event is being organized by Friendsville Family Activities Committee and funded by the Garrett County Health Department's prevention minigrant program.

PURCHASING POWER was experienced by Kitzmiller Elementary School during a school-wide math fair, held near the end of the school year. The event demonstrated to the students how money is earned and spent through making authentic choices. Throughout the school year, students earned "bucks" which were credited to their personal accounts. Each child was given a checkbook on the day of the fair and he or she was allowed to purchase goods and/or services. Representatives from the American Trust Bank and First United National Bank & Trust were on hand to discuss banking and math topics. Staff and student members from Garrett Community College and the Garrett County Board of Education also conducted mini-math lessons. Several area businesses, along with teachers and parents, donated items purchased by students. Katie Lucas is pictured above as she has her hair styled by Kim Shaffer, while Sarah Ford and Jessica Riggleman make purchases from Peg Tasker.

Hearing Set

client's chances for a trial by an impartial jury.

"The truth is that the prejudicial media coverage this memorandum describes has blanketed the whole of Western Maryland, precluding a fair trial by an impartial jury anywhere in this part of the state," May stated.

In his suggestion for removal, May asserted, "Unfortunately, the press coverage of Mr. Fousek's situation is the saddest and most unfairly prejudicial in recent memory."

However, in his reply, Montanarelli argued that "[The defendant's] reliance on the various newspaper articles, letters, and editorials is insufficient to support his claim of prejudicial publicity . . .

"Moreover, those articles, editorials, and letters cited by defendant in support of his claim of prejudice are intrinsically lacking in any prejudicial quality," Montanarelli added. "The purportedly prejudicial articles amount only to factual recitations of events surrounding the grand jury investigation and subsequent indictment of defendant.

"The editorials and letters are, by definition, merely factually-suspect opinions of the editors or the public and, to reasonable persons, are rarely persuasive," the state prosecutor argued. "The defendant unsuccessfully makes inferential leaps in order to manufacture prejudice from factual accounts and diverse opinion."

In response to Fousek's motion to dismiss the criminal charges against him, Montanarelli moved that the motion be denied "except for count one in indictment 3057."

This count charges Fousek with filing a false Maryland joint income tax return for the 1992 tax year.

The Garrett County Grand Jury returned four indictments against the former clerk in May after hearing results from Montanarelli's investigation into issues surrounding Fousek's employment with county government. The investigation had been requested in January by former Garrett County States Attorney James Sherbin, who was recently sworn in as Garrett County Circuit Court Judge.

Fousek has been charged with two counts of filing a false tax return, two counts of misconduct, two counts of felony theft, and one count of failure to file a tax return.

Fousek has pleaded not guilty to all charges.

Circuit Court Cases Noted

Three cases were heard in Garrett County Circuit Court last week, with two cases not prosecuted by order of the state's attorney. The third was a DUI (drinking under the influence) case. Judge Thomas Lohm presided.

David N. Shaffer, 42, Oakland, pleaded guilty to DUI and the plea was accepted by the judge. Lohm then sentenced Shaffer to 60 days in jail, suspended, and fined him $500, with $400 suspended. Shaffer will be on 30 months of supervised probation, and must complete an addictions rehabilitation program.

Shaffer was arrested in May 1995 when a police officer watched him operate a vehicle despite the fact that he was allegedly under the influence of alcohol.

Charges against an Accident man were not prosecuted by order of the state's attorney. Stephen J. McGreevy, 41, was facing charges of battery, assault, and sexual offense, which he incurred in November 1995 after allegedly harassing a woman at Master Castings in Accident.

assistant, newsletter typist, and children's church assistant. She also donates baked goods for the various functions in the church.

Before becoming ill, Miss Beitzel was employed at the Goodwill Mennonite Home. Currently she works part-time at the Cherry Glade Child Care center. The Beitzel family has transported her to all activities, although her mother also requires a wheelchair. If the family wishes to attend a function together, two vehicles are needed, Miller said.

If Miss Beitzel can obtain a van that she can operate herself, she will be given the opportunity to continue her education and pursue a career, Miller said. The goal of the fund drive is $20,000.

Persons who wish to donate may make checks payable to Cherry Glade Mennonite Church. (They should specify "Diane Beitzel Fund" on the check). They may give the donations to Sheldon Maust or Shiela Miller, place it in the offering at the church, or mail it to the following address: Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, c/o Sheldon Maust, treasurer; 446 Foxtown Road, Accident, MD 21520. A pledge form may also be obtained from the church.

Persons with questions may contact Miller at 895-5470.

Police Arrest

where they were destroyed.

CORRECTION

In last week's issue of The Republican, an accident report involving members of a Grantsville family contained several errors.

The single-vehicle accident that occurred last Tuesday afternoon on Rt. 495, north of Bittinger, injured Dixie L. Yutzy, 19, and her passengers, 2-year-old Jessica Yutzy, and 9-month-old Gerald K. Yutzy Jr. All were treated for their injuries at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, and later released.

THEFT, MDOP REPORTED

The state police are currently investigating a theft and malicious destruction of property reported in the Friendsville area.

Barbara J. Schmuk told troopers that sometime between July 3-4, unknown persons in a brown vehicle bearing Pennsylvania registration plates removed a wrought iron glider, two chairs, and a patio table that had been chained to her mobile home. The culprits reportedly damaged the chain during the theft.

Tfc. John LeMay is the investigating officer.

DWI ARREST, UPDATE

One DWI (driving while intoxicated) arrest was logged at the local state police barrack during the past week.

Walter Randall Tate, 38, Behsville, was arrested and charged with DWI on July 5, by Tfc. S.H. Anderson.

Maryland State Troopers at Barrack W report a decrease in DWI arrests for the second quarter of 1996, versus the same period in 1995. There were only 32 arrests in 1996 compared to 58 in 1995.

Two persons died in Garrett County in the second quarter of 1996 as a result of collisions involving intoxicated drivers. Three persons died in the same period in 1995.

Forty-seven percent of the fatalities in the county have involved intoxicated drivers since 1990. This continues to be higher than the average throughout the state, according to the report.

It was noted that federally funded overtime will supplement patrol personnel for the purpose of increasing DWI-related arrests by troopers assigned to the local state police barrack.

County's First Technology Camp Is A Success

The Garrett County Public School System recently hosted the county's first Summer Technology Camp. With 24 third, fourth, and fifth graders taking part, the week-long camp was deemed a success.

Under the leadership of Chuck Trautwein, computer resource teacher, the students worked with the 40 computers for three hours each day and completed several computer-based activities. In addition to Trautwein, instructors included Maureen Sharps and Alan Skidmore of Dennett Road Elementary; and Jim Sconyers and Dusty Stanton, board of education math/science and media specialists, respectively.

Each day students engaged in Lego Dacta, Logo, and Kid Pix multimedia computer applications, along with supervised research on the internet.

Using Lego sets, students built operating scale models of elevators, robotic arms, and other machines. They then advanced to learn to use computers to operate, control and program the functioning of the machines. While on the internet, they searched for information about Lego Dacta and other topics.

Throughout the week, students worked on their own multimedia presentations, in essence creating an electronic journal of their week's experiences. Teams of students made "slides" incorporating digital video images, sound, text, original art, and graphic material captnred on the internet.

The camp culminated in a gathering of the students' families and friends on the last day. Each team presented its "slide show" and demonstrated their automated projects. These included the elevator, a Lego dinosaur, a motorized pavement painter, and a robotic arm that loaded crates into a truck of the team's own design, which then drove away.

According to Sconyers, written evaluations by the students at the end of the camp showed high levels of enthusiasm and satisfaction.

In addition to personnel and equipment provided by the county school system, the camp was funded by a grant from Bausch & Lomb. Sconyers noted that plans for the 1997 camp will be initiated soon.

Colleagues Honor Whitehouse Upon His Retirement

Dr. Dennis Whitehouse, upon his retirement after over 20 years of contract service to both the Garrett County Health Department (GCHD) and Garrett County Board of Education, was honored at a recent educational seminar and buffet dinner attended by staff from both agencies and colleagues from the area.

Whitehouse had worked out of Baltimore's Kennedy Krieger Institute and provided neurology services in the county.

"When Dr. Whitehouse started coming to Garrett County in 1975, children with mental retardation were still being kept from attending public schools," remarked Dr. Bruce Shapiro, director of the Kennedy Krieger Institute. "Since that time, local communities have become responsible for children with disabilities and acts have been passed to provide free and appropriate education for all handicapped children. Dr. Whitehouse has continued to be in the forefront of this movement."

Shapiro stated that Whitehouse should be applauded for his continuous commitment to focus the majority of his work on school-aged children.

Dr. Thomas Denne, chief school psychologist for the Mineral County Board of Education and a colleague of Whitehouse for approximately 10 years, commented that although the retiring neurologist was equally at ease with all parents, his gift was that he "spoke directly to the child."

"He always began his sessions by saying to his patient, 'Now what is a perfectly healthy-looking child like yourself doing here with all of these doctors?'" Denne said. "The man is my hero, and the more I got to know him as I worked with him, the more he became my hero."

Wilda Massi, director of pupil personnel and special education for the Garrett County Board of Education, described Whitehouse's retirement as a "sad day."

"He has been a true member of many agency staffs and a natural-born teacher who never misses a teachable moment," Massi said.

Becky Aiken, who worked with Whitehouse as the county's first school nurse, expressed her thanks to him for "always being there for that one more kid in the lobby in need of attention."

The evening celebrating Dr. Whitehouse's accomplishments was organized by Becky Parks, a GCHD community health nurse. Parks stated that she would remember Whitehouse most for his "enthusiasm about his job and life."

"And a special thanks to Joan Whitehouse, who as his wife, has been his motivator and chaulfeur," added Parks.

In concluding the event, Whitehouse commented that Garrett County is "literally the only situation in the state of Maryland where health and education have come together so completely."

"I came here 12 times a year before my retirement, but these clinics are open and available 52 weeks every year. I believe you know that it's all of you who make these services available year-round for the community."

Brenda Pike, a member of the GCHD personal health staff, read a poem she wrote to help express colleague's feelings about Dr. Whitehouse's retirement.

Dr. Rex Archer, county health officer, hosted the evening.

McCLIVE'S LAKEFRONT DINING

Food For Thought

Make your own frozen dessert with 2 cups of plain yogurt and 2 pints of fresh raspberries, pureed with a cup of sugar and strained to remove seeds. Follow the ice cream maker instructions, then freeze until firm. Luscious!

Sure, croissants are yummy! But did you know that a light, 2-ounce croissant has about 14 grams of fat and 260 calories? That's 12 times as much fat as an English muffin, and twice the calories.

Keep a melon baller handy. It's just the right size to scoop seeds out of cherry tomatoes before you fill 'em.

Arugula and endive are crisp and deliciously bitter—a perfect contrast for sweet slices of navel oranges. Toss salad with an orange-base dressing; top with orange and sprinkle with walnuts.

Party time! An easy hors d'oeuvre is stuffed baby Brie cheese. Slice the round in half horizontally; fill with sun-dried tomato halves, pine nuts and basil, all buzzed together, and replace top.

Parties are a lot more fun when you bring everyone to

Oakland All-Stars Capture Little League District Title

Oakland's 13-year old Little League All-Stars will once again be vying for a state championship, and perhaps even higher honors, as the local youth won four straight District 1 contests this past week to capture the district title.

Coached by Joey DiSimone and Al Rohrbaugh, and managed by Kenny Tressler, the Oakland all-stars topped host Maugansville, 12-10, in eight innings, rolled over host Conococheague of Hagerstown, 12-2, in game two, topped visiting Valley of Hagerstown, 7-3, and finally stopped Halfway of Hagerstown in the title game on Sunday afternoon, 16-6, also at the Broadford Park fields.

The Oakland team will meet the District 2 champion in a best of three series July 18-20 in Frederick to determine the sectional winner.

Oakland trailed Maugansville, 10-5, after three innings of play, but rallied for a run in the fourth, three more in the sixth, and one in the seventh to knot the score at 10-10 and send the contest into an extra inning. Oakland put two runs on the board in the eighth to seal the win.

John Lucas finished with two hits for Oakland, while Jason Rohrbaugh doubled, and Jared Fike and winning pitcher Justin DiSimone each singled. DiSimone relieved Lucas in the third inning and held Maugansville scoreless for five innings. He recorded six strike-outs.

Justin Stephens and Mike DeWitt each had a pair of hits in Oakland's win over Conococheague, while Rohrbaugh and Mike Lantz each contributed a double, and Jared Fike and Lucas contributed singles in a 10-hit effort. DeWitt was the winning pitcher, as he recorded a two-hitter.

Oakland wasted no time taking the lead against Valley of Hagerstown in game three, as the local youth scored four runs in the first inning. They added one more in the second and two in the third.

Rohrbaugh had an outstanding day at the plate for Oakland, as he smacked a home run, a double, and a single. Lucas and Lantz each doubled and singled in the 10-hit attack, Jeremy Hayhurst singled twice, and Brian Panther added a single.

Fike, who relieved Lucas in the second inning, held the losers hitless and scoreless the rest of the way, while striking out eight.

Oakland scored in every inning except the fourth in the title game on Sunday, as the local players finished with 15 hits. Rohrbaugh and Jeremy Hayhurst led the way with four hits apiece, Lucas recorded two, including a homer, Justin Stephens had three singles, and DeWitt and John Hayhurst each had a hit.

DeWitt was the winning pitcher, as he held Halfway to five hits before being relieved by Jeremy Hayhurst in the fifth.

Senior Division All-Stars Fall In Dist. Final

The Oakland Little League Senior Division All-Stars (ages 14, 15) were eliminated from the District 1 playoffs Tuesday when they were edged by Halfway of Hagerstown, 7-6. It was the second loss to Halfway in the double-elimination tourney, as the local squad fell to the same team, 6-3, in game three.

Oakland opened the tournament with a dramatic 4-3, 11-inning win over host Maughansville. The home team scored all three of its runs in the first inning on a home run by Kenny Foster. Oakland came back to tie the score with three runs in the third on key hits by Derek Everd and Jordon Uphold.

The score remained 3-3 until the 11th when John Andrews singled, stole second, reached third on a passed ball, and came home on a bunt by Christopher Ewing.

Uphold pitched nine and one-third innings, while Everd was credited with the win and Jason Weaver the save.

Oakland then defeated Clear Spring, 14-11, also in a come-from-behind effort. Oakland took a 2-0 lead in the top of the first on a hit by Everd and a homer by Uphold. Clear Spring then took a 3-2 advantage in the bottom of that inning, and added four more runs in the second.

Oakland responded with two runs in the fifth and then took the lead for good with six runs in the sixth. Billy Stoner finished with four singles for Oakland, while Everd recorded three hits. Josh Bosley earned the win on the mound in relief.

Game three was the 6-3 loss to Halfway, even though Oakland pitcher Jason Weaver gave up only five hits in going the distance. Stoner and Everd paced Oakland with three hits each. Heath Trencatti was the winning pitcher for Halfway.

Oakland rebounded for a 21-10 victory over Maughansville in game four, as the local team scored six runs in the first inning and never trailed.

The contest featnred four home runs by each team, with Bosley, Everd, Nathan DiSimone, and Ewing bagging one each for Oakland. Toby Upton and Uphold, the winning pitcher, also had key hits.

In the 7-6 loss to Halfway in the district championship contest, Christian Warfield had two key hits.

Halfway will represent the district in next week's state tournament.

Sisler out-hit the home team by a 7-5 margin, as Butler went the distance on the mound for the win over Josh Delawder.

Local Hunter Recognized For Exotic Kills

A Swanton hunter has received national recognition from the Records of Exotics in Ingram, Tex., for harvesting a number exotic animals with a muzzleloader, such as black buck antelope, Russian wild boar, Texas dull, Morenio ram, and Catalena goat.

Ron Beeghly has received several first place awards over the past two years for animals he has taken with a muzzleloader. He and his wife, Deb, also traveled to Australia last year where he hunted such game as Asian water buffalo and the South American sam bar deer. He was the first North American since the early 1800s to harvest one of these deer, according to his Australian guide.

Beeghly's story of his hunt in Australia has been sold to Safari Club International magazine, an international publication, which will carry the story in a future issue.

Beeghly invites local hunters to visit his home in Swanton to see his taxidermy display of exotic and Australian animals.

Soccer Camp Deadline Is Next Monday

The deadline to register for the British soccer camp sponsored by the Mountaintop Soccer Association and slated for the week of July 29-Aug. 2, is Monday, July 15.

Boys and girls from ages 4 to 17 are invited to register for the day camp, which will be held at Southern High School and conducted by British coaches. Middle school and high school youth will meet daily from 9 a.m. to noon, while those in the "Munchkin" camp (ages 4-5) will convene from 4:30 to 6 p.m. All others will meet from 5 to 8 p.m. each day.

"For the third year we have registrations numbering 100," stated Carole Ann Lovett, camp coordinator. "This seems to indicate a high satisfaction level with the camp. Parents have said in writing that their children learn soccer skills and have fun at the same time."

Each camper will receive a shirt and a soccer ball, which is included in the camp fee. All campers must wear shin guards, which can be purchased locally.

As a special feature for parents and other interested adults, free clinics will be conducted by the coaches on July 30 (Passing and Control) and Aug. 1 (Dribbling and Shooting). Each clinic will be from 6 to 8 p.m.

Registration forms for the camp are available at Englander's Pharmacy, Oakland; Railey Rentals, Deep Creek Lake; and at the Ruth Enlow Library. For more information, persons may call 387-9565.

Garrett County Legion Team Splits Pair of Doubleheaders

The Garrett County American Legion baseball team played a pair of doubleheaders this past week, one a Mountain District match-up and the other a non-league contest, and they came away with a 1-1 split in each. The local team lost to Farrady Post of Frostburg in the opener on Saturday at Garrett Community College, 5-4, and then won the second game, 10-4. Then on Sunday, Garrett fell to host Petersburg, 6-3, in the first game and came back to win the second contest, 12-4.

In the loss to Farrady, Garrett County took a 4-3 lead in the bottom of the fifth inning, but the Frostburg players tied the score with a run in the top of the seventh to send the contest into extra innings.

The tying run was scored as Derek Hetz reached on an error and Steve Kline and Brandon Beasom each singled to load the bases. Adam Wolfe followed with a fielder's choice that brought Hetz home.

Jeremy Strother singled early in the eighth inning and would eventually come home to score the winning run off a single by Hetz.

Beasom finished with three singles to lead Farrady's 11-hit effort, while Strother, Hetz, and Kline each contributed two singles.

Kline, who took the mound in the fifth, was credited with the win over Ryan Sawyers.

The Garrett County batters were held to just five hits, with Herman Arndt getting a double and a single.

After trailing 1-0 briefly in the second contest, the local team took control in the bottom of the first inning by scoring five runs on hits by Tim Sines, Seth Tressler, Jason Sweitzer, Aaron Blocher, and Chad Warnick.

Garrett County added single runs in the second and third, plus two more in the fourth. Sines paced the team's nine-hit performance by recording a triple and two singles.

Blocher, a standout at Northern High School, went the distance for the win, scattering five singles and fanning nine batters.

The split gave each team a 1-1 second-half season record.

Brian Mohr recorded a homer and a two-run single to lead Petersburg to its win over Garrett County on Sunday, while Chip Mason held Garrett to just one hit. Dave Smith and Courtney Cooper also each had two hits for Petersburg.

Seth Tressler, an outstanding athlete at Southern High School, ripped the cover off the ball for Garrett County in the second game, as he blasted a three-run homer, a solo shot, a double, and a two-run single.

Right behind him was Southern teammate Jason Sweitzer, who drove in five runs with a grand slam and by drawing a bases loaded walk. Aaron Newcomb added a pair of singles.

Recording a double and an RBI for Petersburg was Jake Ellifritz, while Nick Lahman and Brian Mohr each provided a run-producing single.

The loss was only the second in 14 starts for Petersburg.

Oaks Record Four Victories In 24 Hours

The Oakland Oaks played four Pen-Mar League games in 24 hours last weekend and came away with four victories, although the fourth game was in exhibition. They embarrassed South Cumberland on Friday at the Oldtown School diamond, 28-0, swept a doubleheader from the same team on Saturday at Garrett Community College, 6-0 and 8-2, and then stopped First Federal in an exhibition game late Saturday, 7-3. The results gave the Oaks a 12-4 record, second best in the league.

In Friday's rout of South Cumberland, which was shortened to seven innings, Mark Elliott led a 22-hit attack for the Oaks with two doubles and three singles. Oakland scored in every inning except the second, with the final frame yielding eight runs. Ernie Galusky also recorded a hit in every at-bat, Dave Kretchman finished with a homer, a double, and a single, and John Gordon added a double and a single.

Casey Stanton went the distance to record a two-hit victory. He struck out 11 and allowed no walks.

It was the 12th loss in 14 starts for South Cumberland.

Elliott led the Oakland defense in Saturday's first game against South Cumberland, as he went the distance and allowed only three hits in recording the shutout. Josh Woods paced the offense with three singles, while Cameron Younce, Aaron Taylor, and Elliott each finished with two hits.

Mark Keaner was the winning pitcher in the second game, as he went all the way and gave up just four hits. Kretchman doubled twice and Alan Sebold had two singles in Oakland's nine-hit effort.

Kretchman and John Gordon led Oakland at the plate in the non-league win over First Federal, as each doubled and singled, while Sebold singled twice. Jeremy Fitzwater, who was relieved by Jacob Barclay in the fifth, was credited with the win on the mound. Fitzwater, Barclay, and Younce allowed a total of only four hits.

The Oaks will play again at 1 p.m. this Saturday at GCC against Bridgeport, the team that is currently in first place with a 15-2 mark. They will travel to Frank Loria field on Sunday to meet Clarksburg in a 1 p.m., nine-inning contest, and then drive to North Marion High School to play an exhibition game at 4 p.m. against Fairmont.

Redskins Summer Training Camp "Game Plan" Announced By FSU

The playing fields have been seeded and the welcome banners are going up throughout the town. To paraphrase a familiar holiday song: "It's beginning to look a lot like Redskins." At a press conference held recently, political and business leaders from Allegany County announced the official line-up of community events related to 1996 Redskins Summer Training Camp.

Colleen Peterson, associate vice president for university advancement and FSU's primary liaison with the 'Skins for community activities, suggests, "Although it's hard to improve upon the perfection of last year's training camp we are planning an even more exciting series of activities." From the Welcome Back Rally on Wednesday, July 17, to Fan Appreciation Day on Tuesday, Aug. 13, the events will "include more participation for visitors and the community," she says.

A major priority in the planning process is to provide more opportunities for interaction between players and fans, especially young ones. "We know the Redskins love having a crowd at the practices," she said. "But they also enjoy being accessible."

For all those who attended last year's summer camp, that priority was apparent. Players often signed autographs and posed for photographs on their short journey back to the locker room.

"Last year's Fan Appreciation Day was loved the most," Peterson said, "by both the fans and the Redskins. Coach Turner found it exhilarating to have such a crowd at the practice. It had a wide appeal and almost everyone got an autograph."

This year, planners are hoping to have all players stay after the practice for more autographs and have something for the youngsters beforehand. "The Redskins want to focus on providing opportunities for children. We will be having lots of interactive sessions before the practices, with punt, pass and kick activities," said Peterson. The event will take place from 2:30 to 6:30 p.m.

"While Fan Appreciation Day will be a terrific way to send off the 'Skins, the Welcome Back Rally on July 17th will greet them in style," Peterson said. Starting at 3:30 p.m. at the Depot in Frostburg, members of the Redskins staff and team will be formally greeted with traditional welcoming remarks and fanfare. "We are planning on having both prominent players and staff in attendance," said Peterson.

Presently a committee of more than two dozen members of the community is working hard to create and organize the events. The group includes representatives from local governments, the Chamber and other business representatives, as well as FSU.

"We realize how important this is to economic development," Peterson said. Last year, hotels were filled all the way up to the Deep Creek Lake area in Garrett County. The Redskins presence had an approximate $3 million economic impact on the region, according to economic estimators.

More importantly, the region gained a media focus as television, radio, and newspaper reporters descended on Frostburg, many of them staying right on campus in a residence hall. This year the physical layout of the camp will be similar; with two high-rise halls set aside for the players, staff, and media.

One addition to the summer camp planning will be "Train...ing with the Redskins," a special Western Maryland Scenic Railroad ride on Sunday, July 21, that will include members of the Redskins staff and team "hosting" rail cars. The train will depart the Western Maryland Station for Frostburg at 11:30 p.m. Part of the price of the ticket will provide financial support for a local charity.

After a 1 1/2 hour layover in Frostburg, the train will return and the day will be capped off with a block party at the station in Cumberland from 3 to 5 p.m. Corporate sponsors will provide tents with carnival-type activities with Redskins players on hand to sign autographs.

"The Redskins wanted to raise funds for a local charitable organization, so this day will provide not only fun for fans, but also good will," Peterson explained. The Salem Children's Trust in Garrett County has been designated as the charity.

Also, although there is no formal scrimmage with the Pittsburgh Steelers at FSU this year, there will be a practice session with them July 23 beginning at 3 p.m. "There won't be a separate ticket for this event, so it will provide a real opportunity for Steelers fans to cheer on their team," Peterson suggested.

As before,there will be a nominal cost for parking on the campus (except on Fan Appreciation Day) and housing will be available in nearby residence halls. In addition, the Allegany County Visitors Bureau will have an information booth set up and the FSU Office of Admissions will be providing tours of the campus on July 18, 19, 22, 30-31, and Aug. 6 at 2 p.m.

"We are already in our 'Redskins Ready' mode," said Peterson, "and are looking forward to bringing back not only the team, but their fans."

For housing information, persons may contact the FSU Office of Conferences at (301) 687-4020. For information on campus tours, they may contact the FSU Office of Admissions at (301) 687-4201.

July 21 Offers Fans Opportunity To "Train" With The Redskins

Persons who ride the Western Maryland Scenic Railroad on Sunday, July 21, will be "train...ing" with the Washington Redskins for a good cause. For the regular price of a ticket, fans can ride the train to Frostburg and greet the Redskins and celebrities who will return with them on the Redskins Express to Cumberland.

Redskins "Train...ing" Day involves a full day of family-style events, and the proceeds all go to Salem Children's Trust in Garrett County.

Fans will kick off the day by boarding the train for a round-trip excursion leaving Cumberland at 11:30 a.m. At "half-time," the Redskins Express will pull into Frostburg, where passengers may enjoy lunch, Dixieland music by Frostburg's Arion Band, and provide a special welcome to Redskins players and sportscaster celebrities who will board the train for Cumberland.

The train will return to Cumberland for an "end-zone celebration," the Redskins Block Party, set up at the Western Maryland Station Center. Free and open to the public, the party begins at 2:30 p.m. with prizes, a dunking booth, food vendors, and hospitality tents sponsored by local businesses where players will provide autographs in each tent.

Toward the end of the event, the Redskins will present a check to the Salem Children's Trust on behalf of sponsoring businesses and the generosity of the Western Maryland Scenic Railroad.

Tickets are on sale now at the Western Maryland Scenic Railroad. For ticket information, persons may call 1-800-TRAIN-50 or (301) 759-4400.

Other Redskins Training Camp events include the Welcome Back Rally next Wednesday, July 17, beginning at 3:30 p.m. at the Old Depot and Thrasher Museum in Frostburg. The formal welcome-back will include remarks from Redskins players, a special music presentation, and members of the Redskinettes.

The Washington Redskins will also be having a practice session with the Pittsburgh Steelers Tuesday, July 23, beginning at 3 p.m. at Frostburg State University. All practice sessions are free; however, there is a $3/car charge for parking.

Tuesday, August 13, will be Fan Appreciation Day, beginning at 2:30. The afternoon-long event will include punt, pass, and kick activities for children, autograph sessions, give-aways, and the Redskins' afternoon practice from 4-6 p.m.

Sailboat Racing On Deep Creek Lake

SATURDAY FRUSTRATION TURNS TO SUNDAY'S DELIGHT FOR THE FIRECRACKER REGATTA

by Dan Muss

Winds, mostly out of the northwest, were light and variable on Saturday for the annual Firecracker Regatta. The race commander set up what was probably too long a course for the prevailing conditions; in the end the wind just died completely for periods of time.

There was something that happened during that first Saturday race that I've only seen once before here on Deep Creek Lake. The Flying Scot A Fleet was coming downwind about to make a dog-leg through the slot between Turkey Neck and Thousand Acres when the boats ahead were stalled by a dead calm. As my crew and I approached them with pretty good boat speed, we had visions of eating their lunch. But we stalled right beside them. After a few more boats hit this wall of no wind I looked to my left and then to my right; the entire fleet was lined up in a lazy arc across the entrance to the slot. The boats were just sitting here, spinnakers a-droop without steerage way. (Steerage way is a term used to describe the fact that all boats that depend on rudders to steer have to be moving at some minimal speed in order to steer. For an oil supertanker that minimum speed is about five knots, for the Flying Scot, that speed is about one knot.)

Later, when the zephyrs had returned, we noticed one group of Scots A traveling west downwind, while another group of Scots B were traveling in exactly the same direction closehauled, beating upwind; in other words, the winds were 180 degrees apart just ½ mile away. The first race on Saturday was so long that the second race had to be cancelled.

As frustrating as Saturday's race was, Sunday's was a delight with wind westerly at 5 to 10 mph. Doug MacMillan had placed sixth in the first race and was in the running for a trophy if he did well in the second. His granddaughter, Lindsey Scattergood, had just finished a week in Sailing School and wanted to race with granddad. Doug, knowing that he would be disqualified for changing the number of crew members in a regatta, willingly took her along. He finished fifth which would have given him a fourth place trophy if not for the disqualification.

This weekend was the first time for the new Laser B Fleet made up of Sailing School alumni. The young people sailed well.

Nominations For Southern Hall Of Fame Sought

Tom Woods, athletic director and head football coach at Southern High School, announced this week that nominations are now being sought for persons to be inducted into the SHS Football Hall of Fame. Among those eligible are former players, coaches, and past or current contributors to the school's football program. Those selected for the Hall of Fame will be named and honored at the Southern-Allegany game on September 6.

Woods explained that names of persons who have been previously nominated, but not yet selected, remain in the pool and will automatically be reconsidered this year and in future years.

The honorees will each receive a plaque and have their names added to the Hall of Fame board that stands at the entrance to the Southern stadium.

All nominations should be mailed to Coach Tom Woods, care of Southern High School, Oakland. The deadline for this year is August 1, after which time a selection committee will choose the 1996 inductees. Information on nominees should include name, position played, years played, honors won, coach's record, years coached, years as a Ram football contributor, and major contributions.

Hepatitis: There Are Three Common Types

The American Liver Foundation and other groups have recently launched public service efforts to make Americans more aware of the problem of hepatitis. Approximately 600,000 cases of acute viral hepatitis are reported in the U.S. each year.

Hepatitis A is an acute illness with fatigue, abdominal pain, and jaundice (yellow skin color). This type is transmitted by mouth and is usually caused by ingesting contaminated food or water. Hepatitis B (once called serum hepatitis) is a very contagious condition that is often transmitted through sexual contact. It is also transmitted through contact with the blood of an infected person. The virus can be passed to a baby at birth if the mother is infected. Hepatitis C is also transmitted by the blood or body fluids. However, hepatitis C is less of a problem during childbirth or from sexual contact. Hepatitis C is one of the leading reasons for liver transplant procedures.

Additional hepatitis types include D, E, and at least two other types. The good news is that hepatitis vaccines can prevent some types of hepatitis. In addition, gamma globulin can prevent infection in certain situations. Experimental treatment of hepatitis includes HIV antiviral drugs and immunomodulator medicines.

HYDROPONIC VEGETABLE GROWING

Hydroponics, despite its futuristic-sounding name, is not a new way of growing plants. More than 500 years ago the Aztecs used the science to grow floating plant gardens on water. Today, we grow lettuce, tomatoes, peppers, cucumbers, radishes, and herbs in hydroponic gardens. Hydroponic growing involves growing plants in a liquid nutrient solution. To support the plants, vermiculite is often used since there is not soil to anchor plants via roots. The liquid is in watertight troughs or special double walled pots or other containers holding the growing medium.

The temperature, water level, and nutrient content and pH must be monitored. Solutions are exchanged approximately every two weeks.

Plants can be started in tubes or in the soil. Before transplanting into the liquid medium, all traces of soil must be removed; the length of the roots needs to be balanced with the top growth.

Oxygen is an important part of the growing process. Air must be pumped into the water, or, for a small project, a fishtank aerator can be used. Roots can benefit from the added oxygen if the water is not refilled until the level drops to the minimum indicated on the gauge.

Only special fertilizers mixed for hydroponic growing should be used and can be bought at garden supply stores. Essential micronutrients such as iron, boron and copper and macro nutrients (nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium) must be available to the growing plant.

Hydroponically growing vegetables allows them to be ready for consumer use earlier than can be managed in Garrett County gardens, but it is not an expensive process. The grower must be particular about cleanliness, monitoring measurements, water levels, etc.. He or she must follow directions carefully and be alert to any problems.

Household Help

Q. Realizing that living in a 65-year-old house presents problems along the way, I would like to explain my situation to you. We moved here 21 years ago and noticed a few minor cracks in this totally-tiled (floor) house. Never did we realize that these cracks would get so bad.

The worst area where the tiles are 9" x 9" in size is badly cracked. The cracks extend through 12 tiles (108 inches). The others are bad and seem to grow just as rapidly.

My main concern is, are we in any danger of a sinking floor? We are situated on a slight incline with part of the house virtually sitting on the ground. Can you give me any thoughts?

A. I also take a 65-year-old house into consideration because of its age. A building this old is apt to have structural problems of one sort or another.

You didn't mention any water or seepage problems from beneath your floor, so we'll rule that out. I can also guess that a good majority of your home is situated on a poured concrete wall or foundation blocks. Even though a portion of your house is sitting on the ground, this shouldn't have an adverse effect as far as those cracks are concerned.

The biggest dilemma you have is structural settlement. Although I haven't inspected your home personally, the extent of the cracks you have described proves so. This kind of problem is often common, but I suspect a more serious concern in your case. You have also made mention that the cracks grow as rapidly as the others, which could be significant.

At this point, I cannot give you any methods of repair due to the possibly serious nature of the problem. I also could not give you a conclusive answer whether your floor is in any danger of actually sinking.

In my opinion, it would be a wise investment to have a home inspection engineer come in and assess your problem. I can give you no easy answers from my end.

Antiques

Q. My dishes are marked "Lane & Co., Van Nuys, California." Some of the pieces are dated 1956 or 1957. Can you tell me more?

A. Lane and Co. started about 1956 and was working in the 1960s and later. The company made lamps, vases, bowls and other earthenware pieces. In 1961 the company started using the name Sunkist Creations of California, but by 1965 that name was out of use. They may have been distributors and not manufacturers.

Q. My old pewter creamer was very black, but when we cleaned it we found the marks "JR&SS," "EPBM." How old is it?

A. The creamer was made by Joseph Ridge of Sheffield, England, in the 19th century. "EPBM" stands for "electroplated Britannia metal." The set was originally silver-plated on Britannia metal. Brittania is a pewter-like metal.

Q. My pottery crock says "Kaukauna Kluh" in printed letters on the side. What can you tell me about it?

A. Kaukauna Klub cheese products may go back to 1918, but the crocks with the cold pack cheese food date to 1933. Hubert Fassbender was the owner of the South Kaukauna Dairy of Kaukauna, Wis. He made the cheese and sold it to his beer customers. It has been distributed in all parts of the country.

Some of the early crocks were made by Western Stoneware Co. of Monmouth, Ill. Some crocks had paper labels, and some were made with the name printed in black or dark blue. The cheese is now sold as Kaukauna Cheese.

Home Tips

REUSE SHOULDER PADS — We all have shoulder pads that we remove from our clothing. My tip is to use these shoulder pads to wipe the bathtub and sink and another for kitchen clean-up on stoves and sinks.

They rinse clean and after using a few times may be thrown away and use a new, clean one. I use them in my bathroom and find them very easy to handle as they fit the hand very comfortably. Hope you will use this tip. Grace McG., Franklin Square, N.Y.

EASY DUMPLINGS — I have always cut my dumplings with a knife, but a pizza cutter works much better. I make mine ahead of time, cut in large strips and put in freezer. I layer them on a long baking sheet with waxed paper between the layers. When used, they can break into pieces very easily. Mary W., Westmoreland, Tenn.

HELP! — I saw some great advice in my local paper under "Home Tips." I hope you will please try to help me.

I had rust water from a really old boiler spilled on my six-month-old driveway. It is now rust-colored! The company who did it can't help us. Please let me know if you can. Thank you. Mrs. J., Lindenhurst, N.Y.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Does anyone have an answer for Mrs. J.? Please write and let us know what the solution is.

Mrs. J.: Unless I miss my guess, that company should be liable for the damage they did. Contact your local Consumer Affairs Bureau (listed in phone book) or your local attorney general for advice.

RECIPE BOOK — Write the names and page numbers of recipes that you use in the back of the cookbook so you can find recipes at a glance. Dolores G., Schertz, Texas

HANDY RUBBER BAND — Keep a wide rubber band handy to place around a jar that won't open. It will help you turn and release the lid easily. It makes for a better grip. Hannah R., Avondale, La.

Dollars & Sense
by Bryon Elson

How much do you expect to receive in Social Security benefits when you retire? The amount you receive depends on a number of factors, including your retirement age and your contributions to the Social Security fund.

You should review your Social Security account in advance, and correct any discrepancies before payments are due to begin. You can get an estimate of your future Social Security benefit if you call 1-800-772-1213 and ask for a "Request for Earnings and Benefit Estimate and Statement." Return the completed form to receive an official statement of your earnings history, as well as monthly benefit estimates for retiring at age 62, 65, or 70.

Many people do not realize that you will not receive Social Security checks automatically. The Social Security Administration recommends that you apply for benefits up to three months before you can qualify. You should call or visit your local Social Security office to sign up. Be sure to bring your Social Security number, birth certificate, last year's W-2 or a copy of last year's self-employment tax return and, if you served in the military, your discharge papers.

The Social Security Administration will base your benefit amount on a system of credits that you earn while you work. You will qualify for benefits if you earn enough credits. For example, if you were born in 1929 or later, you must earn 40 credits. The amount of wages you need to earn a credit increases each year. Most people earn the maximum of four credits per year.

Due to longer life expectancies, the full retirement age increases in gradual steps until it reaches age 67 for anyone born after 1960. However, you will receive increased Social Security benefits if you work beyond full retirement age. Each additional year of work adds another year of wages to your Social Security earnings record, and higher lifetime earnings may increase your monthly benefit. Also, you get a bonus in the form of a delayed retirement credit for each year of work beyond your 65th birthday, up to age 70.

If you choose to retire early, you will not receive full Social Security benefits. For example, if your full retirement age is 65, but you retire at age 62, your benefit amount is reduced by 20 percent.

"JUST LIKE DAD" Is what Garrett County's famous photographer Leo J. Beachy named this particular shot, which happened to be of his nephew, Morris "Coon" Beachy, taken many decades ago when Leo was making a name for himself in photography. The photo is from Beachy's glass negative collection now in the possession of another relative, Maxine Beachy Broadwater, of Grantsville, and is published here courtesy of the Garrett County Historical Society and The Republican. The photo graces the cover of the 1996 Beachy Calendar, which contains 14 of Beachy's Garrett County photographs.

Earns Degree At McDonald's "HU"

Gregory S. Few, manager at the McDonald's restaurant in Oakland, has been awarded a Bachelor of Hamburgerology degree from McDonald's Hamburger University (H.U.) for graduating from the Universitys advanced operations course. All McDonald's restaurant managers, franchisees, mid-management, and company executives are required to complete this course.

McDonald's managers are trained in every aspect of general business management including customer service, personnel practices, quality assurance, equipment fundamentals, accounting, and marketing. Coursework also includes training in effective communications with personnel, suppliers, and customers.

"Developing interpersonal and human relations skills is a key part of our curriculum," Theis said. "These skills help our employees meet the challenges of dealing with a diverse workforce. The curriculum also prepares employees to address questions from our customers on a full range of issues."

To attend H.U., students must first complete McDonald's management development program which consists of classroom instruction and more than two years of restaurant training. This program and the advanced operations course are approved for 18 hours of college credit by the American Council on Education and can be applied toward an associate or baccalaureate college degree.

McDonald's H.U. was founded in 1961 to ensure consistency in food quality, customer service, and restaurant operations throughout the growing McDonald's system. It has been cited by several business publications as a model corporate training facility. More than 50,000 students will have graduated from H.U.

McDonald's is the leading foodservice retailer in the global consumer marketplace, with more than 15,000 restaurants in 79 countries. About 80 percent of McDonald's restaurant businesses are locally owned and operated by independent entrepreneurs.

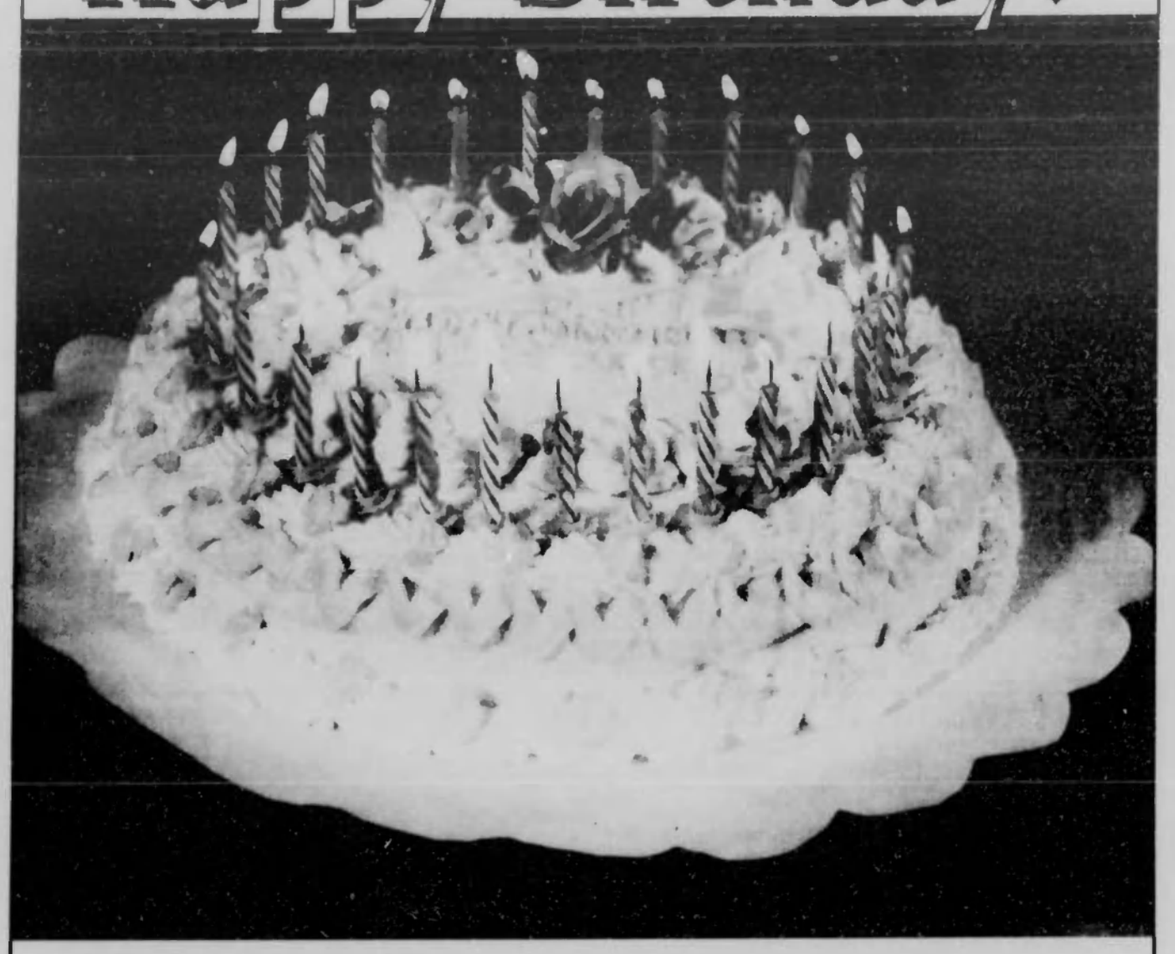
Happy Birthday!



Birthday cards are interesting. Recently, someone sent me the following:
"Birthday Greetings! You know what they say about old age: It's all in your mind... (and legs, arms, neck, arches, back, shoulder...)."

It is easy to appreciate the humor (and reality) of the card. But your birthday is more than that; even more than a milestone. It is a road marker pointing to new experiences, reminding you that the future is not-yet but can-be. It suggests the un-mapped road promises life un-lived, un-marred, just waiting for your touch.

Birthday is a "new year" that holds within its muted grasp all sorts of gifts yet unknown. There will be days of darkness as well as brightness; days of sorrow together with joy; days of tears mingled with laughter.

But each emotion and experience is needed to weave the tapestry of life so it will stand out in bold-relief, declaring the "love and life are real."

CORRECT PROBLEMS EARLY, HAVE YOUR CHILD TESTED

Three health problems that can often be the cause of a child doing poorly in school are speech deficiency, poor hearing and bad eyesight. Any or all of these can strongly inhibit the desire for a child to learn and to enjoy the friendship of companions at school.

Many schools will make arrangements for children to be tested for these problems as part of their program or you can ask your family doctor to do it for you. Don't take a chance on having difficulties interfere with what should be a happy time for your child.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

DON'T FORGET TO REMEMBER
July 14, 1996

Background Scripture:
Psalms 105
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 106:1-12

In Psalms 104, the Psalmist looked at the wonders of God's world and, when he contemplated all of these, he felt led to praise God.

The Psalmist in Psalms 105 also is led to praise God because of his contemplation. But his time, that to which he gives his deepest thoughts is not in nature, but in history.

In my life span I have witnessed the anxiety of the Great Depression, the struggle of World War II, the fearful fight against Communism, and now that Communism is no longer our great enemy, it would seem we have turned against ourselves. I've often thought about all those changes I've seen in my sixty-six years and wondered just how it was that a whole world moved from crisis to resolution, from another crisis and another resolution, and so forth.

The popular interpretation is that various individuals have been responsible for moving the rest of us from one struggle to another: Roosevelt, Churchill, Hitler, Truman, Stalin, Ghandi, Gorbachev and so many others. Certainly each of these people played key roles in the history of our times. But, behind these people and their movements, is there not something else that shapes our history?

A SINGLE THREAD

In Psalms 105 the Psalmist does a quick survey of the major outline of the history of Israel. From he time of the Patriarch Abraham, through the conquest of the Promised Land he looks for a single thread that connects all these varied events and people. In each of these acts of powertul people, the Psalmist sees the hand of God working in human history and moving both creatures and creation in the direction of his will. It is God who is in hage of history, not his children. So when he contemplates the history of his people, the Psalmist is moved to praise and thank the Lord for his mighty acts.

Actually, the Old Testament never devotes much space or time to ideas about God. What the Old Testament recounts in detail are the events in which God has been seen to be acting. God is revealed to the people of Israel, not in creeds or doctrines, but in his saving and redeeming acts. So the people of Israel were concerned, not so much with what God is as they were with what God does.

And the key to this perspective is remembering. The Psalmist remembers and he challenges the people to remember with him what God has done: "Remember the wonderful works that he has done, his miracles and the judgments he uttered..." (105:5). Furthermore they are to help others to remember: "...make known his deeds among the peoples!...tell of his wonderful works!"

LORD OF HISTORY

Isn't that what being a disciple of Jesus Christ is all about–being aware of what he has done for you and witnessing to it? Why do we not search the annals of history and our own lives to find that same single thread? God acting through the acts of his children, moving history –both personal and corporate–to that purpose he has ordained. People may bring on the crisises, but God moves us through them. He is the Lord of history. In a sense, history is His Story.

God also remembers: "He is mindful of his covenant forever, of the word that he commanded for a thousand generations" (v.8). And, "For he remembered his holy promise, and Abraham his servant" (v.42). So there is not only purpose in history, but also faithfulness. While they were still landless nomands in the desert, he made his promise to make them a great nation. It took a long time for that promise to be fulfilled, but it was the people, not God, who delayed.

Someone has said that the Christian with an experience will always be closer to God than the one with a doctrine. What we all need to do is to contemplate our own experiences in order to find that same thin strand of Providence. Let us never forget to remember the mighty, saving acts of God.

COVER STORY

Four sports get places on the Olympic roster

By Barry Garron
©TVData Features Syndicate

Viewers and fans should start thinking about mountain hiking and beach volleyball as Olympic sports. The International Olympic Committee has already.

They are two of the four new medal events during the 1996 Summer Games in Atlanta. The other two are women's softball and women's soccer.

Every year, the International Olympic Committee (IOC) adjusts the lineup of events, adding some sports and, occasionally, dropping others.

The 1988 Summer Olympics saw the addition of baseball and badminton, both of which will be played again this summer.

Other sports, like golf, polo and rugby, have disappeared from Olympic programs. Only golf is given much chance of rejoining the competition.

Rules for adding a new sport are simple. For men, the sport must be played in at least 75 countries on four continents. For women, it must be played in 40 countries on three continents. It must also be approved by an IOC vote.

Currently, 19 sports have official IOC recognition but are not part of the Games. These include ballroom dancing, karate and water-skiing.

The IOC has decided to give tae kwon do and the triathlon one-time tryouts at the 2000 Summer Games in Sydney, Australia. It's the same commitment made to softball this year: If the events are successful they will be added to the roster.

The problem is the roster is getting too big. More than 10,000 athletes will compete in Atlanta, 40 percent more than in Los Angeles in 1984. This summer's cost of $1.7 billion is four times what was spent in Los Angeles.

"The IOC is reviewing the program and working from a basic philosophy of trying to limit the size of the Games, which is quite large," says Mike Moran, director of the public information and media relations division of the U.S. Olympic Committee.

Beach volleyball's Holly McPeak

There are reports some sports – fencing, synchronized swimming and the modern pentathlon – are in danger of being droppped.

A sport will not necessarily be televised because it is new. Each of the new sports won't get equal exposure on NBC, which is carrying the Summer Games beginning Friday, July 19.

Of the four sports, NBC is likely to hone in on beach volleyball, which has its share of attractive competitors and should grab more viewers.

Also, some sports such as mountain hiking take place over a wide area, requiring announcers to give more technical information, and are therefore harder to cover.

Ed Markey, network vice president for sports press, says NBC will "go where the stories are." But the network also knows viewers favor some sports over others. Its tentative program schedule indicates traditional favorites, like gymnastics and diving, will get a lot more air time than table tennis and judo.

Only time and network ratings will tell if the four new sports will get more TV coverage.

After a two-year hiatus, Wynonna steps up to the microphone once again in Wynonna: Revelations, airing Thursday, July 18, on CBS.

The singer performs selections from her albums, including the hit song "To Be Loved by You." Guest star Bette Midler joins Wynonna for several duets.

Also included is footage of Wynonna's wedding, interviews with the singer, her mother, Naomi Judd, and sister, Ashley Judd.

SOAP TALK

The word on Buchanan; an Emmy wrap-up

By Candace Havens
©TVData Features Syndicate

Jensen Buchanan

Dear Candace: Can you please tell me why Jensen Buchanan (Vicky) left Another World and then came back? Was she on vacation? –John in Erie, Pa.

Dear Reader: Buchanan temporarily left her role on maternity leave.

Dear Candace: I love the soap One Life to Live. Two of my favorite characters are Max (James De Paiva) and Blair (Kassie Wesley).

I was probably one of the few fans who actually wanted Max to stay with Blair when they had an affair. They were such a hot couple.

A friend recently told me the actors who play these characters are dating. Is that true? –N., in Colsonville, Mich.

Dear Reader: De Paiva and Wesley are married, but they have been extremely tight-lipped about their relationship.

Both actors were married to other people when they met. Wesley and her husband, Richard Hankins, soon were separated.

De Paiva was married to Misty Rowe, and they too parted ways soon after De Paiva and Wesley met.

Rowe and De Paiva have a daughter, Dreama.

De Paiva and Wesley now live in a New York apartment.

Dear Candace: I missed this year's Daytime Emmy telecast. Can you please tell me who won what? I know Susan Lucci (Erica, All My Children) didn't win; I heard it on the radio. –Martha in Pensacola, Fla.

Dear Reader: Goodness, Martha, where have you been? Let's see:

The outstanding drama series was General Hospital.

Outstanding lead actor went to Charles Keating (Carl, AW). Outstanding lead actress was picked up by Erika Slezak (Viki, OLTL).

Anna Holbrook (Sharlene, AW) won the outstanding supporting actress award. Jerry ver Dorn (Ross, Guiding Light) picked up the award for outstanding supporting actor.

Kimberly McCullough (Robin, GH) was the outstanding younger actress winner, and Kevin Mambo (Marcus, GL) was awarded outstanding younger actor.

The outstanding writing team award went to AMC, which didn't make up for Lucci's loss.

Mark Frankel

Q: I quickly became a fan of Kindred: The Embraced and was disappointed to see it end so soon. Does Fox plan to bring it back in the fall? Also, please tell me something about the handsome man who plays Julian Luna. –Geri Kery, Bethlehem, Pa.

A: Born in London, Mark Frankel is the son of an RAF pilot and the grandson of an accomplished concert violinist-conductor. Before Kindred, which is not on Fox's fall schedule, he was best known for playing Simon Bolt on Sisters and resourceful former spy Carlton Dial on Fox's Fortune Hunter.

Classically trained in Europe, Frankel made his feature film debut in the title role of – I am not making this up – Leon the Pig Farmer, which won a prestigious award at the Edinburgh and Venice film festivals.

His other television credits include A Season of Giants (as the painter Michelangelo) and Young Catherine.

His many stage credits include starring roles in A Streetcar Named Desire, Days of Cavafy and Agamemnon.

Q: Could you please settle a bet. Was there ever a spinoff of Cheers? –A.P., Seneca, Mo.

A: Apart from the current Top 20 hit Frasier, my NBC pal Bob Meyer reminds me of (shudder!) The Tortellis (NBC, 1987) with Dan Hedaya (as Cheers waitress Carla's ex-husband, Nick) and Jean Kasem.

Q: Did "Georgie" of Sisters previously play one of the sisters/daughters on Eight Is Enough several years ago? –I.M.V. of Pennsylvania.

A: No. Theater-trained Patricia Kalember had her first reurring series role in the title role of Kay O'Brien, a CBS medical drama that ran only two months in the fall of 1986. Just over a year later, in the spring of 1988, she starred with Tim Matheson in an ABC sitcom called Just in Time, which had an even shorter run.

Just prior to the premiere of Sisters in 1991, Kalember snagged the role that helped put her on the map: Susannah Hart, paramour to Professor Gary Shepherd (Peter Horton), on thirtysomething.

Q: My son says Cosmo Kramer from Seinfeld was on Saturday Night Live. I say it was Jim Carrey. Who is right? –M. Branski, Sarasota, Fla.

A: Carrey made a guest appearance on the final show of last season. But if you mean, who was the regular SNL member, the answer is neither.

DNR Reminds Lake Users Of Personal Watercraft Rules

In response to inquiries from numerous citizens, the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has issued a reminder that persons may not operate a personal watercraft on Deep Creek Lake between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays in July and August and on holidays.

Personal watercraft are classified by the U.S. Coast Guard as Class A vessels (a motorboat less than 16 feet in length). They are propelled by an inboard combustion engine powering a water jet pump and are designed so that the operator and passengers ride on the outside of the vessel. For more information about Class A vessels, persons may contact the Coast Guard at 1 (800) 368-5647.

The DNR also offers the following guidelines for lawful operation of personal watercraft:

- A personal watercraft operator must be 16 years of age or older.
- An operator born after July 1, 1972, must carry his or her boating safety certificate.
- Personal watercraft may only be operated between sunrise and sunset.
- Personal watercraft must be equipped with a self-circling device or equipped and operated with a lanyard-type engine cutoff switch.
- In Maryland waters other than the Atlantic Ocean, a personal watercraft may not be operated at a speed greater than six knots when approaching within 100 feet of a vessel, shore, wharf, pier, piling, bridge structure, abutment, another personal watercraft, or person in the water.
- Personal watercraft operators may not tow a waterskier unless the vessel has a three-person capacity -- including a driver, an observer, and a skier -- and is designed by the manufacturer for water skiing.
- Personal watercraft must be operated in a safe and responsible manner.

For information about personal watercraft restrictions that apply specifically to Deep Creek Lake, persons may call 387-4111.

Grantsville Man Charged With DWI

According to a report filed with the Cumberland Police, Michael Patrick Baumann, 37, was initially stopped on Greene Street for spinning his tires. The traffic stop led to the DWI charge, along with one for driving on a suspended license, and possession of paraphernalia, after it was revealed Baumann had a pipe commonly used to smoke marijuana.

Training Place Employs Youth In Summer Program

The Summer Youth and Training Program (SYETP) opened on July 1 with local young people hired to work at area state parks and other sites in various capacities. The program is under the direction of M. Sue Shockey, supervisor of the Garrett County Western Maryland Consortium office, The Training Place. Elmer Redinger is the program coordinator, assisted by Doug Oxford.

Although the program again took a substantial Congressional budget cut, approximately 100 participants will work this summer at the various sites. Most summers, well over 200 young people obtain employment through SYETP, a spokesperson said. Also affected by the cuts have been some educational components offered to participants in the past.

Emphasis has been placed on work crews, with six crews formed consisting of 10 or 11 participants each. Working as crew chief supervisors are Tracy Watson at Deep Creek Lake State Park, Kim Hinebaugh at New Germany, Colin Miller at Herrington Manor, Roger Shaffer with the State Highway Administration, Tim Kitzmiller at Broadford Park, and Barbara Browning as the supervisor of the roving crew, which will work at different locations.

LEARNING BY DOING - About 100 local young people are currently learning about the real world of work by being part of the Summer Youth Employment and Training Program (SYETP), sponsored by the Western Maryland Consortium Office. Six crews are currently working in various capacities at several county sites, including most of the area's state parks. See story. Pictured above is the crew at Herrington Manor as they prune and widen over 10 miles of ski trails. Shown are workers Mark Fike, Jeremy Miller, William Shifflett, Robert Canan, Clinton Sisler, Chris Williams, and Colin Miller, crew chief; and a Herrington ranger. Pictured below is the Deep Creek Lake work crew. The members are Bill Welch, Tony Fike, Robert Sines, Jamie Lewis, Johnny Corby, Darwin Dimick, Dawn Lohr, Brenda Shifflett, Tammy Miller, James Lynch, Marlena Lynch, and Crystal Kish. The crew chief is Tracy Watson.

The crew chiefs provide on-site training in specific job skills. The program is intended to teach skills that would give its participants an edge in obtaining future employment. Approximately 60 participants will receive up to 12 classroom hours designed to support the applied, "hands-on" job experiences.

The regular work experience will employ about 40 young people this summer at nearly 30 different sites in Garrett County. All enrollees work in the public sector in various state and local government agencies. The program will continue through August 9.

"We would like to thank these agencies and the fine people who work in them for providing supervision, work experience, and excellent role models for many youth in Garrett County," said Redinger.

She has also performed with Steve and Annie Chapman, Gold City, The Greenes, The Chuck Wagon Gang, The Bishops, The Mullins, The Down East Boys, and The Hoppers.

Sites has produced four recordings and has had eight national releases to gospel radio stations.

The event is open to the public, and a free-will offering will be accepted. For more information, persons may call 453-3156.

Taking Mission Trip To Russia

Brooke Rider, a junior at Northern High School, departed yesterday for Tyumen, Russia, for a one month excursion with Teen Mania Ministries, a nonprofit Christian organization that takes teenagers on short term missionary trips.

In the former Soviet Union, Rider will join other teenagers from the U.S. and Canada, and she will participate in a drama that portrays the life of Jesus. The youth will also work to form a Christian school for Russian children.

Last summer, Rider traveled to El Salvador with Teen Mania Ministries to perform in the religious drama.

During the past year, Rider has served as a guest speaker to local youth groups, and she plans to continue her speaking engagements after her return from Asia. Groups wishing to hear Rider discuss her experiences may call 895-5665.

Before her departure this week, Rider expressed her gratitude for the support she has received from the local community.

State Jobless Rate Increases; County's Drops

Although the influx of summer job seekers into the labor force pushed up Maryland's unemployment rate slightly to 4.8 in May, nearly 37,000 Marylanders entered employment during the same period, according to statistics released this week by the Maryland Department of Labor, Licensing, and Regulation. This large employment increase in the state prevented the unemployment rate from rising dramatically, even though the number of job seekers also increased.

Meanwhile, in Garrett County the jobless rate decreased by over one percentage point, from 10.4 percent in April to 9.2 percent in May. The May 1995 rate was 10.7 percent.

Maryland's unemployment rate continues to be lower than the national level, which remained at 5.4 percent in May. Across the state, unemployment rates in May ranged from a low of 2.7 percent in Montgomery County to a high of 11.6 percent in Somerset County.

"We are encouraged that even with the significant addition of job seekers to the labor force, a record number of Marylanders found jobs during May," said Governor Parris N. Glendening. "It is also good news that, adjusting for seasonal factors, the state's unemployment rate actually fell slightly and continues to be lower than the national average."

The seasonally adjusted unemployment rate dropped slightly from 5.0 percent in April to 4.9 percent in May, reflecting the large employment gains.

During May, a record breaking gain of 36,886 people raised employment to 2,595,179. This expansion was offset by a larger increase in the number of job seekers entering the labor market which raised the actual number of unemployed workers by about 6,100 people.

In Garrett County the April labor force totaled 13,360, of whom 11,975 were employed, while the May labor force was 13,809, of which 12,544 had jobs.

Seasonal hiring raised employment levels in several industries during May. Job gains were strongest in retail trade and services, with hiring in restaurants, amusements, business and agricultural services leading the growth.

Employment growth of nearly 2,665 people helped to lower the Western Maryland unemployment rate in the area to 6.2 percent, down, from 6.5 percent. Employment levels rose throughout the region in all but Allegany County.

25th Anniversary Celebration Set At GC College

Plans are progressing for the Garrett Community College's 25th anniversary celebration scheduled for Friday evening, September 6, and Saturday, September 7, and efforts are now underway to contact Garrett Community College alumni, former faculty, staff, and administrators.

In the near future, invitations will be mailed for the weekend events. The celebration will begin with a buffet dinner beginning at 6 p.m. in the McHenry House of the Wisp Resort. During the dinner honored guests will introduce, representatives from various graduating classes will be recognized, and a comedy skit portraying the early days of the college will be presented. The dinner will follow by dancing to the music of Tim Bassett's Big Band.

Saturday's events will begin at 11:30 a.m. in the Bausch and Lomb Art Gallery of the college where an historical exhibit of Garrett Community College will be displayed. A plaque with the names of the first faculty will be dedicated and installed, and a time capsule containing pertinent information and photos of the college's first 25 years will be buried. A free picnic lunch will be served, followed by alumni varsity baseball and volleyball games. All Garrett Community College alumni and their families are invited to attend.

Saturday evening's entertainment will be provided by Garrett Community College artists in the college auditorium at 7:30. Titled "Garrett Greats," the performance is being sponsored by the Garrett Community Arts Council which will be celebrating its 20th anniversary. A nominal admission charge will be made.

Several cases were heard in last week's Garrett County District Court proceedings by Judge Thomas A. Lohni, who presided in the absence of Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett, including one involving a young Grantsville man who was convicted of assault and battery.

Wayne M. Butler, 20, who pleaded not guilty, was handed two 180-day suspended sentences for the offenses. He was also fined a total of $225, and placed on 12 months of supervised probation. Two not guilty verdicts were handed to Butler for charges of possession of a deadly weapon on school property, and having a handgun on his person. Conditions of his probation state he must have no contact with the victim or any member of her family, and he is not to go near her home except to pass it in a vehicle.

According to the charging statement, the charges against Butler stemmed from an April 3 incident when Maryland State Police responded to a reported assault. The victim told the police that the defendant had approached her at Northern High School before the morning classes began, and grabbed her arm. She said he pushed a gun into her back, and told her he would kill her and her friends if she didn't break up with her boyfriend. The victim was able to break free and ran to safety. An investigation by the MSP, and contact with the defendant, later resulted in his arrest on the above charges.

In other district court news, a Friendsville area man was fined in excess of $1,500 after pleading guilty to 15 counts of possessing illegally killed deer.

George E. Bishoff, 57, who pleaded guilty to the offenses, was initially charged $520 for each illegal kill, but $420 of each of those fines were suspended. He was also fined $50 in court costs, and ordered to pay $600 restitution to the Department of Natural Resources. Bishoff was placed on two years of unsupervised probation, and nine additional illegal deer kill charges were not prosecuted.

The charges against the defendant were filed on May 1 at his farm on the Hoyes-Sang Run Road by the Natural Resources Police.

In a related case, William G. Bishoff, 25, also of the Friendsville area, was granted probation before judgment after pleading guilty to spotlighting deer. He was fined $525, and lost his hunting privileges for a two-year period, according to court records. Bishoff was charged with the offense on April 30. An additional charge of possession of a loaded weapon was not prosecuted.

Amy L. Whitacre, 22, Oakland, was granted probation before judgment after she pleaded guilty to possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS). One count of possession of CDS paraphernalia, also filed against Whitacre, was not prosecuted.

The charges against the defendant were incurred on Jan. 31 after the Garrett County Sheriff's Office received information that Whitacre and another woman were taking marijuana into the jail and passing it to inmates through straws. Later, when the two women arrived at the jail, sheriff's deputies used the K-9 unit to scan their vehicle for possible drugs, according to court reports. The dog alerted the deputies to the passenger side, where the defendant reportedly had been seated. As the women left the jail, they were confronted and searched, and Whitacre was found to be in possession of a metal pipe that contained suspected marijuana residue, resulting in her arrest.

Georgia L. Weimer, 51, Oakland, was not prosecuted on one count of battery. The charge stemmed from her Jan. 26 arrest by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, after she reportedly attacked her husband, Oliver E. Weimer.

One count each of disturbing the peace and malicious destruction of property, filed against Donna Oster, 32, Mtn. Lake Park, were placed on the stet docket. The charges had been filed on April 11, by Diana Slider, after an incident at the Meadows East Complexes in Mtn. Lake Park.

Edward W. Miller, 39, Berlin, was granted probation before judgment after pleading guilty to one count of CDS possession. He was fined $205 in fines and court costs, and placed on 180 days of supervised probation. An additional count of possession of CDS paraphernalia was not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

The charges against Miller stemmed from his Jan. 31 arrest by sheriff's deputies who had responded to the Wisp Hotel after it was reported that an odor of marijuana was coming from one of the rooms. The deputies located the occupants of the room, and a consent to search resulted in the confiscation of a wooden pipe and marijuana, along with a set of scales, all found in Miller's clothing.

Janet E. Broadwater, 58, Oakland, pleaded not guilty, and was found not guilty of one count of battery. She had been charged with the offense on May 21 by Rebecca E. Broadwater, Virginia Beach, Va., who said that during an altercation, the defendant came at her and shoved her through the front door entrance and out onto the porch. The complainant said she had scratches and bruises on her arm afterwards.

News from Preston, Tucker, Grant and Mineral Counties.

TINA FREELAND, Miss Fireworks 1995, waves to the crowd as she makes her final appearance as royalty for July 4 festivities in Terra Alta.

BANDS, FLOATS, FIRE TRUCKS, CLOWNS, and unusual vehicles like this home-made contraption delighted the thousands of people who lined Terra Alta's main throughway to watch the annual July 4 parade. In keeping with the red, white, and blue theme for the day, the flag painted on the front of vehicle reads, "Made In Possum Hollow."

Discovering One's Roots At Terra Alta's Americana Museum

by Nathan Raybeck

Herman Melville, the author of Moby Dick once said, "Life's a voyage that's homeward bound." To him, living was just an expedition toward home, or simply just to find out from where he came. From the beginning of time, man has wondered about his heritage, his culture, and how his ancestors survived. We all have asked the question, "Where did I come from?" and we have been searching for a way to go back in time to discover what role our forefathers played in the past, how that has shaped our present life, and how that will influence our future.

Since 1968 Ruth Teets has been helping people find answers to these and many other perplexing questions. Teets owns and operates the Americana Museum in Terra Alta and takes on the task of helping others discover their roots.

Teets said that every year a couple thousand people come through her museum to view her displays from the early 19th to the mid-20th Century. "Almost 90 percent of everything in here came from within a 50 mile radius of Terra Alta," said Teets.

The museum has a doctor's office that has everything you need, including a bleeding instrument so you can be relieved of any tired, sluggish blood. Most of the instruments actually belonged to a local doctor who practiced in Terra Alta for 50 years, Teets said.

The Museum also has an old post office complete with leather post cards postmarked from the 1800's. Teets said that the entire post office came from a neighboring town.

The main, 10,000 foot museum structure holds pure history, including a country store stocked to the brim with merchandise your grandfather used to barter, she said.

Another building of considerable interest is the carriage house. According to Teets, this collection includes more than 20 horse-drawn vehicles, a few antique cars, a fire engine that once pre-empted a horse-pulled fire cart, a Diamond T pickup truck, and a Canadian taxi-sleigh. Teets said that one carriage of special interest reportedly followed the hearse carrying the body of Abraham Lincoln in his funeral procession.

The museum also has a blacksmith shop where one might expect the smithy to shoe a horse or mend a wagon wheel while patrons wait and a log cabin where many countless relics and reminders of American heritage abound.

Teets went on to say that every week Bessie Goff of Morgantown comes to the museum to demonstrate how to spin yarn on an original spinning wheel.

"The highlights of the museum may be the Oak Grove Church," said Teets, adding that the church features the original pews, window, and woodwork. Teets said that the entire church was disassembled board-by-board and then reassembled in its present location.

Most people who come to the museum, which used to be a chicken house, have heard of it and just come to see what the museum has and she said that most of them are impressed with what is there, Teets commented.

"The museum adds a lot to the keeping alive of the history of this area and the people are impressed with what we have and they like it," she said.

The museum opened the last Sunday in June and will remain open until the second Sunday of October. The museum is only open on Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m. and there are people dressed in the garb of times-past on hand to answer any questions, demonstrate the antiques, and make one's visit a truly memorable and pleasant one.

The museum is located at 410 Aurora Avenue in Terra Alta.

MISS FIREWORKS 1996, Teri Queen, the 15-year-old daughter of T.R. Queen and Debbie Carder, reigned over a successful Independence Day celebration in the mountaintop town of Terra Alta. She, along with members of the Terra Alta Volunteer Fire Department, thank all who visited and participated in the variety of events during the week.

FIELD OF BATTLE - Again this year, perhaps the most popular event at the Fourth of July festivities in Terra Alta was the demolition derby, in which drivers matched metal in the muddy, noisy, smokey derby pit located on the Terra Alta Volunteer Fire Department fair grounds. As in previous years, a huge crowd surrounded the pit, rooting for their favorite drivers and answering each thunderous collision with rousing cheers. Pictured above, a driver standing on the roof of his car, number 32, center, is enveloped in steam until only his dark pants are visible. In the foreground, Joey Rodeheaver, Terra Alta, prepares to step off the hood of his mangled coupe, as officials, dressed in referee uniforms, survey the damage.

FIREMEN AT THE READY - Members of the Terra Alta Volunteer Fire Department stood by on both sides of the soggy derby pit during Saturday's demolition derby, part of the 70th annual Fourth of July celebration in the West Virginia community. Before beginning the derby, the packed arena of spectators observed a moment of silence for Jack Sharps, an active member of the TAVFD who was killed in an automobile accident last month. Pictured above, Terra Alta firemen watch as flames are belched out of the exhaust stacks of car number 88, driven by James Clough, Morgantown, winner of last year's derby.

Empty Pesticide Containers Can Be Recycled

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley reminds farmers about the sites and dates for the 1996 empty plastic pesticide container recycling program. During the summer, a total of 26 collection days are scheduled at nine sites located throughout the state. Six sites were used during the 1995 program.

"The response to this program by farmers, commercial agricultural applicators, and other pesticide users has been very encouraging the past three years. Large increases in participation have occurred during the 1993, 1994, and 1995 container collection programs and I am anticipating the same type of increase for 1996. Because of requests to expand the program to additional areas of the state, we have added three new sites," said Riley.

"In addition, the container recycling program will help us meet the commitments of the Chesapeake Bay Toxics Reduction and Prevention Strategy. The potential for contamination of ground water and the Chesapeake Bay is greatly reduced while saving valuable landfill space. During 1995, over 42,000 empty plastic pesticide containers were inspected, collected and processed. Ag-Chem, Inc. of Girdletree, Md. provides a chipper to grind the plastic containers into flakes, which are then transported to a contractor for recycling," said Riley.

Maryland's container recycling program is a combined effort of state, county, and federal agencies and private industry working together to protect the environment. With the cooperation of Mid-Shore Regional Recycling, Kent County Public Works, Wicomico Public Works, Frederick County Bureau of Solid Waste Management, Harford County Public Works, St. Mary's County Public Works, Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling, Martin's Elevator, Maryland Environmental Service, United States Department of Agriculture, and Ag-Chem, Inc., the program has been effective in reducing the landfill disposal of plastic pesticide containers and in allowing the plastic to be reused.

"With continued cooperation among the participating groups, farmers and pesticide applicators, the program will continue to prosper and will protect the natural resources of the state from potential contamination by pesticides," said Riley.

In Garrett County, the location will be Bumble Bee Refuse Collection Site, Bumble Bee Road off of Rt. 219 in Mcllenry, on July 10, August 6 and September 24.

For additional information, those interested should contact Mary Ellen Setting, chief of the Department's Pesticide Regulation Section (410) 841-5710.

Meeting Planned To Consider Dairy Assoc. Formation

Dairy farmers from across the state are expected to consider the formation of a Maryland Dairy Industry Association at 10:30 a.m. July 23 at the Maryland Farm Bureau office in Randallstown.

At the meeting, farmers will discuss the results of a survey sent to all Maryland dairy producers earlier this year. The survey asked farmers whether they felt a dairy association was needed. Farmers were also asked if regulations have impaired their dairy operations and whether they've felt well informed about legislative issues concerning the dairy industry.

The meeting is expected to conclude with a vote as to whether farmers wish to form a dairy association.

Such an association, if formed, would serve as a liaison between those involved in the dairy industry, legislators and the public. The organization could also provide a forum for sharing information about regulations and other developments in the dairy industry. Similar organizations already exist for other commodity groups, such as the Maryland Grain Producers Association and the Maryland Pork Producers Association.

Maryland currently has fewer than 1,300 dairy farms, most of which are located in Carroll, Frederick, Garrett and Washington counties. The state had more than 1,600 dairy farms in 1987.

Deadline Nears For Farm Queen Contestants

July 24 is the deadline for contestants to turn in applications for the 1996 Garrett County Farm Queen contest. The contest will be held August 11 during the Garrett County Fair.

Girls must be 16 through 19 years of age, and their parents must be members of Garrett County Farm Bureau. Applications are available from Debbie Barnard at 334-4170 or Kate Fratz at 746-8205.

Maryland Corn Acreage Is Up; Soybeans Down

Maryland agricultural producers were faced with wet conditions early in the planting season creating delays. Corn planting ran behind average early in the planting season, but ended at the normal time. Soybean planting was off to a slow start, and continues to run behind average progress.

Corn growers planted 530,000 acres of corn for all purposes, 18 percent more acres than were planted last year. Corn for grain is expected to be harvested from 465,000 acres, up from 400,000 acres last year. Soybean acreage planted and to be planted is estimated at 490,000 acres, 11 percent less than the 550,000 acres planted in 1995. Soybeans are expected to be harvested from 480,000 acres, down from the 510,000 acres harvested in 1995. Tobacco acreage for 1996 is estimated at 8,000, down 500 acres from the 8,500 acres harvested last year.

Generations Of Committeemen Work To Preserve Farmland For The Future

Farmers are men who devote their lives to the soil, generation after generation. Here in Garrett County, three families present a good example of this on-going care of the soil by their representation on the Garrett County Committee of the Farm Service Agency (FSA).

Representing these families on the County Committee at the present time are Kenneth Bachtel, who's been a regular member and is now chairman, serving from 1987 to the present; Dennis Margroff, a regular member from 1993 to the present; and Dorsey R. Guard, who served from 1992 to the present, spending four years as an alternate member and is now vice chairman. All of these men are determined to help preserve the land for their children and grandchildren, and by serving on the Committee, they are helping to preserve the land for all future generations.

What makes these three men unusual is the fact that their fathers, and in Dorsey Guard's case his grandfather, too, also served on the County Committee.

Ken Bachtel along with his three brothers and four sisters grew up on a dairy farm. Ken's father, Mark, was a member of the County Committee in 1956 and 1957. "My dad always said that being on the Committee was a good way of keeping up with what's going on in the world," Ken said. "It is a way to save the soil and not lose it to erosion."

Ken started farming with his dad after high school in 1960, and took over the farm in 1963. Mark Bachtel died in 1973, but his legacy lives on. Today, Ken and his wife Dorothy, daughter Francis, and son Forrest operate the dairy farm south of Red House. Ken says Forrest is getting excited about farming. He has been working with his dad for years, and thinks he wants to "give it a try."

Both Dorsey Guard's father, Leslie G., and grandfather, Dorsey, served on the County Committee. Leslie from 1970 to 1991, and Dorsey from 1948 to 1965. The family has always believed that it's necessary to preserve the land, to keep up with the law, and keep other people informed.

Today, Leslie and wife Betty, Dorsey, his wife Wanda, and sons Jeremiah, and twins Michael and Mitchell, raise dairy cows and crops on their Friendsville farm.

Dorsey says, "Jeremiah really seems to be interested in 4-H and the farm," and he believes that his work with the Committee will benefit many generations to come.

Dennis Margroff's father, J. Walter, served on the Committee from 1969 to 1977. He was a dairy farmer who always thought it was a good practice to take care of the land.

Today, the Margroffs raise beef cattle on the family farm in The Cove. Dennis' wife Kathy, daughter Jill, and sons Kevin, Steve and Troy, all help on the farm where the conservation tradition continues.

The County Committee consists of three regular members (each of whom serves a staggered three-year term) and two alternate members.

To hold office as a County Committee member, one must be eligible to vote in committee elections or represent an entity that is eligible to vote, reside in the county and meet certain other requirements to ensure that political activity or conflict of interest is not involved in committee operations or decisions.

In general, those eligible to vote in FSA committee elections are persons of legal voting age who have an interest in a farm as owner, operator, and who are eligible to participate in the programs administered by the committee.

FSA Garrett County Director Mike Kozier says the County Committee is "an important member of the FSA team. They assist in the administration of the USDA farm programs and they make my job easier because of their knowledge of farming, management and the county. I really appreciate their involvement and dedication to the Agency and farming community."

Most important is the realization that these men, and their families throughout the generations, have been helping to assure that there will always be land free from erosion to provide food for the world, and that conservation will continue to make this land available to future generations.

Part Three of a Three-Part Series

Maryland's Lead Paint Poisoning Prevention Program

Ninety-five percent of the housing units built in Maryland before 1950 contain lead paint. Swallowing or breathing lead can poison children. Lead poisoning can slow a child's development and cause learning disabilities and behavior problems. While case findings are lower in the outlying counties, far fewer children are tested as compared to Baltimore City. The hazards associated with lead paint are the same regardless of the location of the property.

Maryland's Lead Paint Poisoning Prevention Program is designed to reduce the incidence of childhood lead poisoning, while maintaining the supply of affordable rental housing. The Maryland Department of the Environment has proposed regulations concerning risk reduction treatments, lead paint abatement services, liability relief for property owners and compensation for tenants.

Frequently asked questions about this program:

Question: What is full abatement, and when is it required?
Answer: Full abatement is the complete removal, replacement or encapsulation of lead paint. Local health departments may require full abatement if a child with lead poisoning is living in a dwelling with lead paint. The law does not require full abatement, but requires satisfying the risk reduction standards.

Question: When are inspections required?
Answer: Inspections are required following performance of risk reduction work in rental housing, or at the time of turnover prior to reoccupancy.

Question: Could more than one inspection be required?
Answer: Yes. Since the maintenance of a dwelling unit can change, the law requires that the condition of the unit be verified at each turnover. If a unit is determined to be lead-free, then only one inspection is required. It is expected that inspections will cost under $100. Inspections must be performed by an independent accredited inspector.

Question: Are there different training requirements for the various types of risk reduction work performed?
Answer: Yes. Training requirements for the various professions which will perform risk reduction work are described on information sheets available by calling MDE.

Friendsville Elem. Students Learn Outside Of Class

Students from Judy Livengood's first grade class at Friendsville Elementary School participated in two unique learning experiences during the past school year that involved the community in which they live.

The students used their math skills to become "consumers" on a visit to S&S Market in Friendsville, where each child had money to spend, and was able to select his or her own purchase. Each student had to "count out' his or her own money, or was unable to complete the purchase.

After the students' lesson, Freda Sines from S&S Market treated each to a snack.

Another outing let the students use their language arts and social studies skills. They constructed a "language arts" quilt by illustrating one of several parts of speech, including nouns, verbs, adjectives, etc., and then put them on quilt squares. The squares were then pieced into a quilt by parent volunteer Robin Sines, and taken to Friendsville resident Jennie Miller, a 91-year-old retired Garrett County school teacher who answered the students' questions about school experienes in years past.

Mrs. Miller showed the students about her days as a teacher at the Selbysport School, a two-room school near Friendsville. They were able to compare life at school today with that of many of their grandparents, as well as their teacher's father, who was one of Mrs. Miller's students many years ago.

Following the visit and the quilt presentation, Mrs. Miller treated the students to a tour of her home and snacks.

FRIENDSVILLE STUDENTS EXPERIENCE LEARNING OUTSIDE THE CLASSROOM - Judy Livengood's first grade class at Friendsville Elementary School combined what they learned in the classroom with experiences outside the classroom on two separate outings during the past school year. In the photograph above, Andy Sisler is shown as he prepares to pay for his purchase during a visit to S&S Market in Friendsville. Acting as "consumers," the students had their own money to spend, and then had to count the money as they paid for their purchases. Below, the students made a "language arts" quilt and presented it to retired teacher Jennie Miller during a visit to her home. Shown below, from left to right, front row, are Brittany Burgess, Brittney Johnson, and Shawna Stallman, partially hidden; second row, Kraig Margroff and Raina Sines; third row, Johnathon Williams, Jane Rittenhouse, Billy Woodward, and Adam Hoover; fourth row, Shayla Rodeheaver, Heather Thomas, Larry Toler III, and Kelsey Lytle; fifth row, Andrew Rodeheaver, Jenny Hoover, and Andy Sisler; seventh row, Aaron Frazee, Justin Lowdermilk, Emily Sisler, and Kerri Harding; eighth row, Judy Livengood, teacher, Mrs. Jennie Miller, and Mrs. Carol Wakefield, assistant; and at the top, Robin Sines, parent volunteer.

Herman Speaks To Md. Delegates

During the recent visit to Garrett County, members of the Maryland House of Delegates Appropriations Committee heard Garrett Community College president Dr. Steve Herman speak about the needs of the college and the implications the new state funding formula will have for small community colleges.

Herman told the legislators about the Adventuresports Institute and the success of the Adventuresports academic program that has attracted students from throughout the United States and about the Garrett Rural Information Cooperative (GRIC) that has helped to bring the information highway to Garrett County homes and businesses through its telecommunications network. He also spoke of the two capital projects in the Master Plan for GCC -- the new academic building and the athletic facility.

Dr. Herman expressed his concern about the new state funding formula and its implications for small community colleges. According to the formula the seven small Maryland community colleges will receive a 27% average increase in funding through the fiscal years 1997-2002. During the same period the larger community colleges are slated to receive a 54% average increase in funding. He said, however, that the community college presidents were united behind the effort to have the formula amended.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOL NO. 119 OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., THURSDAY, JULY 18 , 1996 PER COPY 47¢ Printed on RECYCLED NEWSPRINT

WHERE'S HUCK? A youthful lone flaherman (Grantsville's own Tom Sawyer?) was photographed recently as he waited for a bite in the Casselman River. The weather has been prime for outdoor fun in the county, although rain fell for a while this morning through a dark fog. All in all, the summer thus far has been pleasant, allowing for swimming, hiking, boating, biking, and all other sorts of warm fun. The area state parks are busy with visitors, as is Deep Creek Lake. Because summers here are relatively short, all should take these days as opportunities for being out - like Tom here - and for contemplating how pleasurable it is to live in such a place as Garrett County.

Grantsville Man Sentenced To 15 Years For Murder

A Grantsville man who was accused of fatally stabbing his wife in the heart has been sentenced to 15 years in prison. Larry L. Brenneman, 47, had in May entered an alford plea of guilty to the charge of second degree murder, and Judge Fred A. Thayer handed down the jail term Tuesday.

Brenda Lee Brenneman, 41, died on June 17, 1995, after she and the defendant had engaged in an argument at their home. According to reports logged by Maryland State Police, both individuals had been drinking alcohol at the time of the altercation. A struggle ensued and Mrs. Brenneman suffered a knife wound that pierced her heart, the report indicates.

Brenneman first told police that the wound was self-inflicted, but later recanted and explained about the struggle. When she was stabbed, Brenneman reportedly attempted to resuscitate his wife and then ran next door to his mother's home to call for assistance. When officers arrived at the house, they found Mrs. Brenneman on the kitchen floor and the hatcher knife on the floor of the bathroom.

Following Tuesday's hearing, the defendant began serving his sentence at the Maryland Department of Corrections.

In other circuit court news, three cases were heard last week involving operating motor vehicles while under the influence of alcohol. Another case involved an Oakland man who faced numerous theft and burglary charges. Judge Thayer presided.

A truck driver from Georgia was tried by jury and was found guilty of three traffic offenses. Merle D. Alberts, 47, Folkston, Ga., was convicted of DUI (driving under the influence of drugs and/or alcohol), operating a commercial vehicle with alcohol concentration in breath, and pos-

HEIDELBERG DUO TO PERFORM AT PENN ALPS - The Heidelberg Duo - Dorothea von Albrecht, cello, and Christine Olbrich, piano - will perform in the Great Hall at Penn Alps, Grantsville, on Saturday, July 20, at 7:30 p.m. The concert is part of the Music at Penn Alps series. The duo, hailing from Germany, will celebrate the 225th birthday of Beethoven by performing an all-Beethoven concert. Sonatas in C major, A major, and D major, works that the duo is currently recording for release this summer, will be presented. The pair's first compact disc featuring works of contemporary composers, released in 1994, met with high praise, with the women's style being described as having "great expressiveness and subtlety combined with verve typical of born musicians." Tickets for the program are available at the door or may be reserved by calling 895-3332. Individual tickets are $8 for adults and $4 for students 13 and older. Children aged 12 and younger are admitted free. Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by Spruce Forest Artisan Village and Penn Alps, with additional support from the Maryland and Garrett County arts councils.

Pa. Man Drives Wrong Way On Interstate; Oncoming Car Wrecks

A Pennsylvania man was charged with driving the wrong way on the interstate, and reckless driving, following an incident Monday afternoon on Interstate 68 that resulted in a single-vehicle accident.

According to a report filed with the Maryland State Police, 84-year-old Harry M. Trimpey, Markelton, was operating his 1989 Ford Escort the wrong way on the westbound lanes of I-68, near the 5 mile marker, when a vehicle operated by Cherie L. Hughes, 31, Sod, W.Va., approached traveling the right way. Hughes attempted to avoid the Trimpey's oncoming vehicle, and her 1991 Subaru skidded off the road and struck several trees.

Hughes and her passengers, Charleen Armstrong, 34, and Randall Hughes, 11, both of Sod, were all taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad, where all were treated and released.

Trimpey, according to the police report, had driven several miles in the wrong direction before he was stopped.

Also responding to the 3:06 p.m. accident were volunteers from the Friendsville fire department.

DRIVER EJECTED

A Mountain Lake Park teenager was injured in a single-vehicle accident last Thursday morning when he was ejected from his pickup truck after it struck a utility pole and overturned onto Rt. 40, near Amish Road.

Shannon D. Ringer, 19, was transported to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland following the 6:20 a.m. accident, where he was admitted. Initially listed in "stable" condition at that facility, he has since been released.

According to a report filed by Tfc. Robert Sharp, after Ringer's 1990 Ford pickup truck left the road, it struck the pole, severing it off at the base. The vehicle then reportedly rolled over a couple of times, causing Ringer to be ejected.

Northern Garrett Rescue Squad transported Ringer

Zoning Hearing On Quarry Issue Set For Tonight

Over one year after the matter first surfaced, the issue of the proposed expansion of a Deep Creek Lake area limestone quarry will again be brought to the table tonight.

The Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing tonight, July 18, at 7:30 p.m. in the planning commission meeting room in the Garrett County courthouse, Oakland, to review an application made by Maryland Minerals, Inc., for a special exception permit to alter its existing operation at the Thayerville quarry.

Following public hearings last spring and summer, the county and state approved Maryland Minerals' application to open a new portal to deep mine limestone in the area of the Thayerville quarry, an endeavor which would require the company to obtain a surface mining permit.

The approval of the permit was legally challenged by Brownings Deep Creek Quarry, Inc., which operates an adjoining limestone mine. Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Fred Thayer reviewed the issue and in a Dec. 14, 1995, decision, returned the matter to the local appeals board.

At a hearing on the permit request last summer, a representative of Brownings Quarry expressed his concern that the proposed operations at the Thayerville quarry might affect the safety and economic value of the Brownings mine, which is connected to the Thayerville mine through underground passages.

Funds Made Available For Access Road To Jennings Randolph Lake

Some $600,000 in federal dollars have been made available to fund construction of an access road to give Marylanders a direct corridor to Jennings Randolph Lake, located on Garrett County's southern border with West Virginia.

Maryland Senators Paul Sarbanes and Barbara Mikulski announced last Friday that they have had a provision included in the Water Resources Development Act authorizing the Secretary of the Army to transfer $600,000 in funding to the State of Maryland for the completion of the road.

A representative of Sarbanes' office stated late yesterday that he expects the Secretary of the Army to make the funding transfer in the near future.

Currently, the only paved access road to the Jennings Randolph Lake recreational area is in West Virginia, creating an additional drive time of approximately 40 minutes for Marylanders who want to visit the site.

The senators' action came in response to concerns expressed by the Department of the Army that, because of differing federal and state standards for road construction and the planning already undertaken by the state of Maryland, the total cost of the road would be significantly lower if built by the State of Maryland rather than the Army Corps of Engineers.

The transfer of the $600,000 is intended to help expedite the project.

"Not only have we helped to move this project along, enabling Marylander's to have easier access to enjoy the recreational activities at Jennings Randolph Lake, but, as a result of allowing the state of Maryland to complete the project, we are saving money in the process," said Sarbanes.

"I am delighted the Senate has given the green light to construct this access road," said Mikulski. "This new road means that Marylanders will have easier access to Jennings Randolph Lake. It allows for the development and expansion of the recreational facilities on the Maryland side of the lake and enhances Western Maryland's natural attractions for tourists."

The state of Maryland, in cooperation with the Army Corps of Engineers and the Garrett County Board of Commissioners, are currently developing an access road, boat ramp, lake site parking, restrooms, and a management facility at the lake.

Garrett County has also budgeted funds to upgrade approximately three miles of county roadway to the boundary of the federal property and agreed to assume maintenance responsibilities for the road.

Westvaco is providing rights-of-way and easements for road access through its property at no cost.

Garrett Realtors Unhappy Over Recordation, Transfer Tax Hikes

A crowd of approximately 40 representatives of the local realty industry came before the Garrett County Board of Commissioners this week to express their dismay over the commissioners recent decision to boost recordation and transfer taxes, two tariffs which affect closing costs in local real estate sales.

In preparing the fiscal year 1997 budget, the commissioners raised the recordation tax from $2.50 to $3.50 for each $500 of property value and increased the transfer tax from $5 per $1,000 of value to $10 per $1,000.

However, in addition to the arguing that the increased taxes will make it more difficult to sell local properties, the realtors also complained that they were not included in the decision making process when the commissioners decided to increase the taxes.

Karen Spiker, proprietor of A & A Realty - Better Homes and Gardens, commented in an interview that when the transfer was created a few years ago, the former board of commissioners assured local realtors that if the transfer tax were to be altered, the issue would be discussed with the Garrett realty community. She asserted that the public would have the chance to give its input before such decisions are made regarding taxes.

Spiker added that local realtors learned of the tax

GCSO Probing Major Theft In Friendsville

A man in the process of retiring to Friendsville was robbed of over $12,000 in household goods and property last month, according to reports at the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. An intense investigation is underway at that agency.

James R. Frantz, a former resident of the county who has resided in Florida for some time, had moved numerous boxes of household goods to a home on Glade Road as he planned to retire to that location. According to Deputy Charles Nolan, who is investigating the theft, Frantz had just two weeks more in Florida before making his final move when unknown persons robbed the home. They apparently broke glass in the front door and reached in to unlock it.

Taken from Frantz were tables, chairs, binoculars, a television, light fixtures, ceiling fans, fireplace tools, a fireplace hood, hunting knives, towels, sheets, a dining room table and six chairs, blankets, tools, jewelry, books, toys, clothing, cash, a washer and dryer, and assorted decorations and knick-knacks. Nolan said more items may be reported missing as the family inspects their losses.

The theft occurred sometime between June 16 and June 21, and the culprits had to have had trucks to remove the many boxes and large items, Nolan said. There are several leads in the case, according to the report.

Another case of theft under investigation was noted at the sheriff's office this week. William C. Nedrow contacted the police to report a theft at a home he rents out in Friendsville. Sometime between July 8 and 10, unknown persons broke into the house and took a microwave, two telephones, a clock, and various pieces of clothing. The loss was set at several hundred dollars.

Persons with any information about either of these crimes are urged to contact the sheriff's office at 334-1911.

Sites Reappointed To Six-Year Term With GCC Board

The Garrett Community College Board of Trustees met Tuesday evening at the Will O'the Wisp for their monthly meeting. It was announced that Governor Parris Glendening has reappointed Doug Sites to another six-year term as a board member.

ACADEMIC REPORT

Dr. Lillian Mitchell, dean of academic affairs at GCC, reported to the board that 121 students are currently enrolled in the summer session. Last year's enrollment, according to the dean, was 132. She also noted that 336 students are already enrolled for the fall semester, but last year at this time, the head count was 387.

During her report, Mitchell announced that a search for two new faculty members had been completed. She recommended, for the board's approval, the assignment of Hal Wendling, a native of Illinois, as the new assistant professor of business, and Terry Kasecamp, a Frostburg State University graduate, as the new assistant professor of psychology.

Both Wendling and Kasecamp came highly recommended, according to Mitchell, and the trustees accepted the applications.

It was also noted that the assistant professor of English, David Alexander, had resigned his position. A full search for a replacement will begin in March 1997, according to the dean, and until then, Dr. Greg Jenkins has accepted the position on a temporary basis. Currently an adjunct faculty member at GCC, Jenkins is qualified for the position, and is familiar with the students, Mitchell added.

CHINA DELEGATION

A group of educators from China visited the college in May to learn more about the career programming offered in the United States. They were interested especially in how to administrate, according to Dr. Mitchell, because each member of the delegation was the head of an institution of higher education in China. They have only recently been allowed to make their own decisions at their institutions concerning curriculum, previously having decisions made for them, according to the dean.

FINANCIAL REPORT

Comptroller Michelle Quinn reported to the board that all major functions at the college are currently within the total budget.

In her operating cash forecast, she noted the institution ended the fiscal year with $284,000. Borrowing was only necessary once (during November), and funds were invested in April, when some excess cash was available.

Quinn said the projection for the upcoming months includes the possibility of borrowing funds in late October or early November, before the second state payment is received. The current construction of a parking lot at the college is accounting for expenses in July, Quinn noted.

GCN REPORT

Don Storck, director of information services at GCC, announced that the Garrett Community Network (GCN) is about to embark upon a major upgrade, which will be next week. A data communications hub that will improve the data transmission service, access to the internet, and compressed video service throughout the community and the college.

The first phase of the upgrade will involve advancing internet services at the college to what is called the "second level service provid-

Admission to the fair is $6 per person, and includes gate admission, parking, the demolition derby, entertainment, and all events at the race track and rides in the carnival.

GCC Offering New Programs

Two new one-year certificate programs, Adventuresports and Allied Health, will be available to students at Garrett Community College during the fall semester, according to a college spokesperson.

The Adventuresports certificate will require 30 credit hours and is designed to give students who desire to enter the Adventuresports workforce quickly the essential knowledge and skills pertinent to the management of businesses within the industry. The content of the certificate will focus on courses directly applicable to Adventuresports skills and the management of Adventuresports businesses.

Required courses will include: composition I or technical writing, introduction to business or small business, principles of marketing or introduction to management, introduction to computers, natural history or physical geography, events and project management or leadership and group dynamics, six credits of introductory level skills courses, three credits of intermediate level skills courses, one credit of advanced level skill course, and one credit of Adventuresports practicum. Persons desiring further information about this certificate program may call Mike Logsdon, program director, at (301) 387-3013.

The Allied Health Certificate will include 27-37 credit hours of courses required in seven different allied health programs. These seven areas of concentration will each require composition I, basic speech, general psychology, college algebra, specified sciences, and additional social sciences. The number of credits required will vary among the programs.

Areas of concentration are: dental hygiene, medical lab technology, nursing, occupational therapy, physical therapy, radiologic technology, and respiratory therapy. These programs have all been articulated with Allegany Community College. Persons desiring further information about the Allied Health certificate may call Manning Smith at (301) 387-3011. West Virginia residents who enroll in either of these certificate programs pay the same tuition as Garrett County residents.

Students may register for courses in these certificate programs at the Student Assistance Center of the college weekdays until 4 p.m. For registration information, persons may call the center at 301-387-3044.

Nine Arrested By DNR Rangers At Swallow Falls

Nine persons were charged by rangers at the Swallow Falls State Park on Saturday for alleged possession of marijuana. The arrests occurred in the campground area as rangers entered the site to enforce the 11 p.m. quiet hour, according to a release from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources State Forest and Park Service.

Arrested were Melissa Miller, 21, Penny Meredith, 22, and David Agner, 23, all of Akron, Ohio; Michael Spicer, 23, Johnny Miller, 23, Sean Beatty, 21, and a 17-year-old female, all of Morgantown, W.Va.; and Lynda Miller, 18, and Forest Harmon, 19, both of McHenry.

All defendants were charged with possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia, according to the release. The juvenile was released to the custody of her parents and the remaining eight were released on their own recognizance following a bond hearing.

Sarah Fike Is First Student Member Of BOE

Sarah Fike, daughter of Carl and Suzie Fike, Oakland, has achieved the distinction of being the first student member of the Garrett County Board of Education. She began serving her year term this month. The addition of a non-voting student member has been a goal of the Garrett County Association of Student Councils for several years, and Fike was selected for the position through a lengthy process of interviews and recommendations.

Fike, who will be a senior at Southern High School this fall, is involved in numerous school and community activities. She has been active in the school's student council as well as the county association throughout her tenure at Southern, and will serve as the high school's council president this coming year. In her quest for the education board position, she received letters of recommendation from teachers David Mayfield, James Zimmerman, and Barry Sweitzer, as well as from former SHS principal Arthur Refosco.

"In every activity she has undertaken, whether it is chairing the decorations committee for homecoming or being a student representative on the Southern High School Improvement Team, Sarah has been prompt and articulate, and has completed the job," wrote Mayfield. He went on to list the numerous activities in which Fike is involved, including her work on student council, noting that at the weekly officers' meeting Sarah has never been absent nor tardy.

"While being as active as she is, Sarah has still maintained an unweighted GPA of 3.9 and a weighted GPA of 4.0," Mayfield stated.

Zimmerman described Fike as a "fine person in addition to being a fine student" who is consistently on time and always prepared.

"Her grades reflect ambition and a desire to realize her own high standards," Zimmerman wrote. "She displays tolerance and respect for the sensitivities of others. She does not, how-

Sixth Rabies Case Confirmed By Health Dept.

The Environmental Health Services of the Garrett County Health Department this week announced the sixth confirmed case of rabies in the county for this year. A raccoon submitted to the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene laboratories was confirmed positive for the disease on Friday.

The incident involving the animal occurred last Thursday when the raccoon approached a residence on the Bethlehem Road. The property owner's dog fought with and killed the raccoon. The pet had a current vaccination against rabies and therefore will be given a booster and will be monitored for about three months.

Dog and cat owners are urged to check their pets' vaccination records to make sure they are up to date. Maryland law mandates that cats and dogs over four months of age be vaccinated against the disease.

Unbridled Enthusiasm Of Young Writers Among Highlights Of Special Workshop

by Kristina Carr

Barbara Hurd has taught in a lot of environments, from elementary school classrooms to graduate students in the academic environment. Hurd has taught in maximum security prison settings as well. The work she'll be doing this week is what most teachers only are able to dream of.

"The kids make it happen here," said Hurd, who led the first Mountain Lakes Yough Writers Workshop last year. Held at Fantasy Valley, it is the unbridled enthusiasm of these young writers that have captured their teachers' attentions. "The kids, their openness, willingness to experiment, make this a super-productive week, and there's nothing better than hearing a young person state after receiving constructive criticism and tips, "that's great, I'll try it!" said Hurd.

Twenty-four students attended the first Mountain Lakes Young Writers Workshop last summer that included five days of intensive creative writing that started at 9:30 a.m. and went until 4 p.m. each afternoon. The conference inspired work by the students that won national recognition, and opportunities for eight of last year's participants to read to an audience of over 300 persons at the Library of Congress. One workshop participant won a national poetry contest that featured well over 5,000 entries; a very impressive start for a summer workshop that will again take place July 22-26 for 28 students this year ranging in age from 12-17 years.

The week-long event will conclude with a family picnic and formal readings given by the students on Friday, the 26th. "The readings were quite impressive last year," stated Sandy Flanigan, chair of Garrett Lakes Art Festival this year. "Barbara Hurd and Richard Peabody did an outstanding job with these young people. This has been a life changing experience for the students involved," said Flanigan. "We owe it all to the Eugene M. Lang Foundation, the family foundation which sponsored the writing workshop for young people in Garrett County. This summer, an adult writers workshop took place as well. It is just amazing the amount of talent that is in the area," said Flanigan.

Jane Lang, Esq., hopes to see healthy growth and development continue in Garrett County. An attorney, she had been vacationing in the area with her husband when they ended up stranded because of a blizzard. As skiers, this wasn't a problem. They'd been looking for a vacation home, but hadn't decided where until they discovered how much there was to do in this area, by accident. Lang and GLAF's Flanigan, a realty agent, met when Lang and her husband decided to look at property, found a place that they loved, and knew was to be their second home. They decided to look no further, and the rest is history. "This is a place for all seasons," said Lang. "We love the area, there are so many special and talented people here."

It was shortly after the purchase of their new home that Lang approached Flanigan regarding the possibility of a workshop for young people and creative writing, something that is a special interest to Lang. "Sandy and I had talked about the possibility of a workshop for young people in Garren County, I inquired whether or not it might be possible for GLAF to work with the Lang Foundation to make this project happen," she said.

Flanigan was really excited about that phone call. "I had chills run up and down my spine when Jane called me and shared what it was that she wanted to do." Flanigan made the phone calls as promised, and within two hours, called Lang back with the good news, GLAF welcomed the proposal with open arms, and the program's design was under way. "This is a pet project," said Flanigan, who hopes to see the program continue on for years to come.

A unique opportunity for young people, the program is very affordable; $35 for county resident and $50 for out-of-county participants. "More or less, it is a commitment fee," stated Flanigan. Last year, the best samples of the students work were published and bound together in a collection entitled, "What Comes After Crumpled Papers" after the summer session was completed. This was something Barbara Hurd of Frostburg's English Faculty felt was important, for the students to experience the exhilaration of seeing their work published after so much hard work. It was another opportunity for the students to experience success, with hopes that the bound book would serve as a reminder and inspiration to continue to develop their skills.

"The students will be participating in a series of writing exercises not particular to poetry or fiction writing, a combination to get the juices going, 'to prime the pump,' said Hurd. "Then we'll take what the kids have done with those exercises, and show them what makes a good poem, a good short story, or children's work; and then they'll get started. The students will be doing some reading as well, which will include short fiction and poetry, both contemporary and classic, but with the emphasis on the contemporary. Last summer, the kids

"A CHOSEN FEW" Is the name of a new gospel/country music tape produced by Rosedale resident Shelly Stoner Upole, pictured above with her son, Justinn. The music and lyrics, all written by Mrs. Upolo, focus on a wide range of people and topics: from her grandparents to her son and other persons with disabilities to the abortion issue to her general "love of life." Mrs. Upole says the effort was inspired by her mother, Esther Stoner, and her brothers. She is the pianist and lead vocalist on the tape, with vocal accompaniment by her mother and two of her daughters, Christy Eyler and Melissa Upole. Providing instrumental accompaniment are Rick Jordan and her brother, Charlie Stoner, on guitar, and her father, Freddie Stoner, on spoons. She is married to Don Upole and has another daughter, Autumn. Mrs. Upole returned last week from Nashville, where she performed at the Grand Ole Opry in Rhyman Auditorium. Copies of "A Chosen Few" are available locally at Hometown Market, Liberty Diner, Big Tee Restaurant, Englander's Pharmacy, and the Christian Book Store in Oakland, or by contacting Mrs. Upole at 334-4331. Mrs. Upole performs locally at the monthly gospel sings held at the Pleasant Valley Community Center.

Maryland Program Will Pay For Crop Damage By Bears

Editor's Note: The following story by Mark Powell, managing editor of The Delmarva Farmer, is being reprinted here courtesy of that publication.

by Mark Powell

Put together a couple of 350-pound black bears and a nice stand of corn in August and what do you get?

A mess.

"They get in the field and play--romping and rolling," said Garrett County Extension Ag Agent Jim Simms. "I've seen the center of fields wiped out."

After the bears are through with all that good fun, it's the farmer left without dollars he might have earned from the crop.

If was with that situation in mind that the Maryland legislature made a new law this winter that sets up a Black Bear Conservation Fund. The fund will reimburse farmers for damage caused by black bears. Most of the damage comes to crops, although in the past some livestock kills have been experienced and honeybee hives have been raided.

The Department of Natural Resources sunk $10,000 into the program that went into effect July 1.

Josh Sandt, DNR's wildlife program director, said in addition to the $10,000, the program will be funded through $5 bear appreciation stamps. He said it's expected that animal welfare proponents will buy the stamps. The stamps--and similarly designed decals--will be available by late August or early September according to DNR officials in charge of designing the stamps.

Farmers--mostly in Garrett, but also in Allegany and perhaps in Washington and Frederick counties--should contact their local DNR office with any reports of bear damage, DNR will screen the requests and then pass them on to the county Extension agent. The ag agent, in turn, will estimate the damage for the state.

Simms said farmers have been experiencing varying levels of bear damage in Garrett County, depending on the location of the farms. Those most affected, as with deer damages, are near woodlands.

"In some areas, the damage has been extensive," Simms said.

The ag agent said most farmers are willing to accept as much as 10 to 15 percent loss of their crops to wildlife. But over 15 percent, the farmer is really going to start complaining.

Apparently that threshold of crop loss has been passed in some places because of the bear. Simms estimated deer damage is more severe, but bear damage can be extensive on specific farms.

Asked if $10,000 is enough money to cover bear damage overall to agriculture, Simms said it is "a good start."

The new state program, the result of a bill from State Senator John Hafer, a Frostburg mortician who farms in Garrett County, came after wildlife biologists decided that Maryland's bear population is not large enough yet to support hunting.

Sandt said the Maryland black bear population actually is part of a regional population described as healthy and expanding, that ranges into West Virginia and Pennsylvania. Rough, conservative estimates peg the number at about 200 in Maryland.

While bear damage has been addressed by the state, deer damage is also on the agenda at DNR. A series of meetings around Maryland were being scheduled at presstime to provide public forums for comments and suggestions on controlling the state's deer herd.

The meetings, which will be held this summer, are targeted at farmers, landowners and hunters.

Various options, such as increased bag limits, are expected to be discussed as ways to cut back the deer herd.

"There's no doubt that we need to harvest more deer," sandt said.

Estimates are that Maryland has a deer herd of between 220,000 and 235,000.

The Maryland deer hunting season this year begins Sept. 14 for bow. It will last through Jan. 31, with a bag limit of three deer. (One is a "bonus" deer, taken with a special stamp.) One of the three must be anterless.

Muzzle loader season is Oct. 17 through 19 and again Dec. 21 through Jan. 4, with a bag limit of two whitetail deer. The firearms season begins with a one-day hunt for youth under the age of 16 on Nov. 16. The two-week season is Nov. 30 through Dec. 14, with a three whitetail deer bag limit.

An Olympic Perspective...

Much of the world will be watching television this Friday evening when the 1996 Olympics open in Atlanta, no doubt with extravagance and fanfare almost beyond imagination. Millions will then tune in for the next 10 days or so to watch their respective country's athletes "go for the gold" in dozens of different sporting events. There is no question that seeing one of our own stand upon the highest step of the medal platform while listening to the Star Spangled Banner evokes a variety of wonderful emotions.

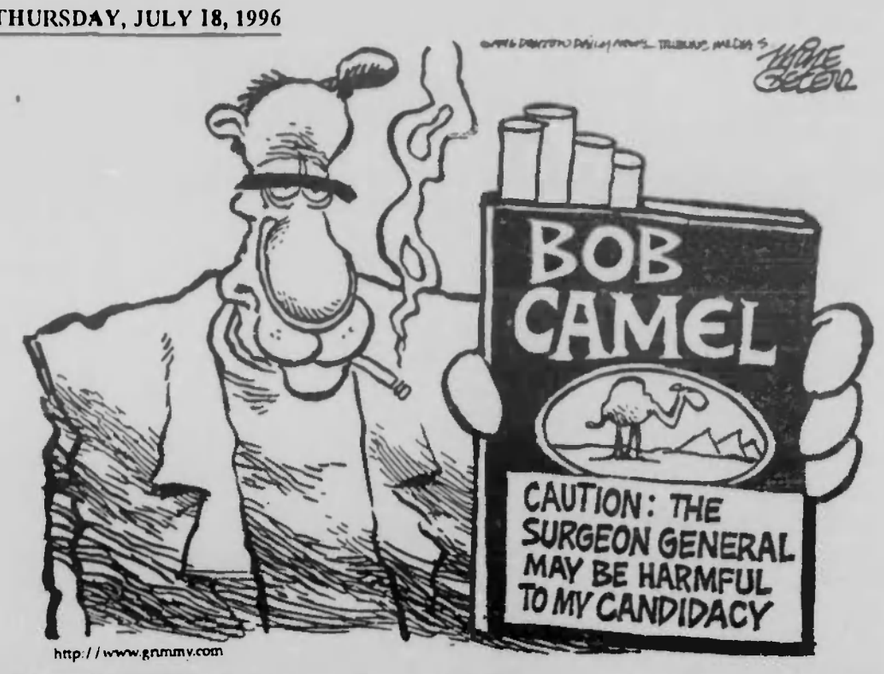
The glamour of it all can be somewhat tarnished, however, when one considers the following: what it takes to become a world-class athlete, and the fact that the great majority of olympians do not win a medal.

On the first point, one must basically sacrifice everything else in life in order to become one of the elite in any given sport. The sport and one's training must become the top priority, meaning things like careers, other interests, and relationships with other people, be they family or otherwise, must take a back seat. Sadly, many relationships, and the very lives of the athletes over the years, have been all but destroyed because of the goal of making the Olympics. While it's great to watch a 14-year-old gymnast perform an incredible routine and win a medal, one can only hope that she survives the pressure of it all and ultimately understands and appreciates the really important things in life.

Then on the second point, we become highly irritated when after the athlete who was the odds-on favorite to win the gold actually wins "only" the silver, the outcome is described as that signals the end of the world. The young person is just devastated by such "failure." The commentators usually go on and on about what a "tragedy" it is, as if placing second or third is equivalent to losing. Meanwhile, we tend to forget about the guy who placed 43rd, is never seen in the television coverage, but who frankly should be thrilled to death (and usually is) just for reaching world-class status and earning the opportunity to compete in the Olympics.

So as we watch and enjoy, let's send up a prayer for the medal winners, and one for the medal "losers," to try to help them, and us, keep everything in perspective.

Finally, we hope local folks will sacrifice one evening or afternoon of the Olympics to attend the Garrett Choral Society's production of Music Man, which opened last weekend and will play again tonight, Friday, and Saturday evenings at Southern High School. The cast is comprised of dozens of friends and neighbors from many parts of Garrett County, and we hope all of their training and hard work is rewarded by being able to perform in front of full houses.



Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

We gratefully thank those people and businesses from the Keyser Ridge, Grantsville, Friendsville, Accident, McHenry, Oakland, Morgantown, and Cumberland communities for helping the American Indian Inter-Tribal Cultural Organization produce a pow wow at the Garrett County Fairgrounds every year for the last 13 years. We have regarded you all as our family for many years and are heartbroken to announce that we are moving our event to the Frederick County Fairgrounds to avoid ongoing disputes and feelings of mistrust on the part of the Garrett County Fair board.

We will miss you and the scenic beauty of Garrett County greatly, but look forward to seeing you all in Frederick at our 15th Annual Pow Wow on June 28th and 29th, 1997. If there are any questions, please feel free to call us at 1-301-869-9381.

& Russell Leigh,
1996 Pow Wow Co-Chairs

To the Editor:

I was looking at some photos of Deep Creek lake that were from the late fifties. It was a beautiful place before it was overdeveloped. There was a billboard once that proclaimed the lake "Western Maryland's best kept secret." That was a sick joke on the part of the real estate developers. The development goes on. Route 219 will become a "strip' from McHenry to Oakland, with mini-malls, fast food, and probably T-shirt shops. In the not-to-distant future, it will be just like the urban areas people try to get away from.

This kind of economic growth produces nothing but more traffic and trash. It consumes like cancer. Now people are scheming to make Route 219 a four lane highway. They say this is essential to the economic growth of the area. I see it as no less than rape of this once beautiful rural area. I suppose no one can stand in the way of progress of men. There are two options: stay and watch it happen, or sell out, move away to another small rural town, and hope it never gets discovered.

Disrespectfully,
Jaime Alvarez

To the Editor:

Following the June 27, 1996, ruling of the U.S. Supreme Court, that the State of Virginia cannot keep women out of the state-supported Virginia Military Institute, the 17-member Board of Visitors met for three days led by Board Chairman William M. Berry. On July 14th, a statement was issued, which said in part, "The challenge that VMI and the Commonwealth of Virginia face is twofold. We must come into compliance with the decision of the court; but we must do so without abandoning the standards that have made VMI great. The importance of these twin goals is self-evident. The best route to achieve them is not."

The possibility of making the school private has been under study by an eight-member committee of VMI graduates since February. Retired Roanoke businessman Howard Lawrence, reported the committee has not yet made a recommendation. While VMI has probably the largest private endowment per student of any college in the nation, that $180 million is short of the estimated $200 to $400 million required to buy the buildings and grounds and supplementing costs beyond tuition. The Commonwealth provides VMI with about one-third of its $32 million annual operating costs.

The Supreme Court decision, a 6 to 1 vote written by Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg (Justice Clarence Thomas's son attends VMI and he did not participate), stated that, "Women seeking and fit for a VMI-quality education cannot be offered anything less under the state's obligation to afford them genuinely equal protection" under the Constitution. "Inherent differences between men and women, we have come to appreciate, remain cause for celebration, but not for denigration of the members of either sex or for artificial constraints on an individuals opportunity." Virginia's arguments that single-sex education contributes to "diversity" in education, and that VMI's unique method of character development and leadership training would have to be modified, were rejected. The lower court holding, that the discrimination against women violated the 14th Amendment's Equal Protection Cause was affirmed, but that the Mary Baldwin Virginia Women's institute For Leadership program sponsored by the state cured the constitutional violation was reversed on the grounds that it did not provide equal opportunity. United States v. Virginia.

Justice Antonin Scalia dissented, "change is forced upon Virginia, and reversion to single-sex education is prohibited nation-wide, not by democratic processes but by order of this court." On June 28, 1996, the Board of the Citadel in Charleston, S.C., another all-male military academy, voted to admit women beginning this fall, and as of July 3rd, it had accepted five women in the 1300 member freshmen class enrolling next month.

CYCLIST INJURED

A young Friendsvilie man was injured Sunday evening when he lost control of the motorcycle he was operating on private property near Friendsville.

Jason C. Sisler, 21, was apparently attempting to jump a dirt ramp with the 1996 Suzuki motorcycle he was operating, when he lost control, causing it to overturn.

He was taken by his father to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released.

DWI ARRESTS

Two DWI (driving while intoxicated) arrests were logged at the local state police barrack during the past week.

Rickey David McKenzie, 41, Grantsville, was charged with DWI and speeding (for traveling 63 miles per hour in a 40 mph zone), on July 13. The arresting officer was Tfc. John LeMay.

George Steven Thompason, 34, North Versailles, Pa., was arrested and charged with DWI on July 14, by Tfc. D.W. Broadwater.

THEFT REPORTED

The state police are currently investigating a reported theft of several items left in a vehicle parked at a residence in McHenry.

Joseph Kamineck told police that sometime on July 10 or 11, someone stole a brief case, tape player, several wallets, and a radar detector from his 1992 Dodge that was parked in his driveway on Deep Creek Drive.

A Trip To Portugal, Well, Almost

I had a hankering to see Portugal. I don't know why exactly. These things come on me all of sudden, sometimes, like the desire to see a field of sunflowers or off daffodils. Actually going to Portugal wasn't on the books, so I thought I'd make the trip through books. I got into my car to make this trip, and went as far as the library.

When I want to know something I usually choose between three resources for my first perusal; the Oxford English Dictionary, the Encyclopaedia Britannica, and the World Almanac. If the first two are not specifically available any dictionary or encyclopaedia will do. This time I chose the World Almanac, and found out Portugal had a revolution in 1974, and almost went communist. I guess that shows how behind the time they are that they were going to join a movement when it was almost finished.

They have about 10,000,000 people, a democracy (once they got over the communist stuff) and make a lot of wine, especially port wine and madeira -- favorites of our country's founding fathers -- and most of the cork that goes into the wine bottles of all the other countries in the world. I looked in the encyclopaedia, too, but it only gave me a longer version of what I had read in the World Almanac.

Then I looked up Portugal in the card catalogue, and found two books there which were also on the shelves, and two great books they were, too. The first one was called The Last Old Place, A Search Through Portugal, by a retired diplomat named -- now get ready for this -- Datus C. Proper. He has a name like that and is an American too. The book is terrific, and gives not only the history of Portugal in an enjoyable way, but tells about the really important things in the country like trout fishing and quail hunting.

Proper tells us that Portugal has good bread and bad roads, and that he wishes his country would improve its bread without affecting the inter-state highway. That sounded better than anything Bob Dole or Bill Clinton had said lately. He also tells how he finagled things when he was stationed in Portugal so that President Carter, during his state visit, laid a wreath on the tomb of Proper's favorite Portuguese poet rather than on the monument to Magellan and all those other Portuguese sailors who discovered the world back on the 1400s, all the parts that Columbus did not discover. He also advises against eating what the portuguese call "beef." He says to boil your shoe first, if it is a leather shoe, that is.

One of the most amazing things I learned about Portugal is that the country had a dictator from 1928 to 1968 -- I knew that much, his name was Salazar - who was completely honest. He sat right there by the national treasury for two generations without taking one more escudo (that's what the portuguese have instead of dollars) than he was entitled to. When he died he was so poor that the national assembly had to vote a special law to pay the funeral expenses. Every president we have had since and excepting Harry Truman has gotten rich being president in no more than eight years and with the whole country watching him. Imagine a dictator that makes an American president look crooked. Even allowing for the lowered quality of presidents lately, that is still saying something.

The other book I got was right up my alley. The author had a regular name, Carol Robertson, and the book was entitled Portuguese Cooking, The Authentic and Robust Cuisine of Portugal. Now that sounded all right to me. Everybody knows I like cuisine. Imagine my delight when I found a recipe for liver and an excuse to use those smoked venison and pork sausages that nobody but me will eat. It was the best plate of liver I ever did have. My wife knew it too, by the way. I talked about it for a week. She used to eat liver, but no more.

Carol and her husband, David, went to Portugal together. He took pictures, and she took notes. they got home, and wrote up a dozen meals they had, and described all the views they saw while they ate, before and after, too. They put together some recipes, and made this book. They shoved David's pictures in toward the back. They are pretty good, but Carol's words are worth a thousand pictures.

A House subcommittee last week approved legislation to grant Congressional consent to a compact entered into between the states of Maryland and West Virginia for joint management and law enforcement at Jennings Randolph Lake. The compact would authorize shared enforcement of natural resource and boating laws and regulations.

The bill was passed by the Senate last September and Sarbanes' office expects the measure to be passed in the House by July 29.

Senator Sarbanes testified before the House subcommittee late last month in support of the legislation. Also testifying in support of the compact were Maryland District VI Congressman Roscoe Bartlett and West Virginia Congressman Alan Mollohan. Mikulski is also a backer of the compact bill.

SOCIAL SECURITY ASKING WORKERS TO UPDATE EARNINGS ESTIMATES

by Thomas W. Armbruster
Social Security Manager, Cumberland

If you're one of the nearly one millon people who work, collect Social Security benefits, and earn over the annual exempt amount, you'll probably get a notice from Social Security sometime in August.

Because your earnings may affect your Social Security benefits, we need to know how much you expect to earn during the year. We'll ask you to update your estimated earnings in case there's been a change."

We do this to help avoid paying you too much or too little in benefits during the year. We'll also ask you to give us an estimate of your earnings for the following year."

"At the end of the year, when we know exactly how much you earned, we can determine the correct amount of benefits you were due and make any necessary adjustments. If you were paid too little, we'll issue a payment. If you were paid too much, we'll notify you and ask you to return the overpayment."

In past years, beneficiaries were required to file an annual report of earnings to tell us exactly how much they had earned during the previous year. Beginning with 1997, most workers will not have to file an annual report with Social Security. Instead, Social Security will use the earnings that are reported on the W-2 (or self-employment tax return) to adjust benefits under the earnings test. The annual report was eliminated to help reduce your reporting burden.

Nature Conservancy Purchases 600 Acres Of Cranesville Swamp

The Nature Conservancy Maryland/District of Columbia Chapter announced last week that, after two and a half years of negotiations, it has purchased 600 acres of land from the Lewis Family to double the size of its Cranesville Swamp Preserve. The preserve straddles the Maryland and West Virginia border and lies within Garrett and Preston counties, respectively. The Lewis Family Farm encompasses the southern end of Cranesville Swamp and is thought by Maryland biologists to be the most ecologically significant property in Garrett County not yet in conservation ownership.

The Nature Conservancy says it is focusing its protection efforts on Cranesville Swamp because it is one of the most diverse spruce wetlands in Maryland. Cranesville Swamp is a mountain peatland bog that formed nearly 15,000 years ago during the last ice Age. A feature of the preserve is the "frost-pocket" effect that creates a suitable home for various northern species of flora and fauna that are not commonly found in Maryland. Some of the rare species at Cranesville Swamp include Jacob's ladder, tamarack trees, goldthread, and round-leaved sundew, a plant that consumes insects. Three rare butterflies are found on the preserve -- the bog copper, pink-edged sulphur, and the Atlantis fritillary. Also found there are southern water shrews, considered state endangered, the striped whitelip snail, found in only four places east of the Ohio River, and black bears. In addition, uncommon bird species such as alder flycatchers, Nashville warblers, and saw-whet owl nest on the preserve.

The Nature Conservancy began protection work at Cranesville in 1960 with the purchase of 259 acres. In 1965, Cranesville Swamp was designated a National Natural Landmark by the National Park Service. Thirty-six years after its first acquisition there, the Conservancy now owns 1,228 acres at this unique natural area.

John Bender, associate director of protection, who negotiated the purchase for the Conservancy, said, "this addition at Cranesville is a tremendous boost to our protection efforts at this important natural area. Doubling the size of the preserve ensures that now and for generations to come people will see the land in the same way that our ancestors saw it."

When asked about the sale of his family lands, Lynn Lewis remarked, "For the greater good, this land owned by the Lewis family for more than a century is conveyed happily to The Nature Conservancy."

Cranesville Swamp Preserve is owned and managed jointly by the West Virginia Chapter and the Maryland/District of Columbia Chapter of The Nature Conservancy. It is open to the public for bird-watching and nature walks year-round. For more information on visiting Cranesville Swamp Preserve, persons may contact the Maryland/District of Columbia Chapter of The Nature Conservancy at 301-656-8673.

Bloodmobile To Visit Oakland Armory Friday

To help meet the summertime demand for blood and blood products, local Red Cross workers hope to collect a total of 250 units of blood during the community bloodmobile slated for Friday, July 19, from noon to 6 p.m. at the Oakland Armory.

The event will feature live remote radio broadcasts by WKIJ-FM. Babysitting services will also be available at the bloodmobile.

"During the summer, we generally have fewer available locations where people can donate blood," remarked Elizabeth Huxford, blood services chairperson for the Garrett County Chapter. "Vacations and warm weather affect several sponsors that we typically schedule at other times of the year for bloodmobiles, such as schools and businesses. This can result in fewer donations because these sponsors are not able to provide the donations that we must collect to maintain an adequate blood supply . . ."

"All blood types are needed, but with an increased potential for outdoor accidents and emergencies during the summer, hospitals continue to experience an even greater demand for type O positive and type O negative blood, the universal blood type," Huxford added.

According to Red Cross data, at least one out of every 10 hospital patients in the U.S. needs a blood transfusion.

To be eligible to give blood, persons must be at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 110 pounds, and be in generally good health. Normally, individuals may give blood every 56 days.

Sandy Buckalew, executive-director of the Garrett County chapter, added that their is no maximum age for blood donors.

To further ease the blood donation process and help maintain accurate donation records, the Red Cross encourages each potential donor to bring his or her Red Cross donor card, driver's license, or other form of positive identification to the bloodmobile site. Persons with specific questions may call the Red Cross toll-free at (800) 54BLOOD.

"An adequate blood supply must be readily available. Once an emergency occurs it's too late to recruit donors due to the intensive screening and testing that is required on every unit of blood," Huxford said.

Garrett County is part of the Red Cross's Johnstown Region, which directly serves hospitals, patients, and donors in a 63-county area of Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and Ohio. The region also supports blood needs experienced by patients elsewhere in hospitals served through Red Cross Blood Services.

Radio coverage for the bloodmobile is being sponsored by Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Man Accused Of DWI, Damaging Hay, Corn Fields

A Friendsville man was arrested by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week after he allegedly drove a Bronco through hay and corn fields and then wrecked the vehicle on Accident-Friendsville Road. Ormonde T. Steinle-O'Carroll, 22, was charged with several traffic offenses, including DWI (driving while intoxicated), after the Monday night events.

According to the report, Earl L. Kahl heard a vehicle in his cornfield, and upon inspection of the area found that approximately four tons of corn had been destroyed as the driver had apparently spun his vehicle around in the field. The corn is valued at about $150 per ton. Gary E. Broadwater also reported that the same vehicle had entered his hay field, destroying approximately $150 worth.

Steinle-O'Carroll was driving the Bronco, according to the report, and in addition to damaging the crops, he also destroyed two mailboxes and drove over a stop sign. The mailboxes were owned by Sherry A. Georg and Ervin H. Sivits. In total, the defendant is accused of causing over $1,100 in damages.

In addition to DWI, Steinle-O'Carroll was charged with failure to remain at the scene of an accident and reckless driving. He was also charged with four counts of destruction of property.

According to the report, which was filed by Dep. J. Green, the defendant had left the scene after finally wrecking the Bronco at about 9:30 p.m., and his girlfriend, Jessica J. Hunter, 20, Accident, drove him back to the area later. She was also accused of operating a vehicle while intoxicated. Maryland State Police had responded to the scene, and a trooper subsequently charged Hunter with DWI.

In other sheriff's office news, a Crellin teenager was arrested Saturday after allegedly hindering an investigation by deputies. Sidney T. Burgess, 18, was charged with disorderly behavior, failure to obey an order of a police officer, and obstruction of an investigation.

According to the report, deputies had come to the home of Linda H. Burgess, 36, in response to her call to the sheriff's office about a domestic dispute. She had been engaged in a fight with David Welch, 34, and told officers that Welch may have a gun. When the deputies arrived, the dispute had ended and there was no gun, but as they were discovering these facts, Sidney Burgess apparently continued to yell at them and tell them to leave the property.

Officers told the teenager repeatedly to quiet down and stop interrupting, but according to the report, he continued to yell obscenities and order the policemen off the property. After numerous warnings and orders to leave the area, Burgess was arrested and transported to the Garrett County Jail, according to the report.

A Swanton woman was arrested on the strength of a warrant last week. Katherine L. Burns, 26, was charged with one count of battery. She is accused of battering Tina Miller on July 7 at a bar in Mtn. Lake Park. A bench warrant was also issued for the arrest of Burns for violation of probation.

Two individuals were charged with drug possession this week. Christopher A. London, 21, Glenshaw, Pa., and Jonathan W. Jackson, 20, Pittsburgh, Pa., were both arrested for possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia. The two were traveling along Interstate 68 and the vehicle was stopped for speeding, according to the report. An inspection of the car revealed the suspected marijuana.

Both men were released after posting $500 bond, according to the police report.

Sandra L. Moreland, 34, Warren, Ohio, was arrested on the strength of three bench warrants. She apparently failed to appear in court to face bad check charges.

Samuel F. Polce, 27, McHenry, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant for failure to appear in Garrett County Circuit Court for a hearing on July 11.

Dennis R. Swartzentruber, 44, Oakland, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant for violation of probation, according to the sheriff's office reports.

er," meaning GCC will have the same access to the internet and the same level of service as provided by major companies like AT&T and others, according to Storck. The second phase will include a more extensive compressed video service capability throughout the community which will allow upwards of 20 sessions to occur simultaneously from anywhere in the world.

"Assuming all goes well," Storck said, "we will be opening the throttle fully on August 2."

"Garrett County has the honor of being the first community in the nation to have an installation of this kind," said Dr. Steve Herman, president of GCC. "We are an experimental site for companies like General Electric and Hewlett Packard to test their systems. We are already getting inquiries from sources in different states (and countries), and I think we will see that accelerate with many visitors coming to see what Garrett County has accomplished."

In connection with GRIC (Garrett Rural Information Cooperative), Aug. 2 has been set for a visit from the governor's chief of staff, Major F. Riddick Jr., to view the system.

On Aug. 23 or 26, according to Herman, an executive premiere showcase of the new system is planned. Federal, state, and local officials will be invited to attend. And, on Sept. 2, the grand opening for the entire community to see what GCC has to offer is also planned.

OTHER BUSINESS

Dr. Nancy Priselac, director of mathematics, reported on the third Western Maryland Summer Math Center for Highly-Able Students, conducted last week at the college. Forty-eight gifted and talented students in the seventh through ninth grades from throughout the state attended the week-long camp, learning connections between mathematics, science, and technology.

Titled "Statistics and Space Science," the week included a visit from an astronaut, hands-on learning with state-of-the art graphing calculators, activities that taught mathematical concepts, the exploration of the solar system, ellipses, and more. Visits to the interactive video studio at Southern High School, use of the college's internet, and visits to local businesses, as well as the Carnegie Science Center in Pittsburgh, were also included in the week's activities.

McCLIVE'S LAKEFRONT DINING

Food For Thought

Thai cabbage slaw pairs shredded cabbage with matchstick-size strips of peeled cucumber. Cilantro and mint leaves add flavor, and it's all tossed together with soy sauce and rice vinegar.

Super shrimp salad for an elegant luncheon calls for big peeled-and-deveined cooked shrimp, sliced avocado and mango, chopped green onions and a dressing of rice vinegar, sesame and salad oils, brown sugar and chopped lemongrass.

The key to flavor on the grill: dry-rub spices on chicken breast before grilling, then add a sauce to "mop on" at the table.

Ready-made wonton skins are the easy way to cannoloni. We love 'em filled with sauteed vegetables and ricotta cheese, with just enough beaten egg to hold the filling together.

The season's best berries taste even better under a fluffy topping of ½ cup whipping cream, beaten with ¼ cup powdered sugar and then folded gently into ½ cup lemon yogurt.

Nothing tastes better than our famous slow-roasted prime rib. Treat yourself to dinner out soon.

First United Announces Second Quarter Earnings

"We are very excited about the future of First United Corporation," commented William B. Grant, chairman of the Board and chief executive officer of First United Corporation, as he released second quarter earnings this past week. "Our vision is clear and our earnings are supporting our focus," he added.

The corporation, a one-bank holding company headquartered in Oakland, announced that year-to-date as of June 30, 1996, income was up 32.44 percent over the same period in 1995. Net income for the first two quarters of 1996 was $3.22 million or $.49 per share, as compared to $2.43 million or $.37 per share for the same period in 1995.

Grant explained that 1995 was a year of positioning for First United Corporation. The company invested $1.08 million in re-structuring efforts. This included some consolidation efforts and employee early retirement packages, all aimed at maintaining a high level of quality customer service, while increasing the future efficiency of the organization. Grant attributed much of the increased year-todate income in 1996 to the "forward-thinking management decisions" made in 1995.

Further commenting on earnings performance, Grant noted, "We continue to grow as a full-service financial provider. In addition to our traditional lines of business, we search for opportunities to grow non-traditional areas. Much of this increase in income can be attributed to enhanced Trust department income, our growing Business Manager receivables product and additional fees earned through our appraisal division. At the same time we take advantage of adding greater efficiency to our complete operation."

First United corporation has maintained an average risk-based capital ratio for 1996 of 16.57 percent, exceeding industry standards. Grant stated that the company is "benefiting greatly" in 1996 because of its strong capital position. He added, "Our position facilitates the opportunity of expanding both the depth of our product line as well as the geography of our market area. At the same time, because of our strong capital position, we were not assessed an FDIC premium in 1996. The result had a very positive effect on our year-to-date income."

Outlining the Bank's philosophy, Grant explained, "At First United, we take a customer focused strategy. As a matter of fact, we even refer to ourselves as 'My Bank,' since this is how our customers refer to us. Our customers continually tell us their time is very valuable. They, request banking services at their convenience. For this reason we have recently made great investments in technology to better meet our customers' needs."

Starting July 1, 1996, the Bank extended the hours of operation for its Customer Service Center. Now customers may call toll-free at (888) MYBANK4, from 8 AM to 7 PM, Monday-Friday. On Saturdays the staff is available from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The call center provides a staff of trained customer service officers, available to meet the financial needs of customers, ranging from answering questions about a bank statement to taking loan applications over the telephone. This supplements the totally automated, almost around the clock telephone banking already offered through the bank.

Grant said new product introductions are also planned, aimed at increasing customers' convenience. Soon customers will be able to pay bills either through their telephone or their personal computer. The service, called My Bank Home Banking, will be made available to customers in early September.

Grant mentioned that customers also have been requesting to have the same national and international access they enjoy through a credit card, without having to use credit. The answer, according to Mr. Grant, is First United's planned introduction of My Card. The card directly accesses the customer's checking account, rather than extending credit. It's a card which could replace the need for writing checks and allows access to any merchant which accepts VISA or Mastercard. This service will be part of the bank's product line sometime in October.

First United Corporation offers full-service banking through its primary banking subsidiary, First United National Bank & Trust. The bank operates a traditional network of offices throughout Garrett, Allegany, Washington, and Frederick counties in Maryland, as well as Mineral, Hardy and Hampshire counties in West Virginia. As of June 30, 1996, the Corporation posted assets of $492.40 million. As of the same time, First United Corporation had 6,506,281 shares outstanding.

Senior Center Plus Program For Frail Elderly Eliminated

Senior Center Plus, a social day care program for frail elderly, was eliminated effective June 30, according to a spokesperson for Community Action's Area Agency on Aging (AAA), provider of the program in Garrett County. The program had operated on Tuesdays and Thursdays at the Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland.

During its 21 months of operation, the program provided support to a total of 23 seniors and their families. Senior Center Plus was a state funded program administered by the Maryland Office on Aging (OoA). The OoA was forced to reduce its fiscal year 1996 budget by 5 percent, and the program was eliminated effective March 29. The AAA was able to sustain the program through June, the spokesperson said.

With a number of frail elderly lacking the opportunity to maintain the health status that they had attained through participation in Senior Center Plus, AAA requested a unique use of Title IIIF (Disease Prevention and Health Promotion) funds to employe staff to mainstream frail elderly into the regular senior center program at the Mary Browning Senior Center on Wednesdays and Fridays.

A registered nurse is on staff at the center through Sept. 30 from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. to provide an array of preventive health services and attend to frail elderly individuals. These elderly may also participate in the regular senior center activities, including social recreation, physical fitness, education, etc., and participate in a Senior Nutrition Program noon meal for a contribution.

"AAA is hopeful that funding from some source will be available to continue this type of staffing in FY'97," the spokesperson added. "This would allow frail elderly to continue to enjoy senior center activities and offer some respite to caregivers."

Persons with questions concerning this new "frail elderly" program may contact AAA at 334-9431, ext. 142.

Motor Vehicle Accident Reports Available At MSP

To better serve the public and improve the overall efficiency of the Maryland Automated Accident Reporting System, the Maryland State Police will make copies of motor vehicle accident reports available to the public directly through the investigating barracks.

Prior to this new service, persons requesting a copy of a motor vehicle accident report were required to complete a form and either mail it or personally deliver the form to the Central Records Division located in Baltimore.

"Allowing the public to obtain a copy of the accident report directly from the barrack saves Marylanders valuable time," said State Police Superintendent Colonel David B. Mitchell. "Since the Maryland State Police are accessible across the state, this will provide a more efficient service to the public."

Anyone requesting a copy of an accident report may contact the investigating barrack or Central Records Division in person. A non-refundable document search fee of $2, payable by check or money order, will be charged for each motor vehicle accident report requested. Cash will not be accepted. A maximum of two accident reports per person, per day will be allowed. Persons requesting more than two copies of accident reports will be referred to Central Records Division. Individuals should check with the investigating barrack regarding the specific hours the reports are available, and all persons should know the date, time, and location of the accident when requesting a copy. Any requests for copies of accident reports received at the barracks via U.S. mail will be forwarded to Central Records Division and processed accordingly.

ever, compromise her morals or values because of the social or economic status or pressures of others."

Shaffer said Fike is a "very energetic, involved student" who is a responsible leader as well as cooperative group member.

"Above all," Shaffer wrote, "Sarah is a concerned student who strives to do her best. Creativity, as well as attention to detail, becomes evident in her projects and longer papers. In all her work, she conscientiously works to improve her already strong skills, accepting constructive criticism and taking advice offered."

LADIES OF THE ELKS MAKE DONATIONS - The Ladies of the Elks Auxiliary recently made donations to the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad and the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department. Each organization was given $500. Pictured above, left to right, are Yvonne Livengood and Jay Kestner of the rescue squad as they accept the check from Phyllis Pacheco, Norma Shahan, Alta Glotfelty, and Wanda Hinebaugh. Dave Turney of the fire department is shown below receiving a check from the donators. The auxiliary is a non-profit organization that works to provide help to several charities in the Oakland area.

Fike and other candidates for the board position completed video-taped interviews. The candidates were then personally interviewed and the education board made its selection by secret ballot. Carlo Gesner, also a student at Southern, was selected as the alternate should Fike be unable to complete the year.

The student member will serve for one year, with the term ending on June 30, 1997. She will attend all regular meetings of the school board and will be representing the student body of Garrett County. Fike must maintain high grades throughout her tenure and must continue to have good attendance in school.

In addition to her student council activities, Miss Fike has been a student representative on the school board's Advisory Committee on Education (ACE), and was the Garrett County ambassador to the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation (HOBY). She is a member of the National Honor Society, as well as the Medical Explorer Post 911. She has volunteered at the Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home, for the Red Cross, and for the Kitzmiller Lions Club.

Sarah is a member of the Kitzmiller Assembly of God Church where she has served as children's church leader and ministry treasurer. She has also volunteered at the church's Bible school.

Her awards include Who's Who Among High School Students (three years), National Student Council Award, National Social Studies Award, National Science Award, Student of the Month for Social Studies (twice) and Science.

In an essay directed to the school board as part of the selection process, Fike wrote that she wishes to lessen the competition between county schools in some areas.

"I am not in any way trying to encourage a complete oneness in our schools. However, there are areas in which competition between schools is unreasonable and should be limited; education is one of them. I would like to encourage a sharing technique in education that would end many of the black versus white areas in our county's education system, especially at the high school level.

". . . I feel honored to have had a hand in this project [addition of student member] and would be thrilled to continue my work as the first student member on the board of education."

Fike later stated that she was honored to have been selected and will do her best to fulfill the role as student representative.

Appalachian Crossroads To Receive Van

The Mass Transit Administration (MTA) of the Maryland Department of Transportation has announced plans to provide a $32,180, five passenger, wheelchair accessible, raised-roof van to Appalachian Crossroads of Garrett County. The purchase was approved by the Maryland Board of Public Works.

The van is one of 36 vehicles to be distributed to private, non-profit organizations across the state.

"We are dedicated to ensuring that transportation options are available for all Marylanders," said Transportation Secretary David L. Winstead in awarding the van to the local agency.

Appalachian Crossroads provides day programs, job training, and transportation to medical appointments and recreational activities for Garrett and Allegany county residents who are mentally and physically disabled. The raised-roof van will be assigned to the organization's group home in Allegany County but will also be used for activities involving Garrett County clients.

"The MTA is critical in helping us provide this valuable service to the citizens of Garrett and Allegany counties," remarked Scott Hollingsworth, director of day programs at Appalachian Crossroads.

The van is expected to be delivered by the fall.

Warm, loving host families sought for high school foreign exchange students arriving in August.

Season Ends For Oakland 9/10 All-Stars

The Oakland Little League 9/10 All-Stars recently concluded their playoff season with a 4-2 record, as the local team rebounded from an opening 8-7 defeat to the Cumberland Dans to win four in a row, and then fell to PVAA, 6-3, in the West Section title game.

The first victory for the Oaklanders was an 8-5 defeat of Frostburg, as Brad Reese tripled home the winning run and Billy Reams recorded the win on the mound.

Reams notched his second win of the series against the Cumberland Dappers, as Oakland coasted to a 19-3 victory.

Oakland then easily avenged the opening game loss to the Cumberland Dans in game four by winning 14-3. The contest featured a 250-foot home run blast by Reams, while Mike McCauley had four singles and Chris Hoff was the winning pitcher. McCauley, Cory Bosley, and Tyler Livengood had outstanding defensive plays.

The fourth Oakland win was a convincing 11-4 trouncing of then unbeaten PVAA, as Reams earned his third win of the tourney on the mound, with relief help from Cory Burrell. Travis Friend, Scott Wildesen, and Cory Tressler led the offense.

Oakland failed on a number of scoring opportunities in game six, while PVAA played nearly flawless defense.

The Oakland team was coached by Ed Wildesen.

ALL-STARS FINISH 4-2 - The 9- and 10-year old Oakland Little League All-Stars recently concluded their playoff season by posting a 4-2 record and failing just one win short of the West Section title. Oakland 11-12 All-Stars To Play Tonight

The Oakland Little League 11/12-year-old All-Stars will play again at 6 p.m. this evening at Broadford Park to determine which team will play West End of Hagerstown on Saturday for the District 1 title.

The Oakland team opened the playoffs with an 11-1 victory over Conococheague at home, as the local team erupted for eight runs in the second inning. Key hits in that frame were home runs by Bryan Schwalm and Steven Fiswert. Ricky Reams and Joel Helbig each collected two hits, while Bryson Meyers struck out seven to record the win on the mound.

Oakland's next victims were the Cumberland Dans, who were blanked 10-0 in Oakland on a one-hitter by Bryan Hauser. The 16-hit Oakland attack was led by Fiswert with three hits and Helbig and Dennis Tressler with two apiece. Hauser struck out five.

The next contest was in Cresaptown against the Potomac Valley All-Stars, which Oakland won by a 4-3 margin. Oakland scored three runs in the first inning on a key hit by Reams, but Potomac Valley came back to tie the score with three runs in the third.

Oakland won the game in the bottom of the sixth when Ryan Ewing led off with a single, stole second and third, and then stole home on a ball-four walk to Chris Remley. Bryson Meyers struck out all three of Potomac Valley's next hitters to preserve the win. He finished with 11 strike-outs.

Oakland tasted its first defeat in the double-elimination tourney in game four, as the local players were stopped by the West End All-Stars, 7-1, in Oakland behind a two-hit pitching performance by Derek Haines. Fiswert hit a double and Tressler singled to account for Oakland's hits.

The winner of tonight's game will have to defeat West End twice in order to advance to the state tournament. The Oakland All-Stars finished third in the district last year after winning the district and state titles in 1994.

The Oakland team is coached by Tracy Rinard.

Grantsville Concludes Hot Stove Season

Grantsville Post 214 wrapped up its 1996 Hot Stove Baseball League season this week by rolling over the Elks last week, 12-1, in Cumberland and then dropping games to visiting Ali Ghan, 8-2, on Friday and to Wiley Ford on Saturday, 11-8, also in Grantsville.

Zack Rawe was the winning pitcher for Post 214 against the Elks, as he fired a two-hitter and struck out eight. The contest ended after five innings because of the 10-run rule.

Jed Wilhelm finished with three singles in a nine-hit team effort, Jeremy Rice provided a triple and a single, and Eric Brown singled twice.

In the loss to Ali Ghan, J. Rob Litten pitched a seven-hitter and struck out 10 to earn the win. Matt Stafford recorded four singles for Ali Ghan, while Litten aided his own cause with three singles. Joey Natale hit a double and a single.

Connecting for three singles for Grantsville was Dave Short, while Gary O'Brien added a double.

The win gave Ali Ghan a final record of 7-8-1.

In Saturday's loss to Wiley Ford, the teams were tied at 5-5 going into the top of the fifth, but that's when the visitors took the lead for good with two more runs.

Relief pitcher Danny Lopez recorded four of Wiley Ford's 14 hits, all singles for a total of four RBI, while teammate Tommy Inge hit a two-rnn homer and a single, Jason Twigg doubled and singled, and Robbie Dunn, the starting pitcher, provided two singles.

Wilhelm doubled and singled in Post 214's seven-hit performance.

Sisler Lumber Now 1-1 In Hot Stove Finals

Sisler Lumber recorded a 10-9 Hot Stove League win over host Jaycees of Cumberland last Thursday in its final regular season game, won the National League West title Saturday by topping Kiwanis in Cumberland, 9-5, and are now deadlocked at 1-1 in the best of three league finals with Ellerslie. Sisler dropped Tuesday's opening game to Ellerslie at Northern High School, 8-6, before rebounding yesterday for a convincing 11-1 at Ellerslie. The two teams will play the deciding game Friday at Northern.

A double and a single by Chris Herman that drove in three runs, plus three singles by Paul Beitzel for three more runs led Sisler to the win over the Jaycees on Thursday at Allegany Community College.

Pacing the Jaycees' attack were Garrett Seward with a double and two singles, J.P. Roby with two singles and three RBI, and Matt Welch with a single and three RBI. The Jayvees finished with a 6-10 record.

Matt Settle took the mound in the second inning for Sisler against Kiwanis on Saturday and went on to fire a two-hitter and strike out 11. The contest went into an extra inning with the score tied at 5-5, but Sisler quickly put four runs on the board in the top of the eighth behind a three-run double by Corey Sisler.

Settle aided his own cause with three singles, while Jeff Carr contributed two singles.

Leading Kiwanis (12-4) were B.J. Stewart with a double and a single, and Randy Welsh with two singles.

In the first championship series game against Ellerslie, Larry O'Baker earned the win on the mound by going the distance, striking out five, walking three, and contributing a triple, single, and two RBI on offense. Adam Moulden singled three times, Brian Dellaven had a double and a single, and Dale Kiser added two singles.

Leading Sisler Lumber's eight-hit effort were Taylor Glotfelty with two singles, and Settle and Sisler with a double each.

In yesterday's romp over Ellerslie, Sisler took control early by scoring three runs in the top of the first inning. They added five in the third and never looked back.

Settle, who pitched into the fourth inning, led the Sisler offense with two triples and two singles for three RBI, while Glotfelty provided a three-run double and a single.

Ellerslie's only run was recorded on a single by Steve Bennett in the fifth. Larry O'Baker singled twice.

Friday's final game will get underway at 5:45 p.m.

Oaks Split With Bridgeport; Ranked Second In League

Oakland is currently tied for second in the Pen-Mar Baseball League standings, having split a pair of games with the top ranked team, Bridgeport, this past weekend.

The Oaks, who are now tied with Romney with records of 16-5, blanked Bridgeport on Saturday, 3-0, and then lost to the same team in an exciting game on Sunday, 8-6, in Clarksburg.

Kent Taylor pitched the shutout for the Oaks on Friday, as he went the nine-inning distance, allowed just four singles and four walks, and struck out 11 batters.

Leading the Oakland offense were Jeremy Fitzwater, who hit an RBI double in the fifth inning and a solo homer in the eighth, Josh Woods, who finished with two hits, and Ernie Galusky, who provided a run-producing single in the third.

Aaron Williams led Bridgeport's offense in Sunday's game which featured a total of 25 hits. Williams went four-for-five with a double and three runs scored, while Clayton Ellwanger hit a solo homer and two other RBI, Joe McNamee doubled and singled, and Sam McKinney added a pair of singles, one of which drove home the winning run.

Oakland took a 6-5 lead with three runs in the top of the seventh inning, but Bridgeport rallied for one run in the bottom of the seventh and added two in the eighth.

Spearheading Oakland's 13-hit attack was Aaron Taylor, who had a triple and two singles. Fitzwater added a triple and a single, while Woods, Galusky, and Dave Kretchman each singled twice.

Oakland played another game later on Sunday, an exhibition contest with Fairmont, and lost that game in the bottom of the seventh, 5-4.

The Oaks will travel to Clarksburg this Friday for a nine-inning exhibition game with Bridgeport, beginning at 7:30 p.m., and then host the same team on Sunday at Garrett Community College in a 1 p.m. nine-inning contest. Bridgeport will also play Romney at the GCC field.

The remaining teams in the league and their respective records are: Cumberland, 14-6; Fairmont, 13-8; Hyndman and Morgantown, 7-14; and South Cumberland, 2-17. The top six teams will play for the league title in a tournament the weekend of August 3-4. Single games on Saturday, Aug. 3, as well as the championship game on Sunday, Aug. 4, will be played on the GCC diamond.

Legion Team Rebounds For Two Wins After Falling To Farrady

The Garrett County Junior American Legion team dropped to 1-2 in the second half of the Mountain District season by losing to Farrady Post 24, 9-7, last Thursday in Frostburg, but then jumped back above .500 on Saturday with a 5-3, 8-4 sweep of host Fort Cumberland Post 13.

The local players found themselves down 8-0 after two innings against Farrady Post on Thursday before rallying for two runs in the third and four more in the fourth. They could get no closer, however, as each team added just one more run in the final five innings.

Post 24 finished with a dozen hits and was led offensively by Derek Hetz, who had two doubles, Mark Harbaugh, who singled three times, and Adam Wolfe and Tom Bolt, who each singled twice.

Seth Tressler, Herman Arndt, and Tim Sines each singled twice in Garrett County's eight-hit effort.

The win, earned on the mound by Bolt who relieved starter Chad Ricker, upped Farrady Post's second-half record to 2-3.

Despite the fact that Garrett County recorded only two hits off Darron Jones in Saturday's opener against Fort Cumberland, four errors and a good day at the plate by Seth Tressler paved the way for Garrett's win.

Tressler rapped a double and a solo home run, the only earned run allowed by Jones. His double, hit in the first inning, led to a two-run error.

Cumberland knotted the score at 2-2 in the bottom of the first when Angelo Bascelli walked, scored on a double by J.R. Cross, and Travis Jessie followed with a single that plated Cross.

Garrett took a 3-2 lead in the top of the third on Tressler's solo shot, but Post 13 tied it again in the bottom of the inning when Brian Powell singled and scored on a two-out error.

Garrett County regained the lead for good with a run in the fifth, as Andy Brenneman reached on an error and later scored on a two-out wild pitch. Matt Umbel added an insurance run and concluded the game's scoring with a sacrifice fly in the sixth.

Jones struck out 10 and walked three.

Garrett took control of the second game early, by recording two runs in the first inning and four more in the second. Tressler again led the offense, as he finished with a double and two singles for two RBI. Umbel added two singles for a pair of runs, Aaron Newcomb singled twice and doubled, and Aaron Blocher added a three-run homer in the 12-hit effort.

Meanwhile, Tressler was also impressive on the mound, as he went the distance, gave up only four hits and one walk, and struck out eight.

Connecting for three of his team's four hits was Bascelli with three singles.

On Deep Creek Lake

Winds Howl, Lasers Capsize

by Dan Muss

At the Deep Creek Sailing School, the first thing that students, both junior and adult, learn is how to right a capsized boat. This exercise is not only a fundamental safety element of sailing; it represents the elimination of a common element of fear that blocks many learners from enjoying the sport. Once you realize that you are in control, that you can right the boat and sail away, you have gone a long way to becoming a sailor.

Well, that training came in handy this Saturday with the winds howling again. No Flying Scots capsized (a tribute to their seaworthiness), but the Lasers did, often. It was reported that Meredith Jacobs was approaching the finish line when she capsized, righted, capsized again, righted again. This went on for about 10 capsizes... but she finished!

Kevin Rissell committed a foul at the start of one of Saturday's races. He is required to do two complete turns as a penalty and, since his foul was committed just before the start he had to wait until after the start to do the penalty. But as the Lasers started he was carried way above the line by other boats (a boat doing penalty turns has no rights and must keep clear of all other boats to accomplish the penalty) so that it was a while until he could lose enough speed to drop back and clear the fleet to make his turns. Then Kevin capsized at a mark and was blown down on the mark. He touched the mark and that is another kind of foul. He had to right his boat, get moving again, and do a one turn penalty for hitting the mark. On the last windward leg he was about 10 boatlengths ahead of the next boat when he capsized again. He righted the boat and still won the race by a Racing was held at the Somerset County Speedway on Sunday, July 14. Two make-up features from July 5 were run before a full racing card that included Semi-lates. Forty-two Street Stocks, 14 Pro Stocks, and 14 Semi-lates chased the checkered.

Somerset County Speedway

In the make-up "B" Main, Don Shaffer of Somerset captured the victory over John Friend, Clair Duppstadt, Bob Downton, Roger McKenzie, Doug Kimmel, Greg Cornell Sr., Eric Stayrook, Rick Hayman, Mark Stephens, Mike Emerick, Dan Delancy, and Bill Nolf.

The make-up "A" Main saw many of the Stock division's top point drivers head to the pits with car problems. Seventeen cars started the race but only seven were able to finish. Leading those seven was Duane Horning of Meyersdale. The remainder of the field included Dwane Shultz, Greg Cornell Jr., Denny Rounds, Brad Dickey, Brad Reckner, and Vince Smith.

Roman Yoder of Grantsville captured his first victory of the year in the "C" Main after starting in pole position. Behind Yoder was Rick Hayman, Roger McKenzie, Gary Klink, Bob Downton, Dan Delancy, Henry Bockes, and Mike Emerick.

Eddie Kemp of Confluence was the "B" Main winner. Kemp, in car 87, also picked up his first win of the 1996 season. He led 14 of the 15 laps. Following Kemp was Jon Friend, Nelson Bailey, Vince Smith, Eric Stayrook, Bill Nolf, Jim Coughenour, and Dale Wilt.

Bob Davis took the number one position from Rodger Stephens in the eighth lap of the "A" Main and never looked back. Davis picked up a trophy sponsored by Dean O'Neal Ford of Meyersdale. Stephens held on to the number two spot and was followed by Greg Cornell Jr., Greg Cornell Sr., and Duane Horning, Brad Dickey, Bobby Smith, Dwane Shultz, Clair Duppstadt, Denny Rounds, Brad Reckner, Doug Kimmel, Don Shaffer, and Roger Shaulis.

Brad Brown of Berlin was able to capture a tough win in the Pro Stock feature. After three lead changes and four cautions, Brown clinched the victory in the final laps. Joe Donaldson, Tom Humberson, Kevin Bender, Quint Milburn, Craig Smith, and Pete Sanner followed Brown.

Semi-late cars returned to the track for the second time this year. Tom Erikson of Hesston was the winner of the Semi-late feature. He lead all 20 laps of the race. Not far behind Erikson was Tony Raneri, J.R. Isner, Rodney Sweitzer, Jim Weyant, Wally Mowry, Dan Lee, Terry Spangler, Jim Parson Jr., George Dixon, Jeff Henry, and Al Zuccolotto.

Regular Friday night racing will be held on July 19 at 7:30 p.m.

Elkins Motor Speedway

Shortly after the completion of the heats, rain canceled the remainder of the racing program at Elkins Motor Speedway Saturday night. This Saturday, July 20, EMS will present the fourth leg of the N.E.W.S. sanctioned Thunder in the Mountains Tour II sponsored by Budweiser and the Elkins Home Show, paying $3,000 to win for the Bank One Late Models.

Also on July 20, Bill Elliott's #94 NASCAR show car will be on hand at Elkins Motor Speedway to kick off the Ronald McDonald House Race For Kids Charity Drive.

Ronald McDonald House Charities operates the Ronald McDonald House which provides temporary lodging for families while their children with serious illnesses receive treatment at nearby hospitals. For families traveling long distances, the house provides a low-cost alternative to a prolonged hospital stay, with home-like comforts such as fully-equipped kitchens, a laundry room, and play area for children. It is a quiet refuge where families in similar circumstances can give support and understanding to one another.

Fans can show their support for the Ronald McDonald House by bringing any of their wish list items to Elkins Motor Speedway. These wish list items include: canned foods, linens, kitchen silverware, pillows, shower curtains, aluminum foil and plastic wrap and many other items. For a complete list of Ronald McDonald House wish list items, those interested should contact Melissa Reed at (304) 598-0050.

Interstate 79 Speedway

This Friday night will see regular racing in five divisions and a candy rush for the kids at Interstate 79 Speedway. Racing will be sponsored by T & D Sales of Dilliner, Pa. Gates open at 6 p.m. with racing action at 8 p.m. pretty good margin. It was really tough out there for the Lasers on Saturday, but they loved it.

Bruce Spinnenweber has been sailing in the Flying Scot A fleet for the last few seasons and has won many trophies with them. This last weekend he put his children at the helm in the B Fleet. Daughter Lauren skippered in Saturday's heavy air and son Brian on Sunday. They won all three races. Of course, they had dad's savvy to guide them, but Bruce said that as the season goes on he will tell them less and less.

In Saturday's second race Ted Rissell found himself about 200 yards in first place as they approached the downwind mark with spinnaker flying. A puff hit them and they broached. (A broach is when a sailboat is laid over on its side, but then righted without a capsize.) They got the spinnaker in, but they lost two boats and finished third.

Yesterday afternoon, Garrett County Clerk Lamonte Pagenhardt announced that he is drafting a letter to local realtors to assure them that during next year's budget writing process, the commissioners will review the effects of the two tax boosts and discuss the issue with the realty community before the new fiscal year 1998 budget is signed.

While Spiker does not dispute that the county government needs revenue, she commented that local realtors are concerned that Garrett County, and the state of Maryland, might be sending the wrong signal to potential buyers. She noted that Maryland maintains one of the highest closing cost ratios in the U.S.

Spiker argued that high closing costs might prevent not only home buyers, but also business investors from locating in the county.

However, in defense of the county's closing cost taxes, Pagenhardt commented this week that Garrett County exempts the first $50,000. Garrett is one of the only Maryland counties that makes such an allowance, he said.

Pagenhardt also remarked that when compared to other Maryland counties, Garrett falls about in the middle in regard to real estate closing costs. Counties that have lower cost rates levy other taxes, such as impact fees, which Garrett does not collect, he said.

All of the realtors present at this week's commissioner meeting are members of the Garrett County Board of Realtors, an affiliate of the Maryland Association of Realtors and the U.S. Association of Realtors. These groups lobby to protect private property rights and make property available to potential buyers.

Ed King, another A & A realtor, remarked in an interview this week that because the transfer tax exempts the first $50,000 of a property's price tag, the tax will disproportionately affect Deep Creek Lake-front buyers. He explained that a typical lake-front home sale involves around $250,000, while a typical sale in rural Garrett County only involves around $50,000. Thus, he argued, the rural buyer will totally avoid the tax while the lake-front buyer will be taxed on $200,000 of his or her purchase.

He also commented that lake properties are transferred more often than rural homes, thus additionally affecting the lake's realty community.

King stated that while absentee lake property owners have not been known to complain about local taxes, the county government needs to nurture the lake community. He noted that a large portion of the county's tax revenue already comes from the lake area.

Warm, loving host families sought for high school foreign exchange students arriving in August.

Nearly 3,000 Attend Annual Spruce Forest Summerfest And Quilt Show

Nearly 3,000 people flocked to the 19th annual Summerfest and Quilt Show, held last weekend in Grantsville.

"The proceeds from the event will benefit Spruce Forest as it continues to create opportunities for people to experience the stories of our rich heritage, culture, and values," said Trish Morgan, Village administrator. "Over $14,000 was raised at the festival this year, and expenses were kept as low as possible to ensure that the maximum number of dollars can be put back into the restoration of the campus's historic, rustic structures."

Activities during the three-day festival included performances by Jay Smar, a folk musician who plays the claw-hammered banjo, guitar, and fiddle; The Whistlepigs, a country duo; harpist Lynn Barnes; flutist Larry Smith; hammered dulcimer players The Gotzners; and the Marsh Mountain Consort recorder group.

Other highlights included numerous artisans demonstrating a variety of arts, such as pottery, bird carving, quilting, blacksmithing, weaving, basket-making, watercolor painting, calligraphy, and stained glass art.

Artisans included Lynn Lais, Gary Yoder, Susan Holt, Jody Best, Ann Jones, Meriam Brode, Bonnie Frederick, and Willie Rissell. These artists work at Spruce Forest Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Numerous other visiting artists displayed their work, and still other individuals volunteered their time to help make the summerfest a success. The Grantsville Lioness Club and Rotary Club were among the volunteering groups.

A report of the quilt winners will appear in next week's issue of The Republican. The 20th annual Summerfest and Quilt Show will take place July 10-12, 1997, with special events planned to mark the anniversary. For more information, persons may contact Morgan at 895-3332.

GREAT WEATHER, A BIG CROWD, and numerous artisans and musicians were all features of the 1996 Summerfest and Quilt Show held this past weekend at Spruce Forest Village in Grantsville. An estimated 3,000 persons attended the event, which raised an estimated $14,000 that will be put back into the village to provide more opportunities for craftspersons to exhibit and sell their wares. Artisans pictured above from left are potter Lynn Lais; calligrapher Jim Miller; and teddy bear maker Connie Stark. Below is a shot of just a few of the quilts and visitors that comprised the annual Quilt Show, winners of which will be named in next week's issue of The Republican. See story.

For DUI, Thayer sentenced him to 60 days in the Garrett County Jail, 30 days suspended, and fined him $500. The second offense was merged with the first. For the driver record violation, he was fined $50 and was placed on two years of probation, which will be monitored in Georgia.

Alberts was charged on Sept. 18, 1995, at the Finzel Scale House after a routine inspection revealed the alleged violations. The arrest took place at approximately 12:15 a.m.

An Oakland man pleaded guilty to DWI (driving while intoxicated) and the judge accepted the plea. James N. Livengood, 39, received a suspended jail sentence of six months and a fine of $500 plus court costs. He will be on two years of supervised probation.

Livengood was arrested by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office on Jan. 21. He was stopped along Rt. 219 at about 12:15 a.m., according to the report.

A Chicago man faced Thayer on the charge of DWI/DUI. Larry B. Wimbish Jr., 48, was charged with the offense last August. Thayer reduced the charge to DUI and handed down a 30-day suspended jail term. He also fined the defendant $500 and placed him on one year of probation, to be monitored in Illinois.

Wimbish was arrested after wrecking his 1986 Cadillac near First Avenue in Friendsville and Interstate 68. A charge of negligent driving was not prosecuted.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for an Oakland man convicted of theft and burglary charges. Craig S. Schroyer, 25, pleaded guilty to theft scheme, illegal use of a credit card, third degree burglary, and theft.

Schroyer incurred the charges in December 1995 and January of this year after he stole checks and used another person's credit card. He was apparently employed by Point View Inn in McHenry from July 1995 until this past January and had access to various areas of the business. He is accused of stealing two checks from the business and writing them out for $183.70 and $446.60 to "Charles Sanders." He then apparently forged the name of Ruth Beitzel on the checks and cashed them.

He also apparently used a credit card that belonged to Mark L. Curl, charging about $250 and not compensating Curl. He is also accused of breaking into the home of Chris H. Beitzel in January, and of stealing a check for $350 from Malyna Swyter. He allegedly cashed the check with the assistance of an accomplice, and then the two fled to Florida.

Schroyer was indicted by the Grand Jury for the burglary offense, according to the circuit court document.

Thayer ordered the presentence investigation and revoked Schroyer's bail, according to the report.

There are some other good recipes in there too for rabbit and shrimp, all kinds of things. I like potato soup myself, and there's a good recipe for kale and potato soup, only it isn't really kale. It's tall cabbage. The plants look like Brussels sprouts plants without the sprouts. They grow all year round, and everywhere. Out of 10,000,000 Portuguese 9,900,000 grow tall cabbage in their back yards. The don't thing anybody else can do it right. Can't say as I blame them.

The other thing I found at the library was a video-tape on Portugal. Once they got by the parts on how great the guy was that made the tape, it was pretty good. They showed Lisbon, the capital, in the southern part of the country and Oporto in the north. Oporto is where they make the port wine from the valley up the Douro River. They showed a lot of the countryside too which went from beaches to mountains and back again. The Azores and the Madeira Islands are hundreds of miles away but they get treated just like the rest of the country.

One of the interesting things about Portugal is that they don't have minorities. They married off everybody as they came down the gangplank. They're one big happy family. I guess they figured out the melting pot a little better than we did. Another surprise was that Portuguese has the fourth largest group of native speakers in the world after Chinese, English, and Spanish. Those Portuguese explorers really explored.

Well, I'd been to Portugal, and came home. It is a wonderful thing to have a hankering so easily satisfied. It was almost enough to make me not complain about my tax bill, since that had helped put a library, and Portugal too, within a short drive of my home. Now if we could only find a president as honest as that dictator.

Thanks!

Recently, I suffered a potentially serious back injury while climbing on rocks along Muddy Creek. I would like to take this opportunity to say a special "thank you" to all the people who assisted me and my family during and after the accident: Rangers Caroline Blizzard, Mike Friend and Bill Thomas of the DNR, Dale Davis and John Reams of the staff at Swallow Falls State Park; Greg Skiles, Mary Rounds and Wayne Rounds of Southern Rescue Squad; Dr. Dona Alvarez, Dr. Keith Merritt and Dr. Thomas Johnson, as well as the many staff members who cared for me at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Finally, a special word of appreciation goes to Hazel Stewart and Wayne Rounds for their comforting presence in the ER. To all who helped us that day, may I say that your compassion and concern made a great contribution to my recovery. Thank you all!

SUMMER ITCH: A close friend dreaded winter because it meant months of painfully dry, itchy skin. She always looked forward to spring and summer. That is, until she moved into a new house and began clearing the yard. Her bare forearm had its second or third contact with a shrub and very quickly she realized something was wrong. She had been come in contact with the toxin of a poison ivy plant.

There are actually some 60 plants that can cause severe allergic reactions. The most commonly known are poison oak, poison ivy, and poison sumac. They grow as shrubs or vines almost anywhere in the United States, and account for most cases of contact dermatitis in the country. Often, it's not the first contact with the sap of these plants that causes the problem. In most instances, the first encounter sensitizes one to the allergen in the plant. It's the subsequent encounters that can be dangerous.

Some people who recognize the poison plants may decide to burn them. Not a good idea. Burning releases the toxin into the air and causes a painful, itchy rash to develop.

Handling garden equipment that has been in contact with the sap can cause problems. It's a good idea, therefore, to run a garden hose at least five minutes on the equipment to minimize the risk of making contact with any sap that may have adhered.

If you've stepped on a plant's leaves and picked up its sap on the sole of your shoe, even two months later, touching the sole can cause an allergic reaction. The shoe's soles should be wiped off with warm soapy water. Also launder any clothes that might have picked up some sap residue. And carefully wipe your pet's fur with warm water and soap if you suspect she's been in contact with a toxic plant.

If you have developed a reaction, ask your family doctor or dermatologist for medication to relieve itching and discomfort while you heal.

Home Tips

SHOPPING DAY — With little time on our hands because we both work, and since both my husband and I hate to shop, we go shopping once every month or so.

It is a long day that we begin with a soothing drink while finishing the shopping list taped to our refrigerator. Then we go to two major stores with ice chests in tow.

When we get home, we eat and relax and begin the second half of our day. Everything must be sorted into dinner-size packets, labeled and stored.

The only time we go to the store in between times is for items like milk and bread.

We have cut our grocery bill by one-third, can pull anything out for dinner and have the right amount, and can go for as long as six weeks before we need to go grocery shopping again.

The best benefit is that we spend the day together. Jill R., Dallas, Texas BATH TIME — I have two small boys who love bath time. They love to splash too, but they always have to stop so I don't end up taking a bath myself.

When we moved into our new home, I bought a clear shower curtain with bright pictures of crayons all over it for their bathtub. Now, when I'm through washing them up, I just close the shower curtain and let the kids have fun. They have a blast splashing around, pouring water on the curtain and watching the water drip down.

They're the only ones who get wet! Plus, I can see them and they can see me. Denise W., Tempe, Ariz.

Antiques

It is said that dog collectors prefer Scotties to every other dog. The Scottish terrier is a breed of dog known for hundreds of years. The most famous Scottie of the 20th century was Fala, the dog owned by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The dog inspired many collectibles in the 1940s. They included jewelry, ceramics, bookends, rugs and toys. Many collectors specialize in an animal-decorated object. There are clubs for those who collect Scotties, cows, cats, dogs, frogs and pigs.

Q. My solid-oak shelf clock was made by "The E. Ingraham Co., Bristol, Conn." It is 24 inches tall and has an alarm and a thermometer. The case was made with fancy cut-out trim. The glass door reveals a short pendulum that reads, "Time is Money." The clock has a label that says it is the "Detroit" model. I paid $75 for it. I am especially interested in the inscription on the door.

A. Elias Ingraham worked in Bristol, Conn., after 1828. He changed jobs and partners several times and finally established the E. Ingraham Co. in 1884. The company was bought and sold, but they still made clocks in Bristol until 1967. Your clock has what collectors call "gingerbread trim." It probably dates from the 1890s.

Benjamin Franklin said, "Remember that time is money." It was his advice to a young man going out into the world. It has long been favored by clock enthusiasts. Your clock is worth much more than you paid.

Q. I am interested in Moonstone Hobnail glass by Anchor-Hocking and wonder why some pieces seem to have whiter dots than others. Was it reproduced?

A. Moonstone was made from 1941 to 1946 by Anchor-Hocking Glass Corp. It was found in clear or green, with white opalescent "dots." It is very similar to the Hobnail pattern. Variations of Hobnail are still being made, and it is very easy to confuse the two patterns.

Household Help
by John Amantea

During the summer, homeowners virtually take up residence on their decks, patios or porches. By applying some inventive decorating schemes, these areas can be transformed into unique exterior living rooms.

Here are some tips:

* If you wish to unify a deck with the house, select a deck stain which blends into the color of the house. Be aware that a solid stain is not recommended for use on a deck; there are special deck stains made which offer a good selection of colors.

* To make the deck a real design focal point, consider using contrasting colors. While a deck stain should be used on the deck's flooring, many variations can be created.

For example, for railings and uprights, select a solid color stain which contrasts with the deck stain used on the flooring and stair treads.

For a unique look, stain a rug pattern on the deck flooring. Mask off the area on which you wish to design a "rug." Using assorted colors of stains, create a border or fringe on the outer perimeter and use a contrasting color or pattern on the inside. You can even use a porch and floor enamel paint which offers a large selection of colors and stencil a design on the rug's border or inside the rug.

* The same type of creativity can be applied to porches and patios. With wood, you would use a stain and wood preservative or a porch and floor enamel paint; with cement, use a concrete stain or a floor and patio enamel paint. Each is available in a wide range of colors.

On the porch or patio, let your imagination create a one-of-a-kind trompe l'oeil design. For example, painting a broken clay flowerpot onto the porch or patio floor, with its contents (perhaps geraniums) lying next to it, is a bit of whimsy which translates into a real conversation piece.

LOOKING AT WINDOWS -- PART 5

In this last column about Windows, we will wrap up our "tour" of a typical window. Last week, we looked at the window's title bar. It allows you to change the size of the window and to close the program or shut Windows down. There are just a few other major features to consider.

There is usually a menu bar right under the title bar of a window. As you might expect, as menu is a list of things that you can do. It is customized depending on what the window does. You will usually see such options as File, Edit, Options, Window and Help. Each of these options represents a group of functions that can be seen if you click on that word in the menu bar.

For instance, if you click on Help, you may see choices such as Contents, Search for Help on..., How to Use Help and Windows Tutorial. Another click of the mouse on one of these options, and the help program starts running. Additional windows will be displayed, based on what you selected.

The options in the File menu depend on what window you are in. From Program Manager, the File menu is used to open programs, to create or delete programs and program groups, to run DOS programs and to exit from Windows. In File Manager, however, the focus is on files, not programs. In its File menu, you have the option to open, move, copy, delete and rename files. If you select Exit, you simply close the File Manager, not Windows itself. Thus, the options on the menu bar are customized to the kind of program you are running.

The other principle component of most windows is the pair of scroll bars. To scroll is to roil the window up, down, left or right. The scroll bars are graphical devices that make it possible to navigate by scrolling. There are usually two, one on the right-hand side of the window and another at the bottom.

Inside each scroll bar you will see a block that indicates where you are in the window. For example, if you are at the top, the block will be at the top of the vertical scroll bar. To scroll, do one of the following. To move down approximately one full screen, click in the white space below the block. To move down one line at a time, click on the arrow at the bottom of the scroll bar -- the one that points downward. To move down to a specific point, click on the block itself, hold down the mouse button, and drag the block to the position you want. Don't worry if you miss the exact spot; this is a skill that you will develop over time. To move up, just reverse the process. To move left and right, do the same things in the horizontal scroll bar.

This concludes our very brief introduction to some of the most basic features of Windows. As I said several weeks ago, this column cannot take the place of an entire book or course on using Windows. Suggested readings on this subject include Windows for Dummies and More Windows for Dummies, both from IDG Books, and I Hate Windows from Que Publications. All three are extremely helpful, good-humored books on the subject. A book that I use in a course I teach is Mastering Windows 3.1, Special Edition from Sybex. It is a large reference work, full of tables of easy-to-remember Windows tricks. I recommend it. However, it is more expensive than the other books I named.

wrote and they wrote and they wrote... they were phenomenal.

"What ever we've asked them to do, they've done, and then they'd do it again. There has been so much enthusiasm from the students, they had been full of energy and willingness to experiment with whatever we have put out in front of them. It's been a really wonderful experience, and a good learning experience for the students," said Hurd. "We are starting with the same hopes for this year, and I'm sure that those hopes will be fulfilled. Our whole reason for being together is to be creative, and you never know what's going to happen. That's part of the fun of it, and the adventure of it. I have a lot of confidence that it will be a good experience for everyone."

Hurd will be teaching poetry, with fiction taught by Richard Peabody, of Washington, D.C., with Jennifer Wilmer and Alex Hicks, teaching assistants. The program is sponsored by GLAF, with a grant made possible through the Eugene M. Lang Foundation. The reading will take place Friday evening, July 26, at Fantasy Valley. New Homeowners Eligible For Low-Interest Loans

More than 500 Maryland families may soon be new homeowners, thanks to $40 million in low-interest rate mortgage loans from the state. These "first-time homebuyer" funds are administered through the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development's (DHCD's) Maryland Mortgage Program (MMP) on behalf of local jurisdictions.

"Increasing homeownership is an important part of building stronger communities, and the Maryland Mortgage Program helps qualified people achieve that goal," said Patricia J. Payne, secretary for DHCD. "For the first time, much of this bond money is being targeted to Maryland's revitalization efforts. In keeping with Governor Glendening's endorsement of smart growth, the state is strongly encouraging counties to give preference to first-time homebuyers who select housing in established communities in need of rejuvenation."

This issue of tax-exempt revenue bonds is being made on behalf of 21 Maryland counties and Baltimore City. The arrangement enables local governments to take advantage of the State's excellent bond rating and to benefit from the centralized administration of the program with the state paying for the cost of issuing the bonds.

Montgomery and Prince George's counties are not participating in this bond issue. They have opted to issue separate revenue bonds for housing programs in their own jurisdictions. The residents from those counties, however, will be able to receive MMP mortgages from some funds available for statewide use.

Interest rates, income limits, and purchase price for newly constructed or existing homes were tailored by each county to meet the needs of local residents. In Garrett County the income limit is $44,800 for one person and $53,200 for a household with two or more people. The maximum purchase price for a new or existing home cannot exceed $110,000. Interest rates for the MMP funds are either 6.75 percent or 7.5 percent for a 30-year fixed loan. The applicant's income determines the interest rate for which he or she is eligible.

To apply for a loan under this program, interested people must be first-time homebuyers, except in targeted areas, and have a signed sales contract on a qualified home before contacting a lending institution. Borrowers must make their sales contracts contingent upon receiving financing through MMP.

DHCD programs play an integral role in strengthening neighborhoods across the state. By investing in homeownership opportunities where infrastructure already exists, the state can help conserve and reinvigorate Maryland's established communities.

MMP brochures with lists of participating lenders are available upon request from DHCD by calling 1-800-638-7781.

"The Whole World In His Hands"

When we are infants, we instinctively clutch the finger of our mother or father, holding tightly, knowing that we must cling to our parents for mere survival. As toddlers and young children, we are taught values and rules by which to live, based on our parents' wisdom and beliefs.

As the pre-teen and teen years ensue, we experience a new influence – peer pressure. As we are influenced by our friends, we may feel that our parents' beliefs are outdated, and may go astray. As a result, we enter into situations which can be difficult to resolve alone.

Even though we may not feel we deserve it, our parents are still there. All is not lost. This is unconditional love.

God, our heavenly Father, is the supreme example of unconditional love, ever present in time of need. It is available to all who will accept it.

Receive God's love. All is not lost.

THERE IS NO DAD LIKE GRANDAD

We felt it was time that somebody put in a special word for Grandfather, for often Mother, Dad and even Grandmother pick up all the headlines. A great many grandfathers come in to our pharmacy and they always seem to have an extra spry step - a good word and a twinkle in their eyes.

All older people get extra special attention from us. We carry a large stock of products, from geriatric medicines to home care convalescent aids. We realize that its much more difficult for the elderly to recuperate from an illness or broken bones.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

GIVE HIM A TRY

Background Scripture:
Psalms 34
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 121:1-8

In Psalm 105 the Psalmist proclaims: "O magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt His name together" (34:3). What's the reason for his song this time? In Psalm 104 he praised God when he contemplated his creation. In Psalm 105 his praise was occasioned by his recounting of God's mighty acts in the history of Israel. And now he finds another reason to praise the Lord: "I sought the Lord, and he answered me" (34:4).

This is a personal testimony. "I sought the Lord, and he answered me, and delivered me from all my fears" (34:4). He has reflected upon his personal experience of God's help in the midst of trouble. "The poor man cried, and the Lord heard him and saved him out of all his troubles" (34:6). He tells us simply that he needed help and the Lord responded. So he cannot help but resolve: "I will bless the Lord at all times; his praise shall continually be in my mouth" (34:1).

BLESSING, NOT BURDEN

I cannot think of a more transforming resolve than that: to "bless the Lord at all times" and for his praise to be "continually in my mouth." As I said last week, it is not God who needs our praise, but we do. When we praise God our lives are lifted up and renewed. Praise changes us. So, if I resolve to try to "bless the Lord at all times," it is not a burden for me to assume, but a blessing.

The Psalmist knows that this blessing is available to everyone who praises God: "...let the afflicted hear and be glad" (2b). This is good news and he wants to share with others this wonderful discovery. Note, that he does not say that the Lord keeps us from experiencing afflictions, but that he helps us in the midst of them. "The Lord is near to the broken hearted, and saves the crushed in spirit. Many are the afflictions of the righteous, but the Lord delivers him out of them all" (34:18, 19).

So, he invites us to join with him: "O magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt his name together!" When we magnify God, we are magnified by his grace and he invites all of us to find it out for ourselves: "O taste and see that the Lord is good! Happy is the man who takes refuge in him!" (34:8).

ASPIRIN OR THE ALMIGHTY?

To "taste" is to learn by personal experience. The Psalmist first testifies to what he has found and then he invites us to find out for ourselves. If we are dubious or unsure about the Psalmist's experience, why not try God ourselves? The next time you find yourself in trouble, faced with a predicament, crisis or experience of affliction, try trusting in God and not all those other things we turn to instead of Him.

This is not a suggestion to forsake your prescribed medicines or fail to seek whatever tangible help you can. It is just an observation that many of us trust more in aspirin than in the Almighty; in things more than in the Creator of all things. That's why God is able to get through to us so much better when we are down and out: we've experienced that everything else has failed!

We need to say a word about the Psalmist's use of two terms, "fear" and "saints." "O fear the Lord, you his saints, for those who fear him have no want" (34:9). "Come, O sons, listen to me, I will teach you the fear of the Lord" (34:11). "Saints," as the Psalmist uses the term, means simply "believers" and "fear" is not fright, but reverence. If we are to try out the Lord, it must be in a spirit of belief and reverence, not manipulation.

But don't take my word for it or even the Psalmist's. "O taste and see that the Lord is good!"

COVER STORY

A different arena, another show

By Suzanne Gill
©TVData Features Syndicate

Filmmaker and bronc rider Amanda Micheli

What is America's oldest organization of professional female athletes?

Hint: Though one of the events is a relay, you won't find this sport at the Olympics.

The organization is the Women's Professional Rodeo Association. Its members risk bodily harm or even death every time they enter the ring. They ride broncs and bulls, rope calves, barrel race and, yes, have relays.

Just for the Ride, airing Tuesday, July 23, on PBS' P.O.V. documentary showcase, takes viewers inside the rodeo cowgirl's world. (Check local listings for air date and time.) It is the first film by Amanda Micheli, a fourth-generation horsewoman from Massachusetts.

"I always imagined out West it would be different," Micheli says in the film's narrative. In a separate interview, she explains what she found.

"I felt very claustrophobic in Boston. But when I went to Albuquerque, it was like a weight had been lifted off of me. There was space and light and air."

And there are anachronisms, like 76-year-old Fern Sawyer, a working rancher with a closet the size of a living room, stuffed with evening clothes and spandex riding outfits. Micheli met her at the Fort Worth Stock Show.

"That was the first rodeo I'd ever been to," Micheli recalls. "And Fern was there in her gold leather suit."

Sawyer had had two heart attacks and two hip replacements, but she still "cut out" all her calves for branding at her Nogal, N.M., ranch. Micheli followed her there after the Stock Show.

"I was just really smitten with her. I knew when I met her that I wanted to spend more time with her."

Micheli took time out of college, returning to film Sawyer for an entire year, but her friend died a month later.

"I thought I had sort of found a beacon of light, and then it was shut out."

But the themes of aging and role modeling are sustained as Just for the Ride shifts to a profile of Jan Youren.

At 51, Youren is the mother of eight and grandmother of 38.

She has had shoulder surgery and once competed for six months with a broken back, but she forgets about the pain and always goes back to what she loves.

Attending rodeo school at Youren's ranch, Micheli discovered the "rush of adrenaline, speed and power" of bronc riding.

Just for the Ride has likewise touched a chord in girls and older women at film festivals and private screenings.

"My mother's friends love this film because a lot of it is about embracing age and not slowing down."

For girls, P.O.V. has developed a web site.

Users can talk about their aspirations in the "Corral of Dreams" and dress paper dolls out of "Fern's Closet."

Micheli intends to move on to other films, but admits she still has one boot in the rodeo ring.

"Definitely, if I had a free weekend and there was a rodeo around, I would give it another try."

IN FOCUS

As Al Borland on Home Improvement, Richard Karn witnesses some unusual segments on the handyman show Tool Time, but none compare to the strange acts he presides over as host for Wow! The Most Awesome Acts on Earth.

The special airs Monday, July 22, on ABC.

Performers include a man able to swallow seven swords at the same time.

Also, a man will balance on a teeterboard as he juggles chain saws.

June Lockhart

Q: Please settle a disagreement. I clearly remember June Lockhart on Petticoat Junction, but my older brother and sister say no. –Carol Phillips, Pembroke, N.H.

A: Original Petticoat star Bea Benaderet, who played Kate Bradley, died shortly after work began on the 1968-69 season. To fill a "maternal" role on the show, Lockhart joined the cast as Dr. Janet Craig, who became the town physician.

Q: My friend, who says she is very sure of her source, insists that Beatrice Arthur (The Golden Girls) used to be a man. Is this true? –Wants to Know in San Bernardino, Calif.

A: Absolutely not, but you've given a lot of readers a good laugh.

Q: What was the name of the suspense movie Sam Neill and Nicole Kidman made together? –Paula Ling, Long Beach, Calif.

A: You are thinking of Dead Calm (1989), in which the stars played a seagoing couple who came to regret picking up a young stranger played by Billy Zane (The Phantom).

Q: I had never seen Avery Brooks of Star Trek: Deep Space Nine on any other show until I caught him playing a character named Hawk on an old episode of Spenser: For Hire. How long did he have that role? –Zachary Polsky via the Internet.

A: Brooks played Hawk through the show's entire 1985-88 run on ABC. He reprised the role in A Man Called Hawk (ABC, January-August 1989).

Q: Just how many acting Baldwin brothers are there? I know that William and Alec Baldwin are brothers, but I recently saw The Usual Suspects, which had a Baldwin actor who bore a resemblance to Alec and William. –Donna Renee, Elwood, Ind.

A: Stephen, who is Alec and William's brother, starred in Suspects. A fourth brother, Daniel, used to play Detective Beau Felton on Homicide: Life on the Street.

Yet another acting Baldwin, Adam, is not related.

Q: In May Picket Fences showed its final three episodes, then later began advertising "all new episodes." What's up? Will the show be back in the fall? –Rick Swisher, Mansfield, Ohio.

A: No. In fact, young Adam Wylie, who played Zachary Brock, already has joined the cast of a new Fox sitcom called Come Fly With Me.

Networks frequently use summertime to "dump" episodes of canceled shows that were made but not used during the regular season. This only confuses viewers further.

Fickett leaving AMC; fans dislike response

By Candace Havens

Mary Fickett

Dear Candace: I was wondering what happened to Ruth on All My Children? She has just disappeared. –A fan in Vermont.

Dear Reader: Mary Fickett, who plays Ruth, has decided to retire. At this time the executives at AMC are in search of a new love interest for Joe (Ray MacDonnell).

Dear Candace: Will you get rid of Sarah on As the World Turns? She is one phony actress. She doesn't come through as a genuine person and her constant whining about family is so irritating. The whole show has gone downhill. –Rita of Iverness, Fla.

Dear Reader: Sarah (Lisa Lawrence) is irritating at times, but it is the writers' fault, not the actress's. She is only acting out what's in the script.

ATWT is a in constant state of flux due to cast and crew changes. It will take some time before the show gets back on its feet.

Dear Candace: A group of us at work record The Young and the Restless and The Bold and the Beautiful. We just read your column regarding Brooke (Katherine Kelly Lang), Sheila (Kimberlin Brown) and Stephanie (Susan Flannery).

We agree with the person who said Brooke is a good mother, etc. We didn't like you saying it was a bad day when fans were hoping Sheila got the best of someone. Why aren't you addressing the problem, which is what Stephanie is doing to Brooke? We don't think you should be making fun of your readers.

We all agree with the person who wrote in about the new Ashley. She does not look like Ashley. Her character is totally opposite and she is so sarcastic. She is not Ashley. Do you think we are stupid? It upsets us you do not think we know the characters. –Loyal Fans in Fort Washington, Pa.

Dear Readers: It is never my intention to make fun of fans. My point was it is sad when fans want Sheila, one of the meanest women on daytime, to focus her evil ways on anyone.

As for the situation with Stephanie and Brooke, they were both doing what they thought was best for the children.

Brooke has forgiven Stephanie. Maybe you should.

June Sales, Use Tax Receipts Up

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said increased consumer spending and confidence is reflected in the 3% increase in Maryland sales and use tax receipts of $169,014,808 for June 1996 - $5.4 million above the collected during the same month last year. June sales and use tax revenue reflects May retail activity.

Cumulative sales and use tax receipts for the first 11 months of fiscal year 1996 totaled more than $1.81 billion, up 2% over the $1.77 billion collected during the same period of the previous fiscal year.

"The spending rebound we noticed this spring continues to hum along," Goldstein said. "Sales in the construction and utility sectors have behaved as expected. But sales of computers and other capital goods have been very strong - reflecting a resurgence in consumer confidence and spending."

For the first 11 months of fiscal year 1996, the taxable food and beverage category produced $380 million, up 2.3% from the same period a year ago. The general merchandise category, which includes department and discount stores, produced $339.4 million, up 4%.

"The apparel category continues a turnaround begun this spring," Goldstein said. "It has produced $91.3 million in sales tax for the first 11 months of the fiscal year, but remains about 4.5% below last year's level."

The $248.2 million collected in the furniture category for the first 11 months of fiscal year 1996 posted a 7.3% gain compared to the same period last year. The increase in the furniture category is partly attributable to computer sales, which reflect increased interest in multimedia applications and the Internet.

Revised School Meal Guidelines Are Announced

The Maryland State Department of Education announced this week revised Income Eligibility Guidelines for free and reduced price school meals and free milk. The guidelines will be in effect through June 30, 1997.

Entitlement to free and reduced price meals or free milk is determined by household size and income. For example, a child from a family of four will be entitled to a free lunch and/or breakfast or, where available, a free milk if the household's current income is below $20,280. Students in four-member households with incomes between $20,280 and $28,860 will pay 40 cents for a reduced price lunch and 30 cents for a reduced price breakfast.

These guidelines are used by schools, institutions, and day care centers participating in the National School Lunch Program, the School Breakfast Program, the Special Milk Program, and the Child and Adult Care Food Program. With the exception of split-session pre-kindergarten and kindergarten programs that do not have access to meals, schools that participate in federally funded meal programs such as the National School Lunch Program and the School Breakfast Program do not receive subsidy for one-half pints of milk. Separate servings of milk will be available free to eligible students in schools that participate in the Special Milk Program and which have elected the free milk option.

Public school systems and other sponsoring agencies that participate in one or more of the Child Nutrition Programs will issue a public release announcing the complete Income Eligibility Guidelines used to determine eligibility for free and reduced price meals and for free milk Application forms with a letter to parents will be sent to families with children in school at the beginning of the school year. Households receiving food stamps or Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) must list: 1) The child's name; 2) Their food stamp or AFDC case number; and 3) The signature of an adult household member.

All other households must list: 1) The names of all household members; 2) The amount of income received by each household member; 3) The type of income (wages, child support, etc.) and how often income is received; 4) The signature of an adult household member certifying that the information provided is correct; and 5) The social security number of an adult household member who signs the application or a statement that the household member does not possess one. Households that list food stamp or AFDC case numbers must report increases in household income of over $50 per month or $600 per year.

Information provided on the application is used for determining and verifying eligibility for free or reduced price meals. Information on the eligibility status of each child may be given to local Title I officials for allocation and evaluation purposes.

Most public school systems use "Direct Certification" to approve students for free meals or free milk and reduced price meals. This method is available as the result of a partnership between the Food Stamp Policy Division of the Department of Human Resources and the Nutrition and Transportation Services Branch of the Maryland State Department of Education. This method allows students who have been certified for food stamps or AFDC to receive free meals without completing an application. It is designed to reduce paper work and improve the delivery of nutrition benefits to Maryland's low income children in public schools.

In the operation of the child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, color, sex, age, disability, national origin, or ability to pay. If any member of a household believes they have been discriminated against, they should write to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington D.C. 20250.

Because of federal requirements, counties verify income information on three percent of all applications approved for free and reduced price meals by October 31 annually. Applications will not be verified until after they have been approved. The applications to be verified will be randomly selected using procedures developed by a committee made up of representatives from several of the state's school systems and other agencies. Households selected for verification will be notified by the school and told what type of documentation they will have to submit to prove that their income has been correctly reported on the application.

A copy of the current policy will be on file and accessible to parents in each school. Parents who are dissatisfied with the ruling on benefits for their children may appeal the decision according to procedures outlined in the policy statement.

THE COMMUNITY OF GORTNER, just south of Oakland, was named for the family of Peter Gortner, pictured above seated on the porch of his farm house that was located near Sunnyside. Gortner, who lived from 1819 to 1903, was one of the early settlers in the area. He built the large barn in the left background around 1874. Proper Use of Skin Patch Medicines

In 1982 the U.S. Food and Drug Administration approved scopolamine, a motion sickness drug, as the first medicine available in the U.S. in the form of a skin patch. Since then, other medicines have been approved. Skin patch medicines include nitroglycerin, estrogen, testosterone, nicotine, and clonidine. Patches are useful because they provide a more predictable blood level of the drug, have fewer side effects, and are easier to use. Steps to follow for safe use of patches were published in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Pharmaceutical Association.

1. Choose an area of skin where the patch will not be rubbed off.
2. Make certain the area is not oily, cut, hairy, inflamed, or calloused.
3. Clean and dry the area if needed.
4. Remove and discard the protective backing. Do not touch the medicated surface.
5. Press the sticky side of the patch firmly against your skin.
6. If the patch has a protective overlay, place the overlay on top of the patch.
7. Do not touch your eyes of glasses until you have washed your hands.
8. Wear the patch for the prescribed length of time.
9. Discard the old patch. Do not let children or pets come in contact with discarded patches.

Seniors, Children Get Together For Lunch, Activities

IN OBSERVANCE OF OLDER AMERICANS' WEEK, senior citizens and children in the Head Start program participated in an inter-generational get-together at two senior centers in the county. Above, Barrick Uphold, student at the Accident Head Start Center, and Hazel Harvey share a moment during lunch at the Flowery Vale Senior Center. (See story)

In observance of Older Americans' Week, senior citizens and Head Start children throughout Garrett County got together to have lunch and spend time with each other in various activities.

Two AmeriCorps members from "A Star! In Western Maryland," Tina Sumpter and Jeannie Frazee, who are housed at the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc., Community and Emergency Services, were responsible for coordinating the event, with assistance from Jackie Resh, a member of the Beacon project, "Operation Child Care."

The first Inter-Generational Get-Togethers were held at the Jennings Senior Center and also at the Flowery Vale Senior Center in Accident, and according to Sumpter, "The seniors and Head Start children had a very nice time together. I hope that these types of inter-generational activities will be offered regularly in the years to come. It gives both groups the opportunity to get to know a little more about each other and find common bonds."

Linda Green, director of the "Operation Child Care" project, noted its members are being trained in the art of child care in exchange for hours volunteered by the members to Head Start centers in Garrett County. There are currently three members involved in the program, Resh and Rachel Bender, who are students at Northern Middle School, and Brandy Rush, a student at Southern High School.

Resh assisted with the day's events at the Jennings site, and according to Green, "Jackie has been a dedicated asset to our program. She has worked hard, and I think that her efforts during the Jennings Inter-Generational Get-Together are to be commended."

Plans are underway to continue with the get-together program in May 1997, according to Sumpter. "It is our hope that we will be able to expand the project next year to include more seniors and children," she said. "I am excited to have been a part of this valuable community growth experience."

Training Day On Social Work Set In Cumberland

The Social Work Caucus of the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center (AHEC) and the Allegany Community College Center for Continuing Education are sponsoring an annual professional development day for social workers on Friday, August 9, from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Cumberland Country Club. Participants will receive five hours of category 1 continuing education credit.

The theme of the professional continuing education event will be "Issues in the Social Work Profession." Carlton Munson, PhD, DSW, professor and doctoral program director for the University of Maryland at Baltimore School of Social Work, will present the morning program titled, "What Crisis? Whose Crisis? What Solutions?" Dr. Munson will document the major trends leading up to the professional dilemmas now confronting social workers. He will share strategies and recommendations for adapting to current and future practice demands.

Jerome Miller, PhD, chair and professor of philosophy at Salisbury State University and author of the book, The Way of Suffering: A Geography of Crisis, will present the afternoon program titled "From Management to Care: Philosophical Reflections on the Experience of Crisis and its Relevance to the Social Work Profession." Dr. Miller will lead a discussion on how a crisis experience can be viewed as either a problem to manage or as an opportunity to begin living life in a caring rather than controlling manner.

The joint meeting of the Allegany/Garrett and Washington County units of the Social Work Caucus will be conducted prior to Dr. Munson's presentation.

Fees and tuition are $54 per Allegany County resident; $59 per other Maryland resident; and $64 for an out-of-state resident. For more information, persons may contact Jane Paulson, ACC, at 301-724-7700, ext. 121 or Nancy Forlifer, Western Maryland AHEC, 301-777-9150, ext. 110.

The Western Maryland AHEC is an organization working to improve health care through health personnel education in Allegan Garrett, and Washingto counties and surroundir communities.

Ag Census Moves To USDA, But Questions Remain

The Census of Agriculture, previously administered by the Commerce Department, is in the process of being moved to the Agriculture Department. Budgetary pressures caused the Census Bureau to focus its resources on its general population census, which is performed every 10 years.

All funding for the Census of Agriculture for next year--$17.5 million as included in the president's 1997 budget--has been shifted to USDA.

"The Census of Agriculture almost disappeared overnight because it wasn't included in the Commerce budget," said Mark Jenner, American Farm Bureau Federation commodity specialist. "We could have lost something beneficial to agriculture if USDA, under the guidance of Secretary Dan Glickman, had not acted aggressively."

The census is important, Jenner said, because its numbers are used for funding formulas for land grant universities and Extension programs, and are the basis for a significant amount of public policy work. It is in agriculture's best interest not only to have the census, but also that it reflects the industry accurately, he said.

Farm Bureau supports shifting the census authority from Commerce to USDA, with operations managed by the National Agricultural Statistics Service. The organization believes NASS is well-suited to assume the added responsibility of consolidating the census with its existing agricultural statistics program. This will result in increased efficiency, reduced duplication and better utilize the resources of both offices.

The transfer is still dependent on USDA receiving congressional authorization. The Census of Agriculture Act of 1996 (H.R. 3665) was unanimously passed by the House Agriculture Committee last month, and now awaits consideration by the House Government Reform Committee. Similar legislation has not been considered by the Senate.

Debate over a Commerce Department proposal to change the definition of a farm--from operations with gross annual sales of $1,000 and over to those with $10,000 or more in sales--also has been temporarily settled. USDA recently decided to keep the status quo in effect. However, discussion is still ongoing if that definition is appropriate.

"The fundamental problem with the definition of a farm is still there," Jenner said. "The structure of agriculture has changed and the old definition no longer captures what production agriculture is."

Farm Bureau supports increasing the present definition to $2,500 in gross annual sales, however, others advocate raising the definition to $5,000 to $10,000 in annual marketings.

Farms today are becoming more industrialized, Jenner said, which has shifted the traditional focus of ownership. The farmstead still exists, but the ownership of inputs and product marketing have changed.

Concerns also exist that under the current definition, some businesses are not being counted. Small farms, part-time farms and roadside markets earning more than $1,000 may be excluded. Other businesses, such as commercial greenhouses and nurseries, may also be missed because they do not consider themselves "agriculture."

The next Census of Agriculture mailing is scheduled for December 1997. Although data pertaining to 1997 will be collected, the census will actually be administered in 1998 and released in late 1998 and 1999.

Farming In Maryland.....

MDA Speeds Up Conservation Grant Payments

Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) Secretary Lewis R. Riley has announced that eligible farmers should be receiving their conservation grant payments much sooner under the newly streamlined Maryland Agricultural Water Quality Cost-Share (MACS) Program. The improved turnaround is the result of a move by the State Soil Conservation Committee to eliminate duplication in the MACS program by shifting bond authority for eligible conservation practices from the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) to MDA.

"What this means if that Maryland farmers will be getting their grant allocations quicker. We estimate that we'll be able to reduce the turnaround time for payments from five weeks to three," said Riley.

In the past, bond fund applications and allocations were processed through (MDE). Beginning July 1, 1996, all unspent bond balances originally handled by MDE will be transferred to MDA.

"What we essentially wanted to do was cut down on government red tape in an effort to make the program more farmer friendly," explained Riley.

MDA estimates that the changes will also speed up the initial grant approval process. Questions concerning the status of a grant application claim for payment will also be answered in a more timely manner.

Established in 1983, the Maryland Agricultural Water Quality Cost-Share program is a key feature in Maryland's efforts to protect water quality in the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries. Through the program, farmers are provided with up to 87.5 percent of the cost to install eligible best management practices to prevent soil erosion and control nutrient runoff from farm fields and livestock operations. Grassed waterways, animal waste management systems and stream protection measures are among more than 25 best management practices (BMPs) currently eligible for MACS funding.

Since 1984, more than 7,000 BMPs have been installed under the program with approximately $38 million in public funds matched by $4.5 million from individual farmers.

Farmers interested in applying for cost-share assistance through the MACS Program should call their local soil conservation district.

State Sweet Corn Harvest Underway

For the week ending July 7, sweet corn harvest was underway though a little behind the five year average. Field corn had begun to silk, just behind the five-year average. Corn condition was one percent very poor, six percent poor, 23 percent fair, 50 percent good, and 20 percent excellent.

Soybean planting moved forward, but remains below average. The crop was four percent poor, 23 percent fair, 61 percent good, and 12 percent excellent.

Sorghum planting jumped forward reaching over 90 percent planted. The crop was two percent poor, 24 percent fair, 67 percent good, and seven percent excellent.

The tobacco crop was two percent very poor, one percent poor, nine percent fair, 70 percent good, and 18 percent excellent. Small grain harvest was aided by a drier week as all crops made good progress.

Barley harvest was 90 percent completed as it rebounded from a slow season and neared the five-year average.

Rye harvest also jumped forward and was ahead of the normal pace.

Wheat harvest also moved ahead and was just slightly behind the average.

Potato harvest continued as well as the harvest of cantaloupe, cucumbers, green peas, and snap beans.

Cutting of alfalfa and other hay continued to progress. Second cuttings of other hay were still running behind the normal pace along with second cuttings of alfalfa which also continued to move slowly.

Pastures were one percent very poor, three percent poor, 14 percent fair, 60 percent good, and 22 percent excellent.

Hay supplies were mostly adequate. Apples were three percent very poor five percent poor, 10 percent fair, 72 percent good, and 10 percent excellent. Peaches were three percent very poor, five percent poor, seven percent fair, 76 percent good, and nine percent excellent.

Hail in St. Mary's county destroyed about 250 acres of tobacco and damaged another 150 acres. Many areas across the state are getting dry and could use a good soaking rain. Other areas are still struggling with excessive moisture. Topsoil moisture was one percent very short, 18 percent short, 79 percent adequate, and two percent surplus. Subsoil moisture was six percent short, 91 percent adequate, and three percent surplus. Conditions allowed for an average of 5.7 days suitable for fieldwork.

Senate Approves Small Business Tax Package

The Senate last week overwhelmingly approved a $14 billion small business tax package (H.R. 3448) that also would increase the federal hourly minimum wage. The legislation passed 74-24, with all Democrats voting for the bill, along with 27 Republicans.

The bill would raise the minimum wage rate to $4.75 an hour on July 1 of this year, and then increase it to $5.15 per hour on Jan. 1, 1997. Farm Bureau opposes any increase in the minimum wage. The bill also would establish a 90-day, so-called, subminimum wage for workers under the age of 20.

Two minimum wage-related amendments were defeated during the bill debate. The first, offered by Sen. Kit Bond (R-Mo.), was voted down 46-52. The Bond proposal would have delayed the effective date for the minimum wage increases and would have exempted small businesses with annual gross income of less than $500,000 from the minimum wage requirements. In addition, it would have permitted payments of a $4.25 subminimum wage during the first 180 days of a worker's employment.

The second amendment, proposed by Sen. Ted Kennedy (D-Mass.) and defeated 46-52, would have increased the minimum wage to $4.70 per hour on July 5 of this year, and then to $5.15 on July 4, 1997.

It also would have instituted a $4.25 subminimum wage, but only during the first 30 days of a new hire's employment. Migrant and seasonal farm workers would not be eligible for payment of this wage rate.

Both House- and Senate-approved versions of the bill (H.R. 3448) would increase annual expensing limits for small businesses, from $17,500 to $25,000 a year, and allow tax-exempt organizations to offer 401(k) plans to their employees.

The Senate version would alter the aggie bond program to allow new farmers to borrow money to purchase farmland from family members, and would modify the definition of a qualifying farmer for such loans. The legislation also would allow non-working spouses to obtain individual retirement accounts as of 1997. These provisions are supported by Farm Bureau.

The House bill would make permanent the unemployment tax exemption for alien agricultural workers.

A House/Senate conference committee will meet to iron out the differences between the tax provisions of the two bills. President Clinton last week indicated that he would sign a bill similar to the House version.

Delaney Clause Work Begins

A House committee last week began work on a Delaney clause reform bill. The House Commerce Health and Environment Subcommittee heard opening arguments and is expected to continue work this week.

Republicans and Democrats are still trying to forge a consensus on the legislation. Farm Bureau supports passage of the Food Quality Protection Act (H.R. 1627), which would replace the Delaney clause's "zero tolerance" standard with one of "negligible risk" for pesticide residues.

LORI EVANS, 1995 Garrett County Farm Queen who was also chosen Maryland Farm Queen, will crown the 1996 Garrett County Farm Queen Sunday, August 11, at the Garrett County Fair. Girls interested in entering the contest should be 16 to 19 years old, and the daughter of a farmer who is a member of Garrett County Farm Bureau. Applications are due July 24 and should be submitted to Debbie Barnard (334-4170) or Kate Fratz (746-8205).

Grain Producers Assoc. To Hold Annual Meeting July 25

Maryland farmers attending the annual meeting of the Maryland Grain Producers Association (Thursday, July 25) will be able to kill several birds with a single stone, so to speak. They'll get an update on their association and the grain industry in the nation. They'll hear from experts in commodity marketing, precision agriculture and the new genetically altered crops. They'll visit with scientists and researchers who are experimenting with ways to improve grain production with checkoff grants from the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board. They'll be able to spend quality time socializing with their fellow farmers at the crab feast and barbecue which traditionally concludes the meeting. And finally, they'll be able to pick up absentee ballots for the August 6 statewide referendum to recertify the grain checkoff in the state.

The annual meeting, the 19th for MGPA, will be held at the Queen Anne's County 4-H Park on Route 18 between Centreville and Queenstown. "It will offer an excellent opportunity for growers to cast a vote in the referendum if there's any chance at all they won't be able to get to their county Extension office on August 16," said Robert Hutchison, MGPA president.

The Maryland grain checkoff program was launched in 1991 with the approval of the producers voting in the initial referendum. The state legislature authorizing the checkoff, which carries an assessment rate of one half of one percent (50 cents on $100) of the net value of the grain at the first point of sale, requires that it be re-affirmed every five years.

In 1994-95 alone, farmers in the state, with their checkoff dollars, invested nearly $400,000 in research, market development and education projects designed to improve the profitability of their grain operations.

Through the five-year history of the checkoff, farmers have been able to request a full or partial refund of their money. And that will not change. "That's very important," said Hutchison. "Our refund policy is firm. We don't want our state grain checkoff to be confused with the national soybean checkoff, for example. Full or partial refunds are in force in our grain checkoff and will remain that way."

For more information either on the annual meeting, the checkoff program or the upcoming referendum, those interested should call the MGPA office at (410) 956-5771.

Farm Bureau Urges Dairy Safety Net

Dairy producers need a congressionally mandated fund to ensure they are paid for their product in the event their milk handler declares bankruptcy or fails to make payments in a timely manner, Farm Bureau told a House Agriculture subcommittee last week.

"We are keenly aware of the problems faced by producers when their milk handler declares bankruptcy," Maryland Farm Bureau President William Knill told members of the livestock, dairy and poultry subcommittee. "Dairy producers in all regions of the country have seen the future of their farms placed in jeopardy when faced with the loss of anywhere from several days to over a month's worth of income from their milk sales."

Knill, a Maryland cattle producer and former dairyman, said several states have programs in place to protect dairy producers' incomes. But, he said, some of those programs "range from being quite successful, to some of rather limited value" to the producers they are supposed to benefit. Knill, a member of the American Farm Bureau Federation board of directors, said producers should be allowed to determine the appropriate plan for their particular states.

"Adequacy of the existing state programs should be determined by an independent review of the programs," Knill said. "In cases where adequate programs exist, producers should be allowed to vote on whether to maintain their existing program, or participate in the national program."

The plan supported by Farm Bureau would amount to a "checkoff" paid by milk handlers. Knill said it is important that any checkoff not affect the price producers are paid.

"We appreciate the fact that the proposed legislation specifies that the money collected for this fund is to have no effect on producer prices," Knill said. "We would ask that this be monitored closely to ensure that there is no adverse affect on producer milk prices."

Read--Cut--Save: Mycotoxin

This past year we have had several problems with mycotoxin poisoning among our farm animals. Mycotoxins can affect all of our farm animals. The 1996 harvested forages and grains have a potential for a serious mycotoxin problem because of the weather patterns that have and still are occurring. The following information was provided over the Dairy-L discussion group by Dr. William J. Seglar, DVM, PAS of Pioneer Hi-Bred Intl., Inc. The following points may help you in dealing with mycotoxins.

1. Where mycotoxins come from: Fusarium mold produces vomitoxin, zearalonone, and T-2. Aspergillus mold produces aflatoxin.

2. When are mycotoxins produced? A majority of the mold activity is present in the field during the growing season. In the case of the corn silage, primarily grows at silking by spores traveling down the silk tube or by physical damage to the kernel, such as hail, allowing spore entrance. Mycotoxin production is also active during the growth of alfalfa, grasses, and corn stover. Mycotoxin production is minor during storage, but does occur at the initial respiratory ensiling phase prior to pH drop (proper ensiling management helps) and at feedout with exceptionally slow removal rates such as spending several days to go across the face.

3. How mold growth is stimulated: Probably a combination of varying temperatures and humidity (hot days and cool nights) that produces condensation allowing spores with a means of travel. Late planting and late harvesting stimulate mold activity. Drought stress reduces plant resistance to mold. Corn parasites such as European Corn Borer act as a vector to carry spores into the tubes generated by the worm.

4. Significance of diagnosed levels: Antibody detecting diagnostics indicate vomitoxin and sometimes aflatoxin if present in forages; however, gas chromatography often show these negative, especially in alfalfa and grasses. Antibody tests detect a molecular structure similar to known mycotoxins. What it does not tell us is: 1) what is the fungal metabolite? and, 2) is it toxic to cattle? The best advice is to use antibody tests as a management tool and back up positives with gas chromatoghraphy.

5. Significance of vomitoxin diagnosis: Research indicates vomitoxin by itself is not a problem. The toxin is a marker for possibly hundreds of other undiagnosed mold metabolites. A positive mycotoxin diagnosis usually is not the only reason for production and health problems. Look for other problems being amplified by the mycotoxin.

6. How to denature mycotoxins: Cannot be done in forages. A soda lime or NH3 process does work in grains according to Canadian research. Bacterial inoculants or other silage additive will not denature vomitoxin. The best thing is to employ an adsorbent in the ruminant diet.

7. What are adsorbents? Compounds that provide competitive binding receptor sites versus gut wall binding receptor sites. They tie up the mycotoxin and pass into the manure. Compounds include Bentonite, Diabond, Zarmin, Novisil, and several others. None has solid research claims proving its merit. Hard to research because of the many possible toxic metabolites that provide an array of possible binding sites.

Upcoming Events

The Garrett County Holstein Cattle Show will be held on Thursday, July 25, starting at 6:30 p.m. at the Fairgrounds in McHenry. The public is invited to attend.

The Garrett County Holstein Association invites all dairy families to attend their annual picnic on August 6, 7:00 p.m. at the Grantsville Community Park. Each family is to bring a covered dish of food. The association will provide utensils and soft drinks.

State Vegetable Harvest Active

For the week ending July 7, vegetable harvest was active with the harvest of sweet corn, cantaloupe, potatoes, watermelon, tomatoes, cucumbers, and snap beans all going strong. Progress was good with most vegetable crops close to five-year averages.

Field corn development has been aided by plentiful rain, and many areas are reporting good looking crops. The crop had just reached the dough stage in some areas. Corn condition improved to four percent poor, 15 percent fair, 47 percent good, and 34 percent excellent.

Soybean planting continued just under the five-year average. The crop was four percent poor, 14 percent fair, 55 percent good, and 27 percent excellent.

Rain also improved the sorghum crop as condition was two percent poor, 11 percent fair, 67 percent good, and 20 percent excellent.

The tobacco crop was three percent poor, 12 percent fair, 73 percent good, and 12 percent excellent. Tobacco had begun to bloom.

Barley harvest was completed last week.

Rye harvest made good progress and was running just ahead of the normal pace.

Excellent gains were made in the wheat harvest which moved ahead of the five-year average.

Cutting of alfalfa and other hay continued to progress. Rain has been very beneficial for hay growth as long as it does not keep cut fields from drying. Second cuttings of other hay and alfalfa jumped forward last week, but still trail five-year averages. Third cuttings of alfalfa were well underway in some areas and were running ahead of the average pace.

Pastures were one percent very poor, three percent poor, 13 percent fair, 69 percent good, and 14 percent excellent. Hay supplies were mostly adequate.

Apples were five percent poor, 13 percent fair, 72 percent good, and 10 percent excellent. Peaches were one percent very poor, five percent poor, 10 percent fair, 74 percent good, and 10 percent excellent.

Many areas received significant rainfall because of Bertha. Reports varied as to rainfall totals, but it appears that affected areas received 4-8 inches of rain. Wind damage was minimal. Topsoil moisture was five percent short, 58 percent adequate, and 37 percent surplus. Subsoil moisture was four percent short, 72 percent adequate, and 24 percent surplus. Conditions allowed for an average of 5.1 days suitable for fieldwork.

Tunnelton Train Station To Be Restored By Historical Society

by Nathan Raybeck

Residents of Tunnelton are trying to revive the sights, sounds, and feelings of a past era by restoring the old Baltimore & Ohio Railroad depot.

Bob Shalfer, president of the Tunnelton Historical Society, is engineering the project and stated that the restoration is beginning.

The depot was originally built in 1913, and the rebuilding project, which began with the roof of the depot, started a week ago, Shafler said.

"[The depot] has been sitting idle since about 1970 and this is about the only historical site left in Tunnelton, so a group of us got together and formed a historical society in January, 1994, and we raised money to purchase it. We own it now and we have a grant to do the $76,500 roof project," Shafler said.

After the society members finish the depot project they will move on to the Catholic church in Tunnelton. According to Shalfer, the church, which used to be the old bank building, was donated to them and is the next project on the historical society's list.

The society also has several fund raising groups that meet the Northern Railroad from Kingwood each time it comes to Tunnelton.

One of the biggest events that the society is involved in is Depot Days, which this year is on August 31. This event will feature hot dogs, drinks, music, and other attractions.

"Then, in October, we have a get together where we sell mulligan stew by the quart jar," said Shalfer.

Shafler explained that the purpose of the depot project is to create a historic tourist attraction.

"We plan to leave it open on the weekends and from about noon to 4 p.m. on Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays. We would also like to have special outings for schools and others that wish to see some history," said Shalfer.

The depot will bring more to the area than just a historical attraction, Shaffer said, adding that the tourism industry will also help the economy of the area.

"It's not a savior, but it will help out and maybe someone riding the train or visiting the depot will have a small factory or something they would like to establish in Preston county and maybe move into this area," he said.

Shafler explained that he chose the railroad depot because of the amount of history it had seen.

"The depot saw all different kinds of people, from peddlers to people going off to war, and since Tunnelton was once the thriving coal area of Preston County, there is a lot of history here that needs to be preserved. The depot is a good place to start," he said.

The people of the area have been very receptive to the idea, Shalfer said, adding that he appreciates all the work they have done.

To become active in the society, each new member must pay a $5 lifetime membership fee and fulfill a one meeting-one work session commitment.

Sarbanes Spearheading Effort To Promote Maryland's Ag Exports

Senator Paul S. Sarbanes is spearheading an effort to bring Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS) diplomats to Baltimore in an effort to promote Maryland's agricultural exports. Sarbanes, along with the Maryland Department of Agriculture, Governor Parris Glendening, and the Maryland Congressional Delegation will bring to the Port of Baltimore, FAS representatives who serve in U.S. Embassies abroad in order to showcase Maryland's agricultural products and its importance to the Port of Baltimore and the state of Maryland. Business leaders from across the state of Maryland will also have the opportunity to hear directly from the agricultural attaches as to how best to export and market Maryland products abroad and take advantage of international marketing opportunities.

The agricultural attaches will tour the Baltimore Harbor, and visit the Sarbanes initiated Export Assistance Center--the nation's first "one stop export shop," which is located in close proximity to the Port of Baltimore. The group will also be hosted to a "Taste of Maryland" luncheon, where they will lunch with representatives of Maryland's agricultural community. The luncheon keynote will be delivered by several agricultural trade officers.

The activities will be held on Friday, July 19 beginning with a tour of the U.S. Export Assistance Center followed by a boat tour of the Baltimore Harbor. The working lunch will begin at noon at the Constellation Room of the World Trade Center.

"It is critically important for our farmers and our businesses to compete internationally in the ever-increasing global economy," said Sarbanes. "This effort will bring together those who know how to market products overseas with those seeking to market products overseas and together we will work towards increasing Maryland's market share in the world economy."

"We in the Maryland agriculture community are grateful to Senator Sarbanes for organizing this important international marketing event. The exchange of ideas will help Maryland agriculture and food businesses to increase their presence in markets around the world. This will benefit our state's agriculture industry," said Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley.

During the week of July 15-19, the USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service will be sponsoring the 1996 Global Attache Conference in Washington, D.C. The conference is bringing together congressional leaders, administration policy-makers, private sector experts, and attaches to discuss new policy, marketing, and technological challenges facing American agriculture. Sarbanes initiated the tours, meetings, and discussions in Baltimore in an effort to promote Maryland's agricultural bounty.

Interstate Meat Shipping Ban May Be Lifted

The Agriculture Department recently released a report that supports lifting a ban on interstate shipments of state-inspected meat and poultry.

But, the agency only supports lifting the ban if packers implement new hazard analysis critical control points inspection systems prior to shipment authorization.

House Agriculture livestock subcommittee chairman Steve Gunderson (R-Wis.) is drafting legislation that would complement USDA's new HACCP rules, and the bill also is expected to address repealing the shipment ban.

USDA Unveils New Meat Rules

New food safety regulations announced by the Clinton administration will rely on proactive measures to prevent bacterial contamination of raw meat and poultry. The new rules will require processing plants to be responsible for preventing bacterial contamination rather than relying solely on meat inspectors to correct existing problems.

In announcing the reforms, President Clinton said the new rules will modernize a 90-year-old inspection program and fulfill his promise to protect public health by improving food safety.

"Our families have every right to expect that the food they serve their children is safe," Clinton said. "We have a national responsibility to protect the safety of the food we eat."

The new system of preventive measures is called hazard analysis and critical control points (HACCP). The rules would require every processing and slaughter plant to test raw meat and poultry for bacterial contamination.

Agriculture Department inspectors also will begin testing plants for salmonella for the first time. Any plant with repeatedly high salmonella levels will be forced to shut down.

The HACCP program requires plants to identify critical points in their processing systems where contamination can occur. Controls to prevent or reduce contamination must be put in place--with proof that those measures are working.

USDA Acting Undersecretary Michael Taylor lauded the proactive approach to preventing bacterial contamination. "When dealing with issues of public health and the safety of consumers, we have to operate on the principle of prevention," he said.

The HACCP system will be implemented first in larger plants, which will have 18 months to enact the new standards. Small plants will have 30 months to begin complying, and very small plants will have 42 months.

"Our implementation schedule takes into account both the public health importance of new rules and the time it will take to bring about such fundamental changes within our program and within an enormously complex and diverse industry," Taylor said.

The HACCP requirements generally have Farm Bureau's approval and meet two chief concerns. Farm Bureau was against mandatory, preharvest requirements for livestock producers, according to Dennis Stolte, and AFBF governmental relations director. Farm Bureau also advocated allowing smaller processing plants more time to implement the new regulations than the large packers.

Consumer advocates have expressed support for the new rules, while the meat processing industry has expressed some reservations about the new system being mandatory instead of voluntary. Industry has been advocating implementing preventive controls, with larger processors already moving in that direction before the administration's announcement.

LOCAL FIRE DEPARTMENTS RECEIVE GAS MONITORS - The Agricultural Care & Education (ACE) program of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Garrett County Health Department and Maryland, Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems (MIEMSS), have donated gas monitors to the Oakland (OVFD) and Grantsville (GVFD) Volunteer Fire Departments for the detection of hazardous gases, chemicals, and areas with oxygen deficiencies. Members of both departments recently completed training to use the monitors which were presented to them by Walter Donalson, CHE, president of Garrett County Memorial Hospital and Diane Lee, ACE program director for the Garrett County Health Department. Pictured from left, are Brad Frantz, director of Garrett County Emergency Management, Fred Callis, OVFD president and training coordinator; Phil Rook, OVFD fire chief, Donalson, Lee, Duane Stein, GVFD fire chief; Todd Dyche, GVFD vice president; and Rayma Weeks, vice president of the Region I Emergency Medical Services Council. Not pictured are Mikal McCartney, ACE program director for Garrett County Memorial Hospital, and Dave Ramsey, MIEMSS Region I administrator.

ACE Donates Gas Monitors To Two Local Volunteer Fire Departments

by Dana Winters

Volunteer fire departments from both Oakland and Grantsville will now be able to detect hazardous chemicals, gases, and areas with oxygen deficiencies through the use of gas monitors donated by the Agricultural Care & Education (ACE) program, an integrated consortium delivery system of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, the Garrett County Health Department, and Maryland institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems (MIEMSS).

For maximum benefit, monitors were placed with the two fire departments that have the greatest coverage areas, serving both agricultural and non-farming communities, according to ACE program director Mikal McCartney.

"Farmworkers are at risk when exposed to dangerous gases such as those contained in silos and other confinement areas. These gas monitors will be available in coordination with the ACE program and the local fire departments to monitor non-emergency agricultural settings for toxic gas situations by request from individuals, farming agencies, and community groups. Educational programs using the gas monitors to demonstrate potential hazardous situations and how to avoid risks in agricultural settings will also be available by request," explained McCartney.

"To ensure the safety of those living in the entire Garrett County region, both fire departments will respond to the needs of those living outside of Oakland's and Grantsville's service areas," said Fred Callis, president of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department and coordinator for the gas monitor training. "In our area, all fire, rescue, emergency medical and police agencies provide a 'team approach' to caring for the entire community."

The new monitors are available for use in homes, factories, motor vehicle accidents involving hazardous materials, and confined space accidents such as those involving silos.

The gas monitors provide additional emergency protection to the public and give vital emergency information feedback to emergency medical and fire and rescue providers. This state-of-the-art equipment provides immediate information to emergency providers, helping them to evaluate a potentially hazardous situation in order to determine how best to deal with it. According to Callis, in the past when a detection device of such quality was needed, local fire departments would have to summon the equipment from distances as far away as 50 miles, adding over an hour to critical decision-making scenarios.

"When entering a dangerous area, the monitors will give us firsthand knowledge of what we're going into, hopefully reducing or eliminating the risk of injury or death to all parties involved," said Callis.

Callis cautioned that the monitors are not a "cure-all" for correcting a mechanical defect causing hazardous gases. "The fire department can tell you if there are hazardous gases or areas with oxygen deficiencies present and will make recommendations to correct these problems; however, we encourage people to call their local gas company anytime a problem situation occurs," he said.

"The Grantsville and Oakland Volunteer Fire Departments are very appreciative of the ACE program's support. Garrett County is fortunate to have these state-of-the-art monitors available which will enhance our efforts to make our communities safer places for everyone," said Callis.

Also represented in the parade was the Deer Park Community VFD, which sent its brush/rescue truck, as well as the Elk Garden VFD, which received the longest distance award for an out-of-state department. Two Sentenced In District Court On Triple Battery Convictions

A young Deer Park man was sentenced in last week's Garrett County District Court proceedings to serve three months in jail, and a young Mountain Lake Park man will spend one month in the same facility, after being found guilty of battery in December 1995.

Benjamin J. Shaffer, 22, Deer Park, and Charles J. Getson, 21, Mtn. Lake Park, who were each convicted of three counts of battery by Allegany District Court Judge W. Timothy Finan in the absence of Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett, were also ordered to jointly pay $952.45 in restitution to the victims, James R. Freeman ($660.90), Melissa Raines ($196.81), and Margaret Harvey (94.74). Following a pre-sentence investigation, Shaffer was initially sentenced to six months in jail, but all was suspended except for three months, and Getson's sentence, initially set for six months, was all suspended except for one month.

Both Shaffer and Getson will be on one year of supervised probation upon their release from incarceration. Conditions of that probation states that neither is to have any contact with the victims, and Getson was ordered to participate in whatever substance abuse counseling is recommended by the parole and probation board. Other charges of assault, malicious destruction of property, and trespassing had not been prosecuted against the defendants during their hearing in December.

The charges against the pair, filed by Freeman, stemmed from an Oct. 22, 1995, incident at Freeman Ambulance Service, Inc., Oakland. Garrett County sheriff's deputies had responded to the scene where Shaffer and Getson had reportedly forced their way into the building through a door being held shut by Harvey and Raines. Once inside, the two beat Freeman and then fled. Raines and Harvey were reportedly knocked to the floor during the altercation, and flower pots and a copy machine were damaged.

In an related case, Freeman, 30, Oakland, was handed a 30-day suspended sentence for his guilty verdict in December 1995, of one count of malicious destruction of property. A pre-sentence investigation had [illegible] following the verdict. He was placed on one year of unsupervised probation. A charge of battery, also filed against Freeman, was not prosecuted during his hearing in December.

The charges against Freeman filed by Shaffer, followed a Sept. 27, 1995, altercation in the parking lot at the Treasure Island store, where the defendant reportedly damaged a 1989 Ford Festiva that Shaffer was operating, by ramming it in an attempt to crush Shaffer.

A cross-complaint in the altercation was filed against Shaffer, by Freeman. In this case, Shaffer was not prosecuted on one count each of assault, trespassing, and battery. Court records indicate the altercation between the two that occurred on Sept. 27, 1995, also took place at Diamond Billiards, owned by Freeman.

In an unrelated case, Freeman pleaded not guilty, but was found guilty of one count of battery. For this offense he received a 30-day suspended sentence, was fined $55 in court costs, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. Conditions of his probation state he must attend a male batterers' program in Cumberland, or a comparable program in Garrett County. The charge stemmed from an April 23, 1995, attack on Melissa V. Raines, where he reportedly struck her on the face, head, ribs, and back, during a dispute.

In other district court news, Steven G. Savage, 36, Friendsville, and Bradley Hoover, 21, Accident, each pleaded guilty in Judge Finan's court to one count of battery. Each received a 30-day suspended sentence for the offense, was placed on one year of unsupervised probation, and fined $200. Conditions of Savage's and Hoover's probation state they must have no contact with the victim, Gregory Sines.

The men were charged with battery after an Oct. 8, 1995, incident involving an attack on Sines in the parking lot of the Guardian Apartments in Friendsville. Court records indicate the victim claimed Savage made an unprovoked attack on him and struck him in the face with his open hand. Savage reportedly ordered Sines to "come on, fight me," but Sines refused. In the meantime, according to the charging statement, Hoover grabbed Sines by the neck and threw him down. He then picked Sines up and held him against the car with his hand on the victim's throat. Sines said the defendants later let him go, and left.

During a sentence revision hearing for Barbara Hardesty, 34, Oakland, she was granted probation before judgment on an earlier guilty verdict for battery. She was convicted of the offense in May after an altercation at the Backbone Mountain Inn with William Hatley.

Mark H. Cosner, 24, Swanton, pleaded guilty in court proceedings to one count of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS). He was sentenced to serve a 30-day term in the Garrett County Jail. An additional charge of manufacturing, distributing, and dispensing a controlled dangerous substance was not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

The charges against Cosner stemmed from an investigation by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office that involved assistance from a confidential informant who was given money to purchase marijuana from the defendant. The investigating officer reportedly followed the informant and Cosner to a residence in Allegany County, watched Cosner enter the residence, come back out, and leave to return to Garrett County. Later, after the informant dropped Cosner off at his residence, the officer searched the vehicle and found 5.5 grams of marijuana in the glove box.

Two Grafton, W.Va., residents pleaded guilty in last week's district court proceedings to one count each of CDS possession. Jennifer M. Jenkins, 28, and Randall O. Pitman, 34, were each placed on 180 days of supervised probation for the offense. Jenkins was fined $50 in court costs, and Pitman was assessed a $155 fine. Additional charges of possession of CDS paraphernalia filed against the two were not prosecuted.

The charges against the defendants were filed by officers from the Oakland/Garrett County Narcotics Task Force after a Feb. 7 incident at the Wisp Hotel. The officers reportedly smelled the odor of suspected marijuana coming from a room occupied by Jenkins and Pitman, and subsequently confronted the two. A consent to search the room revealed both defendants were in possession of a small quantity of marijuana and its related paraphernalia, resulting in their arrests.

Jeffrey P. Gainer, 28, Belpre, Ohio, was convicted on one count of CDS possession. He was fined $155, and placed on 180 days of supervised probation. One count of possession of CDS paraphernalia was not prosecuted by the state's attorney. Conditions of his probation state he must attend and successfully complete a drug education program with his local health department.

Gainer was charged with the offense on Feb. 6, at the Wisp Resort. According to the charging statement, he and two others were observed taking turns sitting in a vehicle parked in a lot near the ski slopes. As they left the area where the vehicle was parked, an officer with the narcotics task force noticed an odor of burned marijuana, confronted them and obtained permission to search the vehicle. The search reportedly resulted in the confiscation of a plastic bag containing marijuana, several items of drug paraphernalia, and the men's subsequent arrest.

STORAGE SPACE DONATED TO RED CROSS - Frank and Linda Lancelotta, owners and operators of Garrett County Self Storage, recently donated use of a storage unit to the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross to house the organization's disaster preparedness, health services, water safety, and other program materials. Pictured left to right are Carol Dearden, chapter vice-chairperson; Frank Lancelotta; and Thelma Kelley, chapter treasurer. "These caring, community-minded people make it possible for Red Cross to function effectively for our community," Kelley remarked.

Groves will now begin contacting Woodmen members in the area to provide fraternal and insurance services. He will also assist non-members seeking information about the Woodmen fraternity and its line of insurance and investment services.

He recently returned from Woodmen's "Sure Start" training school for new field staff conducted at the society's home office in Omaha, Neb. There, he studied the basic operations of the organization and its services.

Founded in 1890, WOW is one of the largest fraternal benefit societies in the U.S. offering life insurance and fraternal benefits. The society's 850,000 members hold more than one million insurance certificates worth more than $28 billion of insurance in force.
